POLISH WORKERS PROTEST AGAINST TREATMENT OF JEWS

(By International Jewish Press Bureau)

Warsaw.—An open letter from the Polish workingmen to the government has been published in the press. The letter contains ten questions asking the administration to account for certain unpopular measures, among which is a reference to the Jewish situation in Poland. The government is frankly blamed for having spread false notions concerning the Jewish situation and concerning the commissions which were sent to Poland to investigate the matter.

GENERAL ALLENBY PRAISES

(By International Jewish Press Bureau)

London.—The Jews here gave a hearty reception to General Allenby at a meeting in his honor in Guildhall, at which Chief Rabbi Hertz was chairman. General Allenby spoke and praised the heroism shown by the Jewish legionnaires, whom he said were the equals of the soldiers of any other nationality.

HORRIBLE SUFFERING AMONG JEWS IN PINKS

(By International Jewish Press Bureau)

Warsaw.—The suffering among the Jews in Pinks is so horrible that it is almost beyond description. More than a third of the Jewish population is living on what is sent by the American Jewish Relief agencies. Hundreds of families live in the synagogues and former institutional buildings. Without clothing and with scarcely any food, the situation for these people is tragic. The Kehillah has gone out of existence, and there is no such thing as any Jewish public life.

JEWISH-POLISH EDITOR ARRESTED FOR DEFENDING A JEW

(By International Jewish Press Bureau)

Warsaw.—N. Volkvitch, editor of the Polish-Jewish daily, "Dzienik," has been arrested, on the charge that he attacked a Polish gendarme, who had murdered a Jew.

ANTI-SEMITISM IN HUNGARY

(By International Jewish Press Bureau)

Budapest.—Even when no organized pogroms take place, the Jews here are forced to suffer all sorts of shameful annoyances. It is a common practice for Hungarian officers to guide Roumanian soldiers into Jewish homes and give them permission to rob and beat and arrest the Jews. Even in the court rooms, Jews are beaten without redress, and there have been instances when the judge and the court-attendants have taken a hand in the attacks. Many of the professors in the Budapest University and in the technical high schools have refused to conduct their recitations, because of the fact that Jewish students were not allowed to enter the courses.

JEWISH MINISTERS IN THE UKRAINIAN CABINET

(By International Jewish Press Bureau)
Odessa.—Four Jews have become Ministers in the Ukrainian Cabinet. The Poale-Zionist Gherman and the Bundist Breitman are Assistant Ministers in the Department of Labor; M. Doladar is the Assistant-Minister of National Defense, and M. Krasni the Minister for Jewish Affairs.

ABRAHAM CAHAN RETURNS TO NEW YORK

(By International Jewish Press Bureau)
New York.—After spending almost a year studying the Jewish situation in the various countries of Europe, Abraham Cahan, the editor of the Forward, has returned to New York. He arrived Thursday morning on the steamship "La France," and was met at the pier by committees of welcome from many unions and labor organizations, and also by a large delegation from the staff of the Forward.

A reception has been arranged for Saturday night at Carnegie Hall, in honor of Mr. Cahan. There he will give an account of his work in behalf of the Jews in the war-stricken countries of Europe, and he is expected to give many facts which he was not able to disclose before.

Besides Mr. Cahan's address which will be the principal event of the evening, the brilliant Jewish musical group, the "Zimro," will play appropriate selections of chamber music, and Pincus Yasinovsky will sing Jewish folk-songs.

Abraham Cahan will be guest of honor at a dinner on Sunday evening also.

CONFERENCE IMPRESSIONS

By Dr. Rudolph I. Coffee,
Temple Judea, Chicago

The sobering effects of victory were seen at every turn in the Zionist ranks this past week. Instead of a noisy band of zealous patriots who were dreaming dreams, they appeared to be perfectly aware of the actual realization of their longings. Professor Felix Frankfurter, on Monday night, summed up the feeling when he said that the Zionist aspirations had been granted at the Peace Conference in fact, though not in form. After only twenty-two years of propaganda—an insignificant period of time for the spread of world ideals—the Zionist cause seems to be concluding the first chapter of its wonderful movement.

This feeling of victory has sobered the delegates. They accept the responsibility very gravely and are prepared with economic, political and industrial plans as well as spiritual thoughts in mind. They have not time for mere shouting and oratorical flights, although the sentimental aspect did overcome the delegates at moments, for example, as when Herzl's name was mentioned, and the whole assembly as one man arose and sang "Hatikvah." The very personnel of the delegates was changed. Substantial business men were in the majority, Jews with national reputations for being level headed men of affairs were to be seen on every side. College men, jurists, and scholars mingled with experienced publicists so that the gathering was representative of the best in American Jewry.

Such a body, in its very composition, was the best refutation to the again repeated charge about our divided loyalty. The attack should have been utterly ignored, and most speakers did so. For anyone to charge lack of Americanism to an assembly composed of Judge Brandeis, member of the Supreme Court and Judge Mack, member of that very important Board during the war to investigate conscientious objectors, and Col. Harry Cutler, the one man recognized by the Government as head of all Jewish war activities, and Dr. Stephen S. Wise, perhaps the most influential minister in America today, to impute divided loyalty to these men and their colleagues is too ridiculous to need reply. They have the ear of the President himself.

And finally, we are not left in the air about the next step. So many idealist movements are merely projected without careful consideration of the practical details involved. One speaker, privately, said that the history of Jewry in New York City would serve as an excellent example of how not to proceed in Jerusalem. He had reference not only to the speculation in land and the shameful advances in rent, of course in the Jewish districts most inexcusably, but also the anarchy which has ruled in matters where there should be Jewish leadership and joint action by all the members of Israel. The new Zion will produce something more than gunmen. And as for the charge that Zionists are so very largely irreligious, whatever that term may mean, it has remained for men, chiefly Zionists, to do more to protect the Jewish Sabbath than hundreds of years spent in waiting, and scolding. The Sabbath, dear to millions of Jews, is protected from now on because of Zionist efforts at the Peace Conference.

Pittsburgh Jewish War Sufferers Campaign

(Specially Reported for the Jewish Criterion)

"Splendid. Pittsburgh has set a wonderful precedent for New York and Chicago to follow."

Thus Henry H. Rosenfelt, director of the American Jewish War Relief Committee sums up the ending of the campaign in Western Pennsylvania, when at one of the biggest mass meetings in the history of the city's Jewry, a gross total of $1,178,385 was reported for the 26 counties, of which Allegheny county contributed $662,767 and, as many of the larger communities in the district had delayed their campaigns because of local conditions, the managers of the campaign believe the total will reach one and a quarter million of dollars.

At the present rate of allowance, the amount contributed by Western Pennsylvania will keep alive 1,000,000 starving, homeless, suffering people, for more than 72 days.

No quota had been set for this district, but the aim of Chairman Irvin F. Lehman and his associates was to obtain at least $1,000,000 and the immensity of this task may be realized when it is remembered that outside of Allegheny county Western Pennsylvania contributed less than $80,000 last year and Allegheny county realized little more than $400,000 under the stimulus of war generosity.

To obtain this sum an army of more than 10,000 men and women throughout Western Pennsylvania was organized by Chairman Lehman, and it is due to his untiring and devoted efforts that so high a sum was realized.

Every district in every county in the territory was organized. Jew and Christian combined in a common cause for the alleviating of suffering humanity, worked together with an enthusiasm and eagerness seldom witnessed and while the larger amount of the money was raised from Jews, the contributions from the non-Jews amounted to hundreds of thousands of dollars. The weeks of effort preliminary to the campaign are no longer news. Day after day and night after night, Chairman Lehman, Miss Sophie Levine, who was executive secretary for Allegheny county, Fred Ruslander, publicity director, and many others toiled unceasingly. Then came the quarter million dollars dinner in the Concordia Club, where swayed by the eloquence of Louis Marshall, chairman of the American Jewish Relief Committee, Rabbi Nathan Krass, of New York and Rabbi S. H. Goldenson, of Pittsburgh, all records for dinner donations were broken.

Other mass meetings were held. Bernard Horwitz, a commissioner of the Joint Distribution Committee and Harris Selig, executive secretary of the Central Jewish Relief Committee addressed a meeting of orthodox Jews in the William Penn hotel and under the auspices of the Peoples Jewish Relief Committee, B. Zuckerman and Max Pine, both commissioners in Poland, addressed an audience that filled the Lyceum theater last Sunday.

Then, on Tuesday night last the workers gathered in the big hall room of the William Penn hotel to hear the final reports. There was an air of confidence prevailing. It seemed to be understood that Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania could not fail—that the call for aid from suffering co-religionists would not go unheeded, and that this district would not allow a real need to be unfilled.

An orchestra concert by Nossokoff's orchestra preceded the call to order and when Judge Josiah Cohen, who presided, arose, a thunder of applause greeted him.

After a prayer by Rabbi M. M. Mazure, of the Tree of Life Synagogue, a brief address was made by I. W. Frank, in which he paid tribute to the efforts of the chairman and to the work of the individual members on the teams.

Col. Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, made a scholarly address on the virtues of charity, and the Rev. Dr. Homer A. Flint, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal church, who has been unsparing in his efforts for the success of the campaign, pleaded for a better understanding of the fundamentals of the Jewish and Christian religions by each sect.

Marcus Rauh, first vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, made a brief address after which A. Leo Weil, in an address, presented Mr. Lehman with the original pastel of the window poster used in the campaign.

Mr. Weil told a little of the plans for reconstruction being considered by the Joint Distribution Board. He said that a corporation with a capital of $25,000,000 would be formed to loan money to the various Jewish communities in order that they may become self supporting. The proceeds of this relief campaign, Mr. Weil explained, would be used to furnish food and raiment, and while similar aid would probably be needed in the future, the plan now was to rebuild industry through a chain of institutions resembling banks in their functions, throughout the devastated regions. The capital stock would be sold on a very small interest guarantee.

Mr. Weil again paid tribute to the chairman and his aides and praised the conduct of the campaign, the results of which, he declared, but fulfilled the predictions of all who knew the Jewish heart of America.

Mr. Lehman, in his address, devoted most of his time to mentioning the work of those who had aided him in the campaign. He paid particular thanks to Miss Levine, Fred Ruslander and Leo Robin, of the publicity committee, Aaron Cohen, vice chairman for Western Pennsylvania and many others, especially the following: A. J. Sunstein, treasurer; L. J. Adler, associate treasurer; Julius Levin, Louis Caplan, secretary of the general committee; Stanley Kann and J. C. Naley, auditors; Cass Sunstein, Superintendent Geoffrey, of the Y. M. H. A., and the teams of that organization, particularly the Produce yard team which under William Joseph and Messrs. Plittman and Zimmer obtained more than $16,000; Benjamin Wald and William Burstin, two boys of the Fifth Avenue High School who raised $231.65 among the students after school hours; Mrs. Josiah Cohen, who working as an individual team brought in many subscriptions, the personnel of the headquarters staff, including Miss Martin, Miss Stewart, Miss Brogauer, Miss Metz, Miss Gibbons, Mrs. Blunt, Miss Thompson, Miss Catherine Mahaffey, Miss Elinore Silver, Miss Lucy Americus, Miss Anna S. Weinstein, Miss Esther Cohen, Miss Dora Breskin, and the Western Pennsylvania organizers, George Ketchum, William Arthur, Julius Paglin, David Glick and H. Ralph Davis, and Miss Cluster.

Mr. Lehman spoke of the work of L. S. Levin, chairman of the speakers' committee, and of the industrial team which was compelled to stop work after the organization was complete.

The boroughs and township team was given special thanks. This team was herded by A. Leo Weil, chairman, and Peter Glick, secretary, with William Bell, Frank J. Harris, and the Rev. Dr. Homer A. Flint. Mr. Bell was particularly active in the campaign, leaving his duties in the Bank of Pittsburgh for nearly two weeks and aiding in obtaining the necessary chairman. Mr. Glick was paid particular commendation for the hours of strenuous labor he had given and the excellence of the results obtained.

The preparation of supplies also was commended. This work was conducted by Mrs. Jacob Wolf, Mrs. Max Perlman, Juliet Sidenberg, Mrs. Ferdinand Weil, Miss Julia Host and Miss Ashinsky.

The work of Miss Miriam Schoenfeld of the Sunday School team, Miss Stella Lazarus for the libraries and Mrs. Enoch Rauh of the Schools was praised.

Mr. Lehman spoke of the work done by the orthodox congregations, the collections from which will exceed $70,000. He particularly thanked Rabbis Goldenson, Mazure, Ashinsky, Sintz and Toloshko for their co-operation in the campaign.

The general officers of the campaign were:

the 'newer' suits are here

And they have just that "difference"—that makes for individuality—and exclusiveness.

Suits in the season's colours—Taupe, Beaver, Reindeer, Henna, Navy and Black—of the season's new materials—Duvetyn, Peach-bloom, Tinseltones, Silvertones, Velours, Tricotines and Serges—but with certain little details of general makeup that make them different from the season's popular styles—and its this difference that makes them desirable.

There are models handsomely trimmed with Fur—Hudson Seal, Squirrel, Beaver, Nutria, Fox, Oppossum and Mole that picture the elegant and luxurious in Suit Modes.

And the prices—just a little less than you would expect—but enough to make it worth your while to see them.

Suits of the finer type priced at from $110.00 to $345.00. In the cheaper suits, very desirable little models, untrimmed, as low as $35.00.

The AMPICO
Reproducing Piano

The Recognition Test

IF you are a concert goer we propose this means of establishing to your own satisfaction the genuineness of the Ampico's achievement as a Reproducing Piano.

Come to the FREDERICK STORE and hear your favorite ARTIST play a selection by your favorite composer. While the Ampico is playing, ask yourself not merely whether you are hearing an artistic performance of the work. Ask yourself whether you are not actually hearing the artist. You will immediately recognize the touch, phrasing, rhythm, the color and all the subtle characteristics of the artist's playing.

The Ampico may also be used to play any 88-note roll, to which you may impart your own interpretations, and the piano itself is at all times available for hand playing.

Fine Workmanship Does Not Depend On Fancy Fabrics!

It is a feature of Hickey-Freeman Clothes for Men that the workmanship never borrows its charms from the novelty of the fabrics. Even in those staple weaves which are used in all clothes, whoever makes them, there is something in Hickey-Freeman workmanship which individualizes the quietest fabric and elevates it above the rank and file by the SHEER beauty of its tailoring and the SHEAR beauty of its lines!

DR. WISE OFFERS TO RESIGN FROM FREE SYNAGOGUE

Announces in Sermon That Several Members Have Left Congregation Because of Sermon on "Garyism."—Says He Recants Nothing.—Adds That He Recognizes Abuses Which Obtain in Ranks of Organized Labor.

Dr. Stephen S. Wise yesterday offered to resign as chief rabbi of the Free Synagogue, which numbers some of the wealthiest Jews in New York among its supporters. This was his reply to exceptions taken by several members of the congregation to his attack the previous Sunday on the attitude of Elbert H. Gary and the United States Steel Corporation toward the steel strikers.

Dr. Wise announced that several members of the congregation already had withdrawn, while letters received indicated still more were on the verge of abandoning their membership. He then declared he not only had nothing to recant, but wished to emphasize his view of "Garyism." With that he offered his resignation, saying he preferred to have no synagogue rather than to lose his self-respect.

Speaking of plans to erect an edifice for the Free Synagogue, Dr. Wise said he had never had an agreement limiting his absolute freedom to utter what his conscience dictated, and that he did not wish any man who has contributed or intends to contribute to be able to say later: "If I had known Dr. Wise's economic views I would not have given a penny."

Can Do Without Synagogue
"Putting it another way," continued Dr. Wise, "I stood ready to do without the support of men who could and can do much for the building of the Free Synagogue, but I felt that I would, if I must, do without a synagogue, without this meeting place or any other, but that I could not do without my self-respect."

"I cry out against Garyism and all that it means, namely, the denial to the workers of their right to organize and to deal collectively with their employers."

"But let no one imagine," he continued, "that I am blind to the abuses within the ranks of organized labor. I know not a little, but much, about the blackmail and corruption and thievery which are responsible for some of the almost inevitable ill will held against labor organizations by employers of labor. I know these things and I abhor them. I deplore them most because, believing in organized labor as I do, the rank abuses and corruption which have come to be frequently associated with the methods of organized labor make it the more difficult for one to defend organized labor and to insist upon its indispensable place in our democratic industrial system."

As Long As They Are Outlawed
"I venture to predict that there will be no betterment of conditions with respect to labor organization and leadership, and that the same practices and abuses that have for decades disfigured it will continue to obtain as long as it is outlawed or semi-outlawed; as long as it fails to have its normal and legitimate place within our industrial scheme."

"The one course to pursue is not to attempt to outlaw and crush them, but to regularize them, to give them legal sanction, to place upon them legal responsibility, whether they will or not."

Dr. Wise turned upon those who objected to what he had said with reference to the steel strike.

"Why," he demanded, "are some of you so disturbed about my attack on Judge Gary? I know the reason, as well as some of you. It is because he is to some of you a symbol; because he is fighting your battle, the battle which you would fight tomorrow if you dared; the battle which you believe he will win for you without your help; because you imagine that if Garyism can win unionism will be doomed and all workingmen's organizations be smothered."

Must Be Content With Truth
Referring to assertions made by some of his critics that his utterances hurt the name of Jews, Dr. Wise declared that if truth had that effect Jews must be content to bear it. He said:

"Were I persuaded that, right or wrong, true or false, my word would permanently and irremediably hurt my people. I would not be silent, but would instantly take myself out of the Jewish pulpit."

"I am ready today to make the test. I offer my congregation the privilege of passing upon the question whether I ought to remain as their leader and continue to be free to speak as I have spoken. I shall not be offended by any action my people choose to take. If it seem best in their sight that I withdraw from the ministry, as God is my witness, and as I believe that God will be judge between me and them that assail me, I will withdraw with nothing but friendship and good will and affection for every member of my congregation, whether I continue to serve it, or the time of my withdrawal has come."

Dr. Wise then revealed that he had conferred with members of the synagogue executive committee before he delivered his sermon last Sunday attacking Mr. Gary and the steel corporation.

None Denied His Right
Although some had been hurt industrially, he said none had denied him the right to speak as he felt he must. He was impelled by two considerations: Mr. Gary's refusal to confer with representatives of the steel workers and the Senate hearing, which he declared was farcical.

"The Senate committee," he said, "dealt with Judge Gary as if he were some sacrosanct person whose views touching public import might not be inquired into. It merely served to give Judge Gary further opportunity to show the immeasurable arrogance of the position he had taken."

Dr. Wise said he had received at least one letter characterizing him as Bolshevik, which, he said, was absurd in view of the fact that he opposed Bolshevism as he had opposed Czarism. Continuing, he said:

"That I am not a Bolshevik is as well known as is the fact that Judge Gary is not a secret agent of the American Federation of Labor. That I am not a Bolshevik is clear to everyone, including those who are prepared to destroy any man if he be a Jew, and others who, I am ready to believe, are ready to destroy me because I am not completely in sympathy with the Romanoff dynasty translated into the terms of the captaincy of the steel industry of America."

$2,978,992 IN WAR RELIEF EXPENDED BY JEWS IN SEPTEMBER

Cargoes and Money Were Sent to Central and Eastern Europe, Palestine and Near East for Destitute

New York.—The Jewish Joint Distribution Committee reported yesterday that $2,978,992 was expended during September for the relief of war sufferers in Central and Eastern Europe, Palestine and the Near East. The expenditures were made from funds raised by the American Jewish Relief Committee and other Jewish organizations.

The cargo sent to Poland on the Westward Ho cost $508,129.56, and the shipload of kosher beef sent to the same stricken country on the Ashburn cost $286,424.14. For soap sent overseas on the Thala and consigned to Poland there was an outlay of $15,249.60, and $48,158.56 represented the balance of £29,000 allocated for clothing to be bought in London.

For general relief in Lithuania $150,000 was expended, and $500,000 was sent to Paris for distribution at the discretion of the Emergency Relief.

The cargo of kosher meat and cottonseed oil which was shipped on the Polybius for people of the Central Powers cost $287,249.49, while an additional $300,000 went to Paris to aid refugees in Vienna. The Zionist Relief Organization in Russia was sent $320,000 to reimburse that organization for moneys paid out by it. The rest was disbursed as follows:

For the cargo of food and clothing shipped on the Jacona and consigned to Roumania, $239,786.27; Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society, toward the maintenance of the Refugee House in Yokohama, $5,000 a month in June, July, August and September; to Palestine $70,000 a month for general relief in July, August and September; $75,000 to Palestine for the relief of Jewish war orphans; $10,000 a month for the maintenance of the Dreyfus and Straus soup kitchens and health bureau in September and October.

Nor were the Jewish refugees in Constantinople forgotten; $4,000 was sent to help them.

HELP FOR WAR SUFFERERS

Braddock, Pa., and General Notes

Eight thousand dollars were raised in Braddock for the Jewish War Relief Fund, $4,000 of which were pledged on Yom Kippur in Synagogue Agudath Achim in response to the appeal made by Rabbi M. Kirschprung of Congregation Agudath Achim.

Among those who were active and helped to the success of the campaign were Max Schwartz, President of the congregation; Mr. B. Markovitz, Mr. E. Shapiro, Mr. Shermer, Attorney Rosenberg.

On Friday, the second day of Succoth, Rabbi Kirschprung delivered a sermon on Succoth.

The Bar-Mitzvah of Morris Wilner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wilner, of Braddock will take place on Saturday, October 18, in Synagogue Agudath Achim.

UNVEILING OF MONUMENT

The Unveiling of the Monument erected to the memory of Joseph Lowenstein, of Latrobe, Pa., will take place on Sunday, October 19, 1919, at 3:00 p. m. at West View cemetery.

STEPHEN WISE NOT A BOLSHEVIK

The most radical utterances that have come from a pulpit in a decade were those of Rabbi Stephen Wise, of the Free Synagogue, in connection with the unionizing of the steel workers. Not even Crapsey's heretic speeches in Rochester some years ago made such an impression throughout the country. The resentment created by Rabbi Wise's attacks on Gary is nation wide and we heard some of the letters received by him read from his pulpit last Sunday and they were severe enough to test the courage of any man.

However this is no time for the Jews of the country to lose their heads because one of their leaders has seen fit to take a strong stand on the subject of unionism. We may not, and probably most of us do not agree with his views, but we must not permit ourselves to indulge in loose language of the street and call him such names as "Bolshevist" and "Anarchist". Dr. Stephen Wise is neither; in fact he is poles apart from those who preach and teach those pernicious doctrines; and no one has scored Bolshevism in harder terms than the Rabbi of the Free Synagogue. In fact it may be interesting for our readers to know (and this is official) that the leaders of the Administration urged Dr. Wise to remain in this country during the war to use his influence and lift his voice against the inroads of Bolshevism; and while he wanted to go abroad during the war and lend the weight of his efforts on the other side like a true patriot he obeyed the orders of his government and remained here. So let us once and for all time end this stupid and utterly ridiculous charge that Dr. Wise is a Bolshevist because he spoke in plain terms on a subject concerning labor. Dr. Wise in our hearing explicitly stated that he would bend every effort at his command in a "lawful and orderly way" to assist labor to unionize. That was not the utterance of the Bolshevist nor of the anarchist and there are enough non-Jews accusing us of being Bolshevists without thoughtless Jews adding fuel to the flames.

And please remove from your minds the thought that the leader of the Free Synagogue gave utterance to such bold statements because he was seeking sensationalism; don't believe that for a moment; no man in his right mind would pay the price that Dr. Wise has just to get his name on the front page of newspapers. No one who talks to him but must feel that he is swayed by a deep conviction that he is fighting for a principle and will pay every price even to relinquishing the Jewish pulpit, if necessary, to put it over. In fact at the very moment this is being written, the Executive Council of the Free Synagogue, of which Abram Elkus is President, is holding a meeting to decide whether or not Dr. Wise should continue to hold the pulpit. Now all this is too serious for any man to play with. So we must understand first and last that Dr. Wise's stand on economic and industrial questions is prompted by the sincerest motives. We feel that Dr. Wise is in error in the position he has assumed; we feel that the moment was ill timed for his utterances; we believe that calm expression is the all-essential just at this time when the whole economic world is in a turmoil and when there seems to be a definite campaign going on by the radicals to overthrow even unionism in labor as well as capital. And words of such an influential man as Stephen Wise are seized upon by the radicals as an excuse for further disorder. So far as we can ascertain, no one objects to the union; even the steel corporation doesn't object to the hiring of union men, but the point at issue is that men should have the opportunity of seeking employment without the necessity of belonging to a union.

To us there is at this moment as great a struggle going on in the ranks of labor as there is between labor and capital; and of what is of greater import is that hundreds of thousands of workmen are making agreements through their accredited leaders, then treating those agreements as so many "scraps of paper". In fact there are today seventy strikes going on in this country and only six of them are authorized by union officials, the remainder are outlaw uprisings, made contrary to solemn agreements.

At any rate it is not our purpose to enter into a discussion of the industrial situation at this time, but merely to remind the members of the Pittsburgh Jewish community that this is no time, and there is no occasion for indulging in violent or vituperative language against the Rabbi of the Free Synagogue because he has seen fit to take a position on an economic subject that is opposite to ours. He has at least the courage to express his convictions and to sacrifice everything for a principle. There are not many such these days.

PUTTING IT OVER

The Jewish War Relief Campaign has come to a glorious close with a total collection of one million two hundred thousand dollars more than even the most sanguine expected. It was a wonderful campaign, wonderfully conducted and great credit is due Irvin Lehman, who has shown himself possessed of executive and organizing ability of the highest order. Not a detail was omitted, not a step forgotten that would in any way promote the success of the campaign. And we cannot overlook the splendid spirit shown by those of the non-Jewish faith who united in the most enthusiastic manner to help the great cause. Not within the history of the Jewish community of Pittsburgh have our neighbors ever entered so whole-heartedly in a work of Jewish benefit. And to us this is the most significant and heartening feature of the entire campaign. And we pray that this spirit of good will and good fellowship will not be permitted to lapse now that this particular goal has been achieved; let us strive to see that those barriers that have been leveled will remain leveled. Let us all co-operate in all work of common welfare and do away for all time with the feelings of distrust and suspicion which are after all only the outgrowth of lack of knowledge of each other.

The press of Pittsburgh; the clergy of Pittsburgh; the leaders in industrial, professional and business life; the educators; even the school children; men and women of all faiths; everybody in who in any way assisted in this undertaking for suffering humanity will receive the heartfelt thanks of the thousands of starving ones in Europe to whom these funds will go to pay for the mere necessities of life. It has been a noble task nobly done and all honor due to the young man, Irvin Lehman, who has proved himself through SERVICE of being one of Pittsburgh's most useful citizens.

A GREAT JEWESS

Lillian D. Wald is one of the three women representing the public at the most important conference called in this country since the civil war. No one familiar with the seriousness of present economic conditions can for a moment question the extraordinary importance of the gathering now in Washington to attempt to stabilize the very life of our nation today. And it is gratifying that the President of the United States has chosen a Jewess to be among those chosen for the momentous task that has been imposed upon the leaders of the nation. But any one who has followed the career of Lillian Wald will easily understand that one who has done so much constructive work for the benefit of society would be selected for just such work as the Industrial Conference is now being called upon to consider. Miss Wald is a credit to the Jewish women of America; for years she has enjoyed the utmost confidence of the foremost leaders of Jewry throughout the world; her judgment has invited the respect of them all. We are sure that she will once more prove that the responsibility that has been placed upon her has been justified.

RABBI WISE UPHELD AFTER GARY ATTACK

Free Synagogue Council Reaffirms His Duty to Speak the Truth as He Sees It.—Preacher Offered to Quit.—Resolutions Disavow Expression of Opinion as to Merits of His Criticism of Steel Man.

The Executive Council of the Free Synagogue yesterday upheld the right of Rabbi Sephen S. Wise to speak his views on any question, religious, spiritual, social or political. The council met in the evening at the Synagogue House, 36 West Sixty-eighth Street, and discussed the offer made by Dr. Wise last Sunday to resign if any considerable number of the members of his congregation desired him to do so in view of his attack on E. H. Gary's attitude in the steel strike.

Although not all the members of the council agreed with Rabbi Wise's views on Judge Gary and on unionism, a resolution upholding the idea of a free pulpit, introduced by Oscar F. Strauss, was unanimously carried. The motion was seconded by Dr. Lee K. Frankel.

After Mr. Wise's attack on Judge Gary a week ago last Sunday there was considerable comment among the members of his congregation. For the benefit of all those who had not had the opportunity of hearing his original sermon, Dr. Wise repeated his views last Sunday and offered to resign.

Thereupon Abram I. Elkus, Chairman of the Executive Council, called a special meeting of that body last evening.

Those present were: Edward Davis, Samuel Samuel, Charles E. Block, Dr. Lee K. Frankel, Frederick L. Guggenheimer, Walter S. Heilborn, H. M. Kaufman, Joseph M. Levine, G. Levor, Morris May, D. K. Moses, Benjamin Schloss, Oscar S. Straus, Israel N. Thurman, Edmond Uhry, M. E. Wormser.

Resolution Supporting Rabbi

The resolution adopted was as follows:

Whereas, As a result of a recent address delivered by Dr. Stephen S. Wise on a phase of the existent social and industrial unrest, there arose considerable comment both in the public press and among the members of the congregation with respect thereto; and

Whereas, So far as the Free Synagogue is concerned, the only question which was or can be raised by reason of Dr. Wise's recent utterances and the comment arising therefrom is as to the right of the rabbi of the congregation to express from its pulpit freely the truth as he sees it upon all moral, ethical, and spiritual questions;

Therefore, be it resolved, by the Executive Council of the Free Synagogue, believing that it speaks for practically the entire membership of the congregation, that it affirms and approves not only the right but the duty of its rabbi to speak the truth as he sees it upon any question, whether it be religious, spiritual, social, or political, and that it reaffirms and restates the principle upon which the Free Synagogue was founded in the words of its original constitution, to-wit:

"Believing that the power of the synagogue for good depends in part upon the inherent right of the pulpit to freedom of thought and speech, the founders of the Free Synagogue resolved that its pulpit shall be free to preach on behalf of truth and righteousness in the spirit and after the pattern of the prophets of Israel; and it is further

Resolved, That in reiterating the principles on which the Free Synagogue was founded the Executive Council does not attempt to express the views of the membership as to the timeliness of his address or as to the merits of its content.

The meeting lasted an hour and a half. Afterward, it was learned that one of the seven members of the congregation who resigned on learning of Dr. Wise's views on Judge Gary and the steel strike had withdrawn his resignation, although he still differed with the rabbi.

Many Letters Received

It was reported that many letters in support of Dr. Wise had been received from Jews and non-Jews, ministers, laymen, manufacturers and others. The letters whose writers disagreed with Dr. Wise, it was stated, were unsigned.

Now, that Dr. Wise has been upheld in his right to express his views on all questions, it is believed that plans for the new building fund campaign for the Free Synagogue, will be rapidly carried to completion. He hesitated to make an appeal for funds for the new building until he was sure that there would be no question as to his right to express his views on social and other questions from the pulpit.

THE NATURAL RESOURCES OF PALESTINE

"The Natural Resources of Palestine" was the title of a paper read by Dr. Herman Lebeson before the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Zionist Society of Engineers and Agriculturists at its regular meeting on Saturday evening, October 11th, at the Tree of Life Synagogue.

Dr. Lebeson stated that the soil of Palestine, is considered by expert geologists to be one of the most fertile in the world, and that eventually it was sure to rank with the largest agricultural countries, both in its abundance and diversity of crops.

In its industrial aspect, said the speaker, the future was not so definite. While there is limestone in large quantities all over the country for cement manufacture and a moderate amount of water falls for hydro-electric purposes, the deadening rule of the Turkish Government has prohibited all prospecting for oil, coal and other minerals. The fact that in the lands bordering on Palestine there is oil and coal in abundance, gives us high hopes of the probability that these fuels also enrich the soil of Palestine. However, continued Dr. Lebeson, industrial expansion need not await the discoveries of coal and oil in the soil of Palestine. All fuel necessary for industrial and metallurgical purposes can be obtained from countries within reasonable and economical shipping distances. In fact the distances are much less than when such commodities are shipped in the United States and Europe.

The meeting which was well attended in spite of the unfavorable weather was presided over by Mr. Carl J. Fechheimer.

ROCKEFELLERS GIVE $75,000 TO JEWISH FUND

Father and Son "Count It a Privilege To Be Permitted to Participate," Declares John D., Jr.—Offering Was Unsolicited.—"Humanity's Betterment Is Meeting Ground of All Races and Creeds," Says Colonel H. A. Guinzburg.

Among the contributions to the $10,000,000 United Building Fund which is being raised by the Federated Jewish Charities to provide permanent improvements for thirty-one charitable institutions is a gift of $75,000 from John D. Rockefeller and his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

The letters in which the offer was made and accepted were made public yesterday. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., wrote to Colonel H. A. Guinzburg, chairman of the general committee which is conducting the drive, as follows:

"My dear Colonel Guinzburg:

"My father and I have followed with interest the United Building Fund Campaign of the Federated Jewish Institutions. This method of financing permanent improvements now required by thirty-one of the charitable institutions included within the federation should meet with very general public approval and support. The wisdom and sound business judgment with which the Federated Jewish Institutions are managed are a credit to those in charge and to the city at large.

"Although we understand that contributions are being solicited only from those of the Jewish faith, since Jews and Christians alike are admitted to practically all of the institutions involved, my father and I would count it a privilege to be permitted to participate with our Jewish fellow citizens in the present enterprise. Therefore, if agreeable to your committee, it would be our pleasure to contribute, my father fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) and I twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000).

"Wishing the movement the success which it so richly deserves and of which it is assured under your able and devoted leadership, I am,

"Very truly,

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR."

Colonel Guinzburg's reply to the unsolicited offering was as follows:

"My dear Mr. Rockefeller:

"It is my privilege to acknowledge on behalf of the United Building Fund Campaign the contributions of $25,000 from yourself and $50,000 from your father. The fact that these gifts came spontaneously as an unsolicited offering makes them doubly welcome.

"It is extremely gratifying to enroll among our contributors two non-Jews who are justly famous for their many philanthropies. Social service is the common ground upon which Jew and Gentile may gather and work together; humanity's betterment is the meeting ground of all races and creeds.

"When we started our drive it was our intention to raise the sum of $10,000,000 from the Jews alone, for we felt that it was part of the burden of our Jewish citizenry to provide adequate housing for our sick and indigent. Although practically all of our institutions are non-sectarian in their service, we nevertheless assumed this share of community responsibility alone. We were therefore agreeably surprised to find that although we did not come to them many non-Jews, realizing that we are trying to meet a great civic problem asked to be permitted to subscribe to this fund.

"Will you convey our thanks to your father and accept the good wishes of the institutions affiliated in the United Building Fund and those who are working for the success of the campaign?"

"Sincerely yours,

"H. A. GUINZBURG,

"Chairman, Campaign Committee."

JEWISH WELFARE BOARD TENDERS RECEPTION TO THE KING AND QUEEN OF BELGIUM

Several leading Jewish citizens invited to meet King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium in New York City declined to attend because the observance of Yom Kippur fell on the day designated. A reception to the King and Queen was scheduled for October 4, and Colonel Harry Cutler, Chairman of the Jewish Welfare Board and other leading Jewish Welfare Board officials were invited to attend. However, Colonel Cutler sent the following letter to the nation's royal guests:

"To Their Majesties, the King and Queen of the Belgians:

It is with sincere regret that I am obliged to absent myself from the reception given in your honor Saturday afternoon, October 4, inasmuch as this Saturday is the Day of Atonement, the most sacred, Jewish religious holiday.

May I be permitted, however, as Chairman of the Jewish Welfare Board, representing the Jewish community of America, to extend to your Excellencies our most cordial greetings and heartfelt thanks.

We share the delight of high honor in greeting the distinguished rulers of that nation which has won immortality by its ennobling and inspiring heroism in the great War for Democracy.

May your days spent among us be replete with the happiness every American wishes for your Majesties.

With assurances of our deep regard and esteem, I beg to remain,

Sincerely and respectfully yours,

(Signed) Harry Cutler."

The Secretary to the King responded as follows:

"I have been directed by the King of the Belgians to have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your kind letter of October 3, and to express to you the thanks of Their Majesties for the cordial greetings and heartfelt welcome you have been so courteous as to extend to Them.

(Signed) Max Leo Girard
Secretary."

MIZRACHI MOVEMENT IN GALICIA

A conference of the leading Mizrahi members and workers was recently held at Cracow for the purpose of devising plans how to spread the Mizrahi idea in that section of Poland. As a result of the Conference, a committee was appointed whose functions are to organize Mizrahi Societies in the various cities of Western Galicia and ultimately to call a General Conference of Mizrahi representatives in that territory.

Polish Mizrahi Hold Palestine Conference

A conference, called jointly by the Mizrahi Central Bureau of Poland and the Palestine Bureau of the Zionist Organization, for the purpose of discussing Palestine colonization activity, was recently held at Warsaw, Sixty delegates, representing 38 societies exclusively devoted to practical colonization work participated. Mr. Farbstein, the noted Mizrahi leader, reported on the proceedings of the London Zionist Conference. The discussion centered upon ways and means of colonization in Palestine. The Conference decided to send a commission to Palestine which shall investigate the agricultural, industrial and commercial conditions of the land.

Mizrahi of Poland Undertake Educational Work

In accordance with its program of including in the scene of its activity, educational work in the lands of the Diaspora, the Mizrahi of Poland has opened a number of Jewish schools in various cities. The schools are of all classes; elementary, secondary schools, and Yeshiboths (Talmudical Academies). The Educational Committee of the Central Bureau has elaborated a set of curricula for the different schools which standardizes the methods and contents of instruction. This committee is also preparing to open shortly an Institute for higher Jewish learning. The campaign for an educational fund bearing the name of "Rabbi Akibah" which was established at the last Convention of the Polish Mizrahi is proving very successful and large sums are being raised throughout Poland.

The Central Bureau is continually urging its members to collect books and pamphlets on Jewish subjects in all languages, as well as all other articles of a historical value, such as photographs of Synagogues, Holy Arks, and Community Registration Books (Pinkosim), for the purpose of transmitting them to the National Library and Museum in Jerusalem.

German Mizrahi Again Active

The Mizrahi Organization of Germany has now resumed its activity, and is making considerable progress. The Mizrahi idea is rapidly spreading among the Orthodox Jewish youth, and an organization known as the "Young Mizrahi" has been formed, for the purpose of giving its members an opportunity to study the Hebrew language, Jewish history, Palestine problems, and all other subjects of Jewish interest.

At a Mizrahi Conference recently held at Berlin, Prof. Herman Struck, the President of the German Mizrahi, reported on the activity of the Mizrahi Central Bureau, and on the progress of the movement in Germany. The Conference decided to communicate with the other Mizrahi Organizations in regard to the calling of a World Mizrahi Conference.

The "Judische Press," a weekly publication founded by Dr. H. Hildesheimer, with a wide circulation among the Orthodox Jews of Germany, has now become the official organ of the German Mizrahi Organization.

Young Palestinian Jews Hold Conference at Jerusalem

A Conference of all branches of the "Hazoir Hoarzi Israeli" or the Young Palestinian, an Organization of the Jewish youth of Palestine, affiliated with the Mizrahi, has been held at Jerusalem. At this conference, a definite program of the Organization was elaborated and the scope of activity was outlined. The Organization was defined as one, loyal to traditional and national Judaism, and working for the realization of the Mizrahi Zionist Program. The purpose is, to unite all the young Orthodox Jews into one general organization, and to improve the economic and cultural status of the young Palestinian. The activities include, the organization of groups of agricultural laborers, and their preparation for ef-efficient agricultural work; the establishment of colonies; the improvement of the position of those members who are engaged as workingmen in the various branches of work and industry; the opening of bureaus which will supply information on all matters affecting employment, industry, and business. The Organization also aims to make the Hebrew tongue the dominant language in schools as well as in public life. Reports from the various branches were read at the conference, all of which told of the progress of the movement.

The Young Palestinian has already begun to realize some of its aims. The Jerusalem branch of the Organization is making preparations for the opening of a Technical School; a considerable number of young men have already registered as pupils. SAMUEL GOMPERS' REQUEST TO ROBT. LANSING

Jewish War Orphans to Be Brought to America

The Jewish Relief Committees in the United States are now preparing to care for several thousand Jewish orphans which they contemplate to bring into the United States, and to have them placed in various homes and institutions for maintenance and education. This announcement was made a few days ago by Mr. Abraham Zucker, Secretary of the Jewish People's Relief Committee.

Mr. Samuel Gompers has been interested in this work by the Jewish People's Relief Committee and he conferred with several heads of the State Department. Mr. Samuel Gompers addressed the following letter to the Honorable Robert Lansing, Secretary of State.

"While in the United States and in the interim between the second and last visits to Europe, a committee representing the organizations of Jewish people in the United States, and several conferences with me at the office of the American Federation of Labor, regarding the great suffering of the Jewish people in the war areas, and particularly the awful situation which the young children are placed in, the destruction of life, among them, the tremendous experience through which they have passed, and the desire of the Jewish people in the United States to alleviate their suffering. The people expressed their willingness to do everything within their power to bear the obligations and preserving and prolonging the life of these unfortunate children. Since my return to the United States a few weeks ago, the same committee called upon me with a similar purpose in view, and presented me with a document which I have the honor of presenting to you."

The memorandum on conditions of the Jewish orphans in the war zones which Mr. Gompers presented to Hon. Robert Lansing, was written by Mr. Alexander Kahn, chairman of the Jewish People's Relief Committee, who is also a member of the Orphan Committee of the Joint Distribution Committee, of which Mr. Felix M. Warburg is chairman.

Mr. Gompers further commented that the Jews of America have contributed over $25,000,000 for the alleviation of poverty, misery and for the safety of life for their people in Europe, and that they are willing to take charge of the children that may be brought to the United States from the devastated countries and sections, and distribute to families and institutions of the Jewish people, who pledge themselves to take the best care of the children.

Council of Jewish Women

Opening Meeting—Twenty-fifth Anniversary

The sixteenth consecutive year of Mrs. Enoch Rauh's presidency of the Council of Jewish women, Pittsburgh Section, was launched October 14th, at the Concordia Club with an enthusiastic open meeting. The occasion was one, which every privileged participant will treasure as an inspiring memory.

A beautifully appointed breakfast for members and guests preceded the program of the day. The following committees co-operated each detail as carefully outlined by Miss Rita Stein, chairman of program, having been carefully carried out: Social Committee, Mrs. J. A. Perley, Chairman; Music, Mrs. Morris Half, Acting Chairman; Hostess, (an innovation, inaugurated by the new chairman of program), Mrs. Edwin Zugsmith, Chairman; Art, Mrs. Alexander Speyer, Chairman; Publicity, Caroline E. L. Friedman, Chairman. The invocation was pronounced by Rabbi Mazure. Then followed a delightful surprise for the President, a Council birthday cake, holding sixteen lighted tapers, symbolic of the sixteen milestones of Council service rendered by Mrs. Rauh in the President's chair. Mr. Enoch Rauh, Mrs. Sol Rosenbloom, Chairman of Religion; Mrs. Louis Amschel, Chairman of Religious Schools and Mrs. Fannie Weinhaus, Chairman of Membership—a member of the board for 25 years were honor guests at the President's table.

As planned, the literary program of the meeting began at 1:30. The president called the meeting to order, giving the floor to Mrs. Moses Ruslander for the reading of the numerous telegrams received in honor of the occasion. Absent members and well wishers of the organization sent words of congratulation and good wishes—many of the communications, being personal tributes to Mrs. Rauh, words of appreciation for the great service she had and is rendering in Council and community work.

When the president arose to deliver the opening address the seven branded candle sticks, placed on the various tables, were lighted simultaneously, lending a hallowed glow to the occasion so sacred to every loyal council member. Mrs. Rauh gave a brief, stimulating talk, visualizing in her inimitable way, the early beginnings of the Council of Jewish Women in Pittsburgh, its loyal founder, Mrs. Rosenberg and her associates, urging the Council members, in the name of these women and the fine spirit of the organization itself, to ever greater efforts in the next quarter of a century of Council work, the opech in which they were just entering.

Mrs. Rauh then introduced the visiting artist, Mrs. May Stein Soble. With a few preliminary remarks as to the needs of these times, and the reason why she wrote her Bible Plays for children, Mrs. Soble made a setting for the readings, she subsequently gave. She admirably illustrated a theme dear to her heart, that of sustaining the ethics of the Bible. Breathing life into the ancient Jewish leaders, she made them real people for her twentieth century audience. From the moment Mrs. Soble asked her listeners to transfer themselves back to ancient times—to the far East—she held them tense with interest. Her readings were given with fine dramatic fire—a perfect atmosphere created for every scene. The first number was the story of finding Moses, when Mrs. Soble beautifully portrayed the greatness of mother love. Climacteric interest was aroused as the artist read, in her second rendition, the stirring scene of the patriot David meeting and defeating the giant Goliath of the Philistines.

The program for the day was Biblical in character. The keynote was struck in Mrs. Rauh's opening words, the atmosphere created admirably by Mrs. Soble, and enhanced by the exquisite rendition of old Hebrew melodies, by Cantor Zak of New York City. Cantor Zak has a beautiful tone quality, well suited for the operatic stage for which he is studying. He sang unaccompanied, with fine technique and interpretation. Mr. Cal. Jordan, of Nirella's Orchestra gave several beautiful harp soli.

The meeting concluded with a few closing remarks by the President, who modestly gave credit to the members of the organization as a whole for the fine work achieved thus far. To quote Mrs. Rauh: "What results could be achieved by the most splendid general in the world if there were no soldiers to fight the battle." But every woman there realized the great debt she owed to her leader, and inwardly resolved, once more, to strive to greater efforts in the coming years to be worthy of the inspiring example set by the noble woman who had the Council of Jewish Women so wisely and efficiently through the past sixteen years of Council life.

Needle Work Ingathering

Mrs. Morris Kaufmann, Chairman of the Needle Work Guild of America for the Council of Jewish Women, Pittsburgh Section, announced that the Ingathering of articles will take place in early November. This is a year when lines of every description are needed more than ever before, behooving every Council member to be generous to the extreme. Jewish hospitals, homes, Irene Kaufmann Settlement and orphanages will be the grateful recipients of your thoughtful gifts. Watch the Council Bulletin for the exact date of the "Ingathering."

C. J. W. Active in Scout Drive

Mrs. Enoch Rauh is an interested and active worker in stimulating in the Girl Scout Workers of America. Mrs. Rauh is a Deputy Commissioner in the organization. Any one desiring tickets for the open meeting to be held at Syria Mosque on Saturday afternoon, October 18th, can procure tickets of admission by applying to Mrs. Rauh. Mrs. Gertrude Forbes Robertson will be the speaker of the afternoon, and Mrs. Newton D. Baker will sing.

Council Bulletin

Mrs. Charles Igel, Editor of the Council Bulletin announces that the first number of the C. J. W. official organ will be in the hands of members by November 1st. This is the sheet which is anxious to serve every member and every committee. The "Bulletin" forecasts and records all Council activities. It should always be kept on file, in order that the watchword of the Council "Co-operation" can be fully realized. Any notice for which you desire publicity should be sent to Mrs. Igel no later than the 15th of the next open meeting.

McKEESPORT I. O. B. B.

A meeting of McKeesport Lodge No. 573 I. O. B. B. will be held Sunday morning, October 19th, at Roth's Hotel. A large attendance is anticipated, as matters of general interest will be reported. The local lodge is taking an aggressive part in the Campaign for the Jewish Relief which is being waged in McKeesport during the present week.

Henry Friedman, one of the lodge's leading members is chairman of the campaign. The meeting Sunday will be a final rally to carry the quota for the campaign "Over the Top."

BANQUET OF INDEPENDENT ORDER OF B'NAI B'RITH

As the crowning climax to the vigorous membership drive recently inaugurated by the Jericho Lodge No. 44, I. O. B. B., a huge banquet and entertainment will be held on Sunday evening, October 26th, at 6:30 p. m. in Hotel Schenley. The affair will be held in honor of the president of the district, Mr. Marcus Feuchtwanger, and likewise the occasion will be set aside as a Welcome Home to the boys of the Lodge No. 44, who were in the service of our country.

One of the inspiring features of the evening will be the initiation of a class of new members—a surprise being in store for those who attend.

It should be the duty of each member of the Lodge, together with the interested members of sister lodges, to participate in the good fellowship and general enthusiasm of the dinner.

Men like A. L. Solomon, Judge Josiah Cohen, I. W. Frank, Leo Lehman, have supported the activities, and the whole evening will be one of real inspiration.

Members of the Lodge desiring to attend, will please communicate with Secretary Harry A. Wolf, 1330 Federal Street, N. S., Pittsburgh, and he will make the proper reservations.

This will be a gathering long to be remembered. Be present for the good of the Independent Order of B'Nai B'Rith.

CONGREGATION BETH ISRAEL OF THE NORTH SIDE

On Sunday evening, October 12th, the members of Beth Israel Congregation of the North Side, assisted by the Ladies' Auxiliary Society, tendered a reception to Rev. and Mrs. Henry Tolochko in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the latter. The gathering was one of the most inspiring in the annals of the congregation. Beautifully decorated tables were set for 150. After a delightfully prepared supper was served, Mr. Abe Olbum, who acted as toastmaster, called on the President of the Congregation, Mr. Mayer Rosenbloom, as the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Tolochko has rendered in the twelve years of his connection with the congregation and after tendering Rev. and Mrs. Tolochko the good wishes of the congregation, presented them with a beautiful chest of silverware in behalf of the membership. Mrs. A. Wolf, Vice President of the Ladies' Auxiliary Society presented Rev. and Mrs. Tolochko in behalf of the Society, a pair of silver candle sticks as their token of respect and friendship. Rev. Tolochko responded very feelingly and thanked the assemblage for the beautiful gift and the unprecedented honor shown to him and Mrs. Tolochko.

The officers of the Congregation wish to thank through the columns of this paper the Committee of Ladies, who were in charge of the arrangements, for their incessant efforts and hard work, which made the celebration such a wonderful success.

McKEESPORT CAMPAIGN

With more Gentiles than Hebrews on the speakers' program, the opening rally in the local campaign to raise $20,000 for Jewish Relief was held Sunday night in the Elks' temple. About 200 workers were present, and among them the sum of $5,000 was raised, the Gemulas Chessed congregation, Third and Market Streets, contributing $1,000 in one lump sum. The workers anticipate no trouble in raising the desired quota, as the generosity of McKeesporters has become proverbial, when it comes to aiding a worthy cause. The broad humanity of this appeal is evidenced in the personnel of the various teams, for in addition to the Jewish campaigners, there are two Prot-stant pastors as team captains, and laymen of all the important Christian denominations are represented on the teams.

Henry Friedman is the general chairman of the campaign committee. Edward Haber, is the treasurer; Harry Levy is the secretary and Julian Stein his assistant. Team captains are as follows: Churches, Dr. Murray Alstet, and Dr. B. F. Rhodes; merchants, Morris Klein; schools, Dr. J. B. Richey; industries, Edward Haber; fraternal organizations, Jos. Brown and A. Cohen; attorneys, William H. Coleman and A. M. Simon; physicians, Dr. D. Farkas and Dr. Andrew Hunter; booths and tags are in charge of Mrs. Mark Abel, Mrs. Joseph Unger, and Louis Firestone. Frank R. S. Caplan, Julian Stein and Harry Levy are on the publicity committee.

McKEESPORT, PA.

Children's Succoth Night was enjoyed Wednesday evening by the pupils of the Temple School. Rabbi Alstet preached a children's sermon on the symbolism of the Succah, closing with an appeal for the little boys and girls in Europe. Under the direction of the Sisterhood baskets of fruit were distributed.

The Sisterhood Succoth Social Monday evening drew a fine attendance. The newly elected officers of the Sisterhood, with building prospects ahead looked forward to an unprecedented year of activity.

The Sunday School term opens Sunday at 10 a. m. for the enrollment of pupils. The fall sessions of the Hebrew School begin Monday at 4 p. m., with a special Alef Beth class for beginners.

The Jewish War Sufferers campaign of McKeesport was launched Sunday evening at the Elks Temple at a meeting of workers called by Henry Friedman, President F. R. S. Kaplan presided and called upon Jacob Geoffrey of Pittsburgh Y. M. H. A. and Mr. Van Dyke, the latter delivering a powerful and inspiring address. He was followed by Dr. Richey who pledged the support of the school. Rabbi Stephen Wise Advises Us How To Live

Stephen S. Wise, Rabbi of the Free Synagogue of New York, needs no introduction to the world at large and especially not to the people of his own religion, for there is no movement for the betterment of mankind, no cause for the furthering of truth and justice that Dr. Wise does not support. His forceful oratory, his courageous stand for the right, even though it be unpopular, has made him not only one of the most prominent men of his chosen profession but also one of the leading citizens of the world.

It would be difficult to find a man better equipped to advise others on how to conduct their lives, than he whose own life is so rich and full. In "How to Face Life," Dr. Wise gives advice to the young who must prepare, to the mature who must serve, to the aged who must not grow old. It is to the young particularly that Dr. Wise addresses himself. "Life means pioneering, not making one's way, but breaking away, clearing a path of life for one's self." "Outward differentiation is nothing, but inward distinction is everything,—is the counsel I ever urge upon my fellow-Jews." "Better the nobly discontented than the ignobly content." "Give yourself to something great, enroll under the banner of a high cause, choose as your own some standard of self-sacrifice, attach yourself to a movement that makes not for your own gain but for the welfare of men, and you will have come upon a richly satisfying as well as engrossing adventure." These are but a few of the passages which enrich and enoble this forceful book.

Some Jewish Pilgrims

It is interesting to note that the names of four Jews appear in a collection of seven biographical sketches called "Pilgrims of Today" by Mary H. Wade. The author states in the preface that some people regret the incoming tide of foreigners during recent years and forget that there have been a great many comers to our shores for whose coming loyal Americans should be grateful.

Mary Antin, whose "Promised Land" has attracted such wide attention is the only woman represented. The early incidents of her life are taken largely from her book. A touching and rather pathetic story is told of an incident in her school life in Boston. It was the day of her graduation from grammar school and she, as head of her class, was chosen to speak two pieces, one of which was to be an original composition. When she had finished her own composition, there was hearty applause. A member of the school board rose and told of the achievement of a little Russian girl in a short three years, but did not mention any name. Upon the urging of some of her schoolmates to "get up and thank him," Mary got up and stammeringly began to speak but sat down in tears and embarrassment at a sign from her principal. She had revealed herself!

"Nathan Straus, a Pilgrim from Bavaria" is the heading of another chapter. When Straus was six years old, his family came to America to obtain greater freedom and settled in Talbot, Georgia. His family were not successful in the south and moved to New York where the father and oldest son started the business firm of Straus and Son, pottery and glassware. Later Nathan Straus entered the firm. Their success was rapid and Mr. Straus became associated with many philanthropies, chief among which have been his numerous activities for the restoration of Palestine and his work for the babies of the poor. He was a pioneer in agitating pasteurized milk and providing free milk stations.

The editor and owner of the New York World, Joseph Pulitzer, is another interesting figure. His rapid success from the time he joined the staff of the Westliche Post in St. Louis until he became owner and editor of one of the most influential papers in America is little short of phenomenal. His active life was interrupted by a severe nervous breakdown.

Other lives included are Edward Steiner, John Muir, Carl Schurz and Jacob Reis.

A Jewish Economist

Walter Edmond Weyl, the American Jewish economist and writer was born in Philadelphia in 1874. With the characteristic Jewish desire to educate their children, the parents of Weyl sent him to the public schools of Philadelphia, the high school, and then to the University of Pennsylvania. Later the young man took postgraduate courses at the universities of Halle, Berlin, and Paris. In addition to being Associate Editor of The New Republic, Weyl, who has always displayed a keen interest in organized labor, is connected with the United States Bureau of Labor and Statistics. He has seen deeply into the structure of our democratic government, and it is with a bold forcefulness and trenchant criticism, that he assails the faults and virtues of this democracy. His three most important books have been stimulated by the war, namely, "The New Democracy," "America and World Policies," and "The End of the War." In "The New Democracy" Weyl stresses education as the chief factor in the making of an intelligent democratic state, and in the breeding of higher moral and ethical standards. He says that "The American instinct for education . . . is perhaps our most fundamental appreciation of democracy. The intellectual level of democratic striving is above the literacy line, just as the economic level is above the poverty line . . . More money for the people means more education, and more education means more money." He is unusual in that while penetrating the worst aspects of a democracy he maintains a health optimistic view of things, believing in the ultimate good surviving. He further prophesies that "the program of the new democracy is to be essentially social: one of human conservation in an ever growing area." The "End of the War" was written just before the armistice, and in it he outlines an internationalistic policy which is well worth study. At the close of this book he says "The final war for democracy will begin after the war. It will be a wider conflict than that which now raged and the alignment will be by classes and interests rather than by nations. It will be a war which will be waged until separate interests within each nation are completely extinguished." All of his books are interesting from an economic and political point of view and they are well written, with a fervor and clarity that are unusual.

Books on Home Planning

Inadequate housing facilities are attracting nation wide attention. The United States Government is sponsoring a "Own-your-own-home" campaign, competitions are being held for plans for small homes, and everywhere there is evidence of increased interest. After unsuccessfully scanning rent lists and scouring the city to find that seldom seen "To Let," the people of Pittsburgh are following the example of other cities in similar straits and are planning to build their own homes. Numerous requests are received daily at the Library for plans, designs, and specifications for small, moderate priced homes. Because of this the Library is displaying on the bulletin board in the hall of the Central Library, pictures and plans for small houses. In the Lending Room there is a special collection of books on home planning and decoration. Here will be found books on all styles of homes, large and small, including colonial, bungalow, English, and cottage types, with suggestions as to building materials, painting, plumbing and numerous other mechanical problems that arise in building a home. There are also books on interior decoration, period furniture, and rugs. Prospective builders will find many suggestions that will aid them in planning their homes.

BOURNE ASSAILS THE "CLOSED SHOP" AS ANTI-AMERICAN

Washington, Oct. 12.—That the "closed shop" is un-American is the assertion of the Republican Publicity Association in a statement given out today by the president of that organization, Jonathan Bourne, Jr. The statement said in part:

"The crux of the demands of the labor group as presented to the labor-capital conference may be summarized as follows: 'The right of wage earners to bargain collectively through unions, represented by agents of their own choosing.' It is a one-sided proposition. It speaks of the 'right' of wage-earners to bargain in a certain way, but assumes that there shall be no right to bargain in any other way. What the unions desire is not the right but the power to bargain collectively and, under the form of bargaining collectively, to dictate terms to employers. Their object is not bargaining but dictation.

Overthrow of Liberty

"The demand of the labor unions, assuming to speak for all wage earners, although authorized to speak for relatively few, is an attempt to overthrow the first principle for which our forefathers fought the American Revolution—the right to life, property and the pursuit of happiness. With the demand of the labor union granted the word 'liberty' would scarcely have a place in our vocabulary. Popular government would be practically set aside and in its place would be set up a government of, for and by the labor unions, an autocratic government granting to the rest of the people only so much life, liberty and happiness as might be necessary to prevent revolt.

"With the hand of the labor union in control of transportation, in command of steel production, in supervision of coal production, and probably dominant in the police service of cities, there would be no recognized rights of farmers, cattle-growers, sheepmen, horticulturists, dairymen, gardeners, merchants, manufacturers, mine owners, etc. The proposal is the setting up of a government by class with defiance of the rights of all not members of that class.

"Forced Bargaining a Wrong"

"It is the plan and practice of labor unions to limit production and to establish a standard of speed with consideration for the least efficient rather than the most efficient. That policy and practice has resulted in under production and has aided materially in bringing about the present excessive cost of living. That practice contravenes sound public policy and is unjust to the great majority of people, who depend for success upon their own individual industry, enterprise and thrift.

"Forced collective bargaining would be a wrong, not a right. To speak of it as a 'right' is a perversion of language. Freedom to bargain either individually or collectively is the only truly American policy, conducive to progress and promotive of the public welfare."

TRANSPORTATION'S PROGRESS

By L. H. Thompson

In the time of our forefathers the Prairie Schooner was practically the only means of land transportation. However, inadequate as this method was to our forefathers, the price was about the least consideration. The chief concern in those days was a quicker, more reliable method. Hence the Steam Railways was welcomed, however not without its pessimists, who predicted that it would not become universally used.

With the adoption of the Steam Railways again the cost was overlooked and laid aside for the more predominant factor, "Quicker Transportation." Only with the advent of competitive railways was the factor of cost of transportation given consideration, then gradually as science and ingenuity improved upon construction and design and master-minds contrived to lessen overhead and maintenance cost, did we begin to realize "Quicker Transportation at a Low Cost."

With the advent of the motor truck, we again found ourselves starting as our forefathers did in the Prairie Schooner days. Wildly enthusiastic over the revolutionizing effect of the motor truck because of its accessibility to remote sections, its speed, its endurance and usually its reliability.

Seldom, have we in the past taken time to come out of our enthusiastic seance long enough to really give much consideration to the cost of present-day transportation.

It was only with the advent of keen competition in the motor truck field and with a flood of motor trucks upon the market to meet an enormous American and foreign demand that we really woke up to the situation. Again history repeated itself and the factor of cost again made itself felt in the transportation field.

Some manufacturers of motor trucks sensed this oncoming condition a little prematurely and began to prepare for the time when business men would demand "Motor Truck Transportation at a Lower Cost."

The Transport Truck Co. with due credit to its official was one of those manufacturers who sensed the situation and began to build a truck and a policy which would meet this increasingly loud cry of business for "Reliable Transportation at Lower Cost." "Transport" meets these requirements because the predominant aim of its builders is to build lasting service into the truck. The co-ordination of standard units that have been long tried, tested, and met with public approval and the use of every labor-saving, time-saving, and money-saving device, which could be devised by science or human ingenuity go to make up "Transport," which is a true example of advanced engineering, conceived from actual war-time demands.

Never before has a motor truck appeared upon the American market that is designed so consistently throughout for the eventual saving of time and money to its owners. No such robbers of time and money as the old-fashioned grease or cup appear in the make-up of "Transport." Over one-half of all lubrication is taken care of automatically, the balance is arranged so simple that any one would find it a pleasure to lubricate it, which could be done once a month in ten minutes.

A person could go on and on telling of the time and money saving little details that enter into the construction of "Transport" and then possibly miss many of its features all of which are designed with the ultimate in view, "Quicker Transportation," at a lower cost.

The Transport Service & Sales Co., 121 So. Highland Avenue, are the distributors for Transport Trucks in this territory. L. H. Thompson, the general manager, has long been identified with the truck industry and is familiar with problems arising in this vicinity. Under his direction the aim of this company will be to furnish an intelligent solution of your transportation problems. Helping you to buy wisely and following this up with honest low cost service that you will appreciate. With that policy "Transport Will Progress."

The Business Outlook

Of course the center of interest in the Pittsburgh district among all people is the steel strike. And no wonder. The very life of the city is intimately bound up with the fortunes of the steel industry and let anything interfere with the normal course of this important part of Pittsburgh's greatest of all enterprises and its reaction on business is swift and sure. That the strike affected business is a truism. In fact the retailers were affected even before the strike was declared because of the sensitiveness of the situation which left everyone in doubt as to where it would end. But now there seems to be a slight lifting of the clouds, though we are frank to say that we believe it will take much longer to finally end this dispute than many are willing to believe. We cannot understand how thoughtful men are blind enough to imagine that some sort of an ending now means a stable condition for all time. Just because the radical labor group will be defeated at this juncture by no means is a guarantee that the same trouble won't break out again at some future time even in greater strength. It entirely depends upon the character of the settlement. We are now fighting among ourselves and fighting with the whole world as to the proper kind of Peace terms and from all indications the peace we are getting will bring more war in its wake. So it seems to us that unless the steel controversy is settled in some definite manner that will bring all elements into more harmonious relation and to a better understanding the peace that comes will be of the type that will invite war later on. However all are agreed that for the time being the radicals are facing defeat and that the mills in this district are slowly getting into working order again. It may be that out of Washington will come the word or words that will bring the desired condition for which both capital and labor are praying. There is one thing sure; conditions cannot continue as they are. With the longshoremen's strike in New York; the shopmen's strike in Altoona; this strike and that strike in this and that city; from one end of the land to the other the whole nation is in the most serious turmoil, industrially speaking in all its history. It merely goes to prove that we cannot recover from such a "sickness" as war, in a night time; it will take months, yea, it may take years before we shall have fully recovered from the upheaval which has shaken the whole world to its very foundations.

But business must go on as usual. But will business go on as usual if some way isn't soon found to end the vicious circle that has been created whereby the increase in wages and the shortening of the hours of labor automatically bring in their wake higher prices and yet higher prices until the average person stands absolutely appalled in face of the inability to meet these constantly rising costs. It has ceased to be a subject for the comic paragraphs but has become a serious menace to the lives of a great many thousands of people. When and where will it all end. Now we have before us the prospect of a strike on the part of the coal miners which promises to be one of the most disastrous in the history of our labor troubles, and alongside of which the steel strike will be dwarfed in comparison. It spells suffering for the whole nation to say nothing of the extreme economic distress that will come with it in all branches of industry. All we can do is to trust that out of this chaos some way will be found whereby for the time being at least the enormous disadvantages and the economic problems produced by the world war will be overcome. Unless that is done business will not and cannot go on as usual.

The retailer has had a lot to contend with this Fall; high prices of course he has taken for granted; but he never expected to be called upon to go through a sort of "double Indian Summer" with the hottest weather on record for the season of the year. The result has been that extraordinary efforts and vastly increased expenditures have been found necessary to move his mountain of winter goods. And from what we have heard only certain lines have shown a tendency to move. The coat business in particular has been slow in getting started, which, of course, was naturally to be expected. But then a new and menacing note has been introduced into the game that was not so quickly expected; the public is not eager to buy at present prices. One finds upon investigation that large numbers of women of wealth or at least in well-to-do circumstances are among the first to balk at paying present prices. And others have put off buying until pressing necessity requires them to make purchases of needed apparel. All these things are facts and ought to be considered because nothing can be gained by glossing them over.

The most amazing feature of the retail business has been the way that the men's clothing business has maintained its standard. There seems to be no let up even in this district and during the strike. Men are buying just as liberally as ever before and the trouble is that enough merchandise cannot be secured to meet the demands. But the women for the once are the ones who are showing hesitation which is somewhat reversing the usual form; the men are usually the buyers who hold back and let the women go first in the matter of supplying their needs. However all precedent has been upset and rules of yesterday are no longer the rules of today.

But through it all comes this ray of optimism for the merchant. The country has not yet begun to extend itself in the matter of reconstruction. The constant strikes and the price situation has brought a marked hesitation in getting started to do the work that the war has made inevitable. No one for a moment doubts that once the labor trouble is definitely settled that we are in for an era of prosperity unequalled in all history. The steel companies will be called upon to the very limit of their capacity to take care of local and foreign needs. The building trades haven't yet struck their gait and the colossal amount of building needed in this country will give employment for every man who wants to work and will keep capital engaged to the very limit. No, there is no cause for pessimism so far as the future is concerned; but there must come a gradual recession from the present inflated price schedule all-around, and by that we do not mean that prices will have to recede to former levels, which will be impossible, but they must react some in order to prepare the way for a long and uninterrupted and profitable period of industrial activity. That is what all of us are hoping for and that is what the Conference at Washington is aiming for. We hope they will be successful.

FURS

The general advance in the prices of most skins shown at the sale of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation last week indicated that the trade believes the general prosperity that has prevailed in the fur markets all year will continue for some time to come. Even where the offerings exceeded those of last year and the year previous prices were maintained and in some cases advanced sharply. Nearly all furs were in good demand. Judging from the staple furs, such as fox, otter, beaver and skunk, the general price advance compared with April lies between 25 and 35 per cent. Blue fox, which is in its height as a fashionable fur, advanced 75 per cent. Chinchilla, which also is returning to fashion, sold at 65 per cent. above April prices.

Retail business took a spurt at the beginning of the week because of the colder weather. Small furs, neckpieces particularly, were selling freely, according to retail merchants. Manufacturers reported a continuation of the demand for all kinds of furs, both garments and neckpieces. Fox continued to lead the market as a neck fur.

LEATHER

Road salesmen for large shoe concerns are returning from their first fall trips with reports that the outlook for business is promising despite the high prices quoted on their lines for the coming season. Retailers, they say, are not accepting the advanced prices without a protest, but nevertheless are buying more shoes now than ever before for fear that prices by spring will be still higher. Manufacturers state they have tried to discourage this practice, requesting that orders be kept within actual needs, lest radical price advances may follow any great increase in buying.

Dealers in leather who felt the need of replenishing their stocks discovered that the tanners were disposed to revise their prices upward. The tanners in turn cited the high cost of raw hides to justify their quotations.

JEWELRY

At the end of the third week in the jewelry industry about 3,500 workmen, employed by 375 New York manufacturing concerns, were still holding out for a thirty-nine-hour week. Both manufacturers and their workmen refuse to arbitrate, with the result that practically no high-class jewelry is being manufactured in this city at present. Retailers confess great uneasiness in their inability to place orders for the Christmas holiday season, but assert that the cost of jewelry has reached the limit and that they will back the manufacturers in trying to keep prices from going higher.

The trade, however, was slightly encouraged during the week when the greater part of the workers in novelty jewelry, who were on strike, returned to their benches without receiving the demands for which they went out. When the strike started, over 400 walked out, but since then they have been returning gradually until less than 100 remain on strike.

Buyers from all the principal countries of the world visited the local market last week trying to place orders for all kinds of jewelry. Most of them have been able to place only moderate orders, as the leading American producing concerns are so overwhelmed with domestic orders and labor troubles that they hesitate to go extensively into the export business. These buyers are willing to pay almost any price manufacturers ask. As an example, a large Canadian buyer tried to secure a number of clocks direct from the manufacturers' stockrooms. Not being able to purchase enough from the producers, he was forced to complete his order in retail stores at greatly increased prices.

PRECIOUS STONES IN THE UNITED STATES

The value of the diamonds in the United States at the present time is apparently more than $1,000,000,000. As early as 1900 a distinguished diamond expert of the United States said "it may be safely said that $500,000,000 worth of diamonds are owned in the United States," and a compilation made by the National City Bank of New York shows that the value of diamonds imported since 1900 is $506,000,000. This alone would bring the total value of the diamonds of the country above the billion-dollar line, but when it is remembered that $190,000,000 worth of the diamonds imported since 1900 came in the uncut state, and that their value was doubled by the cutting process which occurred within this country, it is apparent that the value of the stock in the country is considerably more than $1,000,000,000, to say nothing of the further fact that prices of diamonds have increased materially during the war.

About one-half of the world's diamonds are now apparently owned in the United States. An estimate made in 1900 by the authority above quoted put the value of the world's stock of diamonds at rather more than $1,000,000,000, and indicated that the United States then owned about one-third of the total known stock. With the rapid additions to our own stock through the importation of $550,000,000 worth since 1900 it seems probable that fully one-half of the world's stock of diamonds is now held in the United States.

The popularity of the pearl made itself apparent during the early part of the war, the importation of pearls into the United States jumping from $2,000,000 in 1912 to over $10,000,000 in the calendar year 1916, and about $9,000,000 in 1917, but dropping by reason of scarcity to less than $2,000,000 in 1918. The 1919 figures, however, show a slight increase in pearls.

COTTON CREPES IN BRIGHT COLORS FOR SPRING WEAR

According to the purchases that have been made in cottons, it is expected that cotton novelties in dresses will be in much demand. There is a vogue predicted for the foulard and printed types of sheer silks, the cotton voiles in all large designs have sold in large quantities, and it is said that gingham are expected to have another good season.

The cotton novelties which are spoken of by Mr. Meagher, of James McCutcheon & Co., as particularly promising for the coming spring season, include dotted Swisses in self tone and contrasting dot which, he says, are expected to follow their popularity of last year with an even larger demand, and dimities which in dotted, striped and check effects will be of much greater interest than last season.

One of the most important fabrics for next summer, he believes, will be the fine cotton crepes which have been used to great advantage by the French last season. These will be used in bright colorings which include the capucin shades and gayer shades of green, blue and orchid.

English prints will again be popular in novelty designs and handkerchief linens for the better trade.

Here it is said that gingham have been taken by the smart trade only in the small checks and stripes and are not so good in large plaids. Organdies are again selling in the plain colors, but not in fancies of any sort.

FILENE'S DISCONTINUE CHARGE ON CREDIT AND DELIVERY

50-Cent Monthly Fee for Charge Accounts, and Ten-Cent Charge for Delivery Have Proved So Unpopular That They Have Been Dropped—Still Believe in Correctness of Principle

Boston, Oct. 8.—The radical departure of charging 50 cents a month for charge accounts and 10 cents a package for delivery by the specialty store of William Filene's Sons Co., proved so unpopular from the customer's standpoint after a 10-months' trial, that it has been discontinued. An unofficial announcement to this effect was made by the store directors today, although the store advertisements carried the news since yesterday. The directors are not backward in admitting that the public did not take kindly to the plan, that the charge accounts fell off tremendously, but insist that the net gain in cash business more than made up the loss in the credit department. The service charge was put into effect Dec. 1 of last year and discontinued Oct. 4. The plan when instituted had the approval of the War Labor Board.

Tell Customers

The following announcement given to the press today will be mailed to 75,000 customers of the store:

"To Our Customers:

"The separate charge for delivery on charge accounts has been discontinued.

"It has been discontinued in the face of the fact that the business principle back of this charge has the approval of Government officials, of economists, and of the public generally.

"It has been discontinued despite the fact that during the 10 months this charge has been in effect our business has been larger than ever before. The increase both in dollars and cents and in percentage, was greater than in any similar period in our history (excepting when we moved to this new and larger store), although the profit percentage was lower than usual.

"The charges for service have been discontinued for one reason and one reason only, viz., that the public, while approving the principle, is evidently not ready for the practice, and prefers to continue to have the price on service included in the cost of merchandise as heretofore.

"In accordance with our established policy of giving our customers what they want, we have done away with the separate charge for delivery and for charge accounts.

U. S. PROSPERITY INTERLINKED WITH THAT OF EUROPE

J. H. Patterson, President of the National Cash Register Co., Records Impressions Made in Trip Through Europe

The United States has a selfish interest in the rehabilitation of all European countries because our prosperity is interlinked with theirs, is the view of John H. Patterson, president and general manager of National Cash

Register Co., just returned after an extended tour through France, Germany, Belgium and England. He declares that the trip was made, among other reasons, to study problems of capital and labor abroad as well as credit and exchange conditions. Discussing conditions in post-war France, Mr. Patterson adds:

"Conditions in France appeared better than I expected to find them. I naturally expected to see, immediately upon arrival, much of the horrible results of the war. It was harvest time, and the crops looked well. The people were working in the fields. Business in the manufacturing centers appeared to be getting back to normal. It was most encouraging to see the people in Paris active and going about their business so cheerfully. The streets were busy; the cafes and theatres were well patronized. In short, Paris seemed to have already returned to normal life."

Retail Business Good

Mr. Patterson declares that in Coblenz and Cologne retail business seemed to be good. Retail merchants in the occupied territory could not get enough goods, especially of the luxury type, Mr. Patterson asserts. The impressions Mr. Patterson gathered from many conversations with bankers, business men, officers and workmen in Germany was that the country would recuperate more rapidly than was generally expected. The best judgment in Berlin and elsewhere in Europe was that Germany had passed the crisis, and that the mark, while it may go a little lower, is almost certain to increase in value.

Among the things that Germany needs, Mr. Patterson says, are raw materials—wool, cotton, copper, oil, hides, etc. Germany also needs credit, and the bankers Mr. Patterson talked with impressed upon him that ways must be devised to grant German purchasers long credits.

In Belgium, says Mr. Patterson, it was encouraging to see the good condition of the crops. Although much of Belgium's machinery was stolen, part of it is being recovered, and progress is being made in re-establishing industry in that country. Greater progress will be made as soon as Belgium begins to receive indemnity payments from Germany.

Europe's Eyes Turned to Us

"Europe's eyes," Mr. Patterson stated, "are turned toward America for assistance in the way of credits and materials. America's war record, alike on the battlefield, in her wonderful achievements at home and in her shipping of soldiers and supplies, has raised the American nation and Americans as individuals in the esteem of Europe. Americans are now recognized as a race of business and fighting men. We are recognized also as a nation of the highest ideals, willing to stand for the right no matter what the cost."

European tourists, he adds, already are visiting the devastated regions by the thousands. American tourists cannot easily visit these regions, because of the present difficulty in securing passports.

WOOLEN GOODS

Dullness prevailed in the woolen goods market. Clothes which for several weeks had been in brisk demand for spring use lost their attraction for a good many buyers who ordinarily might be placing large orders at this time. Shortage of labor in men's clothing factories throughout the country was given as a reason for the curtailment of purchases by manufacturers in this line.

Because of the lack of activity jobbers were inclined to shade prices for fall and winter goods, although the reductions were slight and failed to stimulate business to any great degree. Contrary to the general market trend, three of the leading jobbing houses which supply many of the small tailors throughout the country through "books" advanced their fall and winter prices from 45 to 65 per cent. The inability of these houses to get all the goods ordered from mills is believed to be the cause of the radical price increase.

Production of woolen goods is lagging and few of the mills, it is reported, will be able to clean up all their winter orders until the end of January. Spring goods and winter goods will be delivered simultaneously by many mills.

COTTON GOODS

Higher prices for unfinished cotton goods were established last week after converters and other large operators in the market decided to resume buying, having tired of waiting for a setback. A reduction of 3 cents a yard in prices named for percales by some of the leading mill agents was less than the trade generally anticipated, and merely served to emphasize the inherent strength of the market as based on quotations for gray or unfinished goods.

Retailers and jobbers were anxious to place orders for spring goods in addition to purchases of fabrics wanted for immediate delivery. The demand for ginghams was particularly strong, but buyers were unable to find many mills willing to take on more orders. Production was reported to be still falling behind schedule because of labor shortage.

SILKS

Increasing activity in the raw silk market during the week resulted in an uplift in prices which put the local market on the highest level it has ever attained. On Friday, following the receipt of cable advices from Yokohama describing the Japanese market as active and buoyant, the trade here paid as high as $10.40 a pound for Shinshin No. 1, and Kansai double extra sold at $11.30 a pound. Mills though buying conservatively were willing to place orders for future delivery as far ahead as next May. Most dealers, however, held orders to delivery by January.

Retailers were active in the silk goods market. Because most of the mills are unable to accept orders for delivery before the first of the year, jobbers were called upon to supply stocks for immediate use. Taffetas, georgettes, foulards, crepe de chins and fabrics suitable for silk shirts were in strong demand.

The labor situation at the mills was not conducive to heavier production.

SEES NO WAGE TROUBLE AHEAD IN CLOAK TRADE

Expectations of some union officials in the cloak and suit industry of this city that the slump in the market, which is expected to begin with the inception of the new month, is likely to prepare the way for possible friction between manufacturers and the union over the question of equal distribution and the maintenance of present wage rates, are not borne out in authoritative quarters among the larger employers. Recently the officials of Local 10 of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union called a special meeting of all the cutters in the various branches of the women's wear trades and proposed a policy for such an emergency whereby the whole strength of the union was to be used to oppose any concerted attempt on the part of employers to reduce the present rates in the direction of the minimum level prescribed by the existing agreement, either directly or through discrimination in laying off the higher paid men, when the dull season comes.

Notes of the Trade

John J. Hoort, who is well known to the business world for his fine store fixtures and show cases, has now become affiliated with another large show case and store fixture factory in the Pittsburgh district. This new factory has over 35,000 square feet of floor space and has the latest wood-working machinery and dry-kilns. Mr. Hoort wishes to state that he is in position to equip any store from three to four weeks' time. Suggestions, plans and specifications will be gladly given by Mr. Hoort at any time, free of charge. Offices 405 Bessemer Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE PITTSBURGHER; BUILT FOR THE HARDEST SERVICE

The "Pittsburgher" is the name of the latest entrant in the truck manufacturing field, although the idea which led up to the building of this product was given birth quite a few years ago. The new truck is the product of the Pittsburgh Truck Mfg. Co. (formerly the Sawders-Murray Co.), 609 Neville St., Pittsburgh, Pa. Messrs. Sawders and Murray have long been identified with the truck industry in Pittsburgh as dealers. They have handled a number of well known makes of good trucks, and enjoying an enviable reputation that any dealer can be proud of. And, incidentally these men who are behind the new company have been in the trade about as long as the industry has been in existence in this country.

Believing that this experience was worth capitalizing, they therefore set about designing a truck that would meet certain exacting conditions which are peculiar to the hilly, rugged contour of Pittsburgh and the surrounding territory of Pennsylvania, and which from their own observations, they state, could not be met except with a truck that was built for that purpose. The result is the Pittsburgher, Model D, a 2½-ton job.

The aim of the designers, to build a machine that would stand up under the worst conditions with the minimum of depreciation, has undoubtedly been realized when the character of materials and size of parts used, the method of lubrication, spring suspension, rear axle anchorage, alignment under load, flexibility of control, economy of upkeep, carefully worked out minute details, and general simplicity of design and assembly are considered.

One of the interesting spots in Pittsburgh is the West Penn Vinegar Company's plant, located at Merchant and Martindale Streets. During the war this company made a splendid contribution to the country's welfare by uninterrupted manufacturing of their line of products. This line of jellies, preserves, mustard, sour kraut, catsup, pickles, vinegars and ciders are known as the Purity Brand. The fact that the company have only recently added very greatly to their manufacturing space and output, proves that their unadulterated products are appreciated by the Tri-State territory.

Knitted ties are quite the thing for men, and the prices range from $7.50 to $36 a dozen at "Pittsburgh's Progressive Neckwear House." Mr. A. Blattner, of A. Blattner & Company, says that the best grades of men's neckwear are now sought and that there is little call for the inferior grades. The darker shades are in vogue and the colorings so diversified that it is very hard to assign any dark color special popularity.

Colored dresses for children are having a tremendous call. Louis Friedberg, of the firm bearing his name, located at 707 Penn Avenue, reports that these lines are being sought and that his stocks are splendidly equipped to meet the demands. Infants' and children's wear are a specialty of this firm. The call for knitted garments has begun in real earnest and to avoid further rise in prices buyers are laying in liberal stores of merchandise in these lines.

"Fur coats and also those made of pile fabrics, are in great demand," says Mr. H. Seder, of Seder Brothers, whose firm is located at 909 Penn Avenue. It was also stated at this establishment that the best grades of furs and also of pile fabrics continue to have the call. Fortunately Seder Brothers are well supplied with coats and have been catering to many discriminating buyers in this line.

The Liberty Engraving Company did some very handsome work for Oppenheim-Collins, to help this firm to announce their Pittsburgh opening to the public. This company, however, makes a specialty of catalogue work and half tones, zinc etchings, etc., also designing and illustrating. They state that merchants in this district are very keen just now for advertising matter bearing the imprints of individuality and distinctiveness, and that the Liberty Engraving Company have aided in many of these enterprising campaigns.

More and more the department store in the large or small town is realizing the splendid money making possibilities offered by a well-stocked toilet department. The Penn Drug Specialty Company are brokers and jobbers and as such are making an enviable name for themselves. Drug stores and toilet departments are replenished by them and Mr. I. Pochapin states that the buyers in Pittsburgh and vicinity appreciate the reliable wares, and also the central location of the firm at 525 Fifth Avenue.

"Our trade has been most satisfactory the past month," said a representative of Newell and Schneider, the well-known wholesale shoe dealers who have recently acquired more extensive quarters on Penn Avenue close to Tenth Street, right in the heart of the wholesale business section of Penn Avenue. The firm have a large stock of shoes and other footwear on hand and are prepared to furnish prompt action to their many patrons. It was stated that the season for over-gaiters will be a very brisk one. Newell and Schneider specialize in over-gaiters and have the notable record of filling all orders promptly.

"Business in the shoe line is most encouraging, notwithstanding the unsettled condition of the labor world," said Charles Friedberg, of the Penn Shoe Company. Mr. Friedberg was a recent visitor to Boston and was able to secure a full line of footwear for his patrons. Mr. Friedberg is of the opinion, after viewing the footwear market in the busy marts of trade in the East, that prices, if anything, will go higher and that there is no possibility of shoes selling cheaper this winter. The Penn Shoe Company occupy large and extensive quarters at 135 Ninth Street, and all orders are promptly attended to.

The H. J. Lang Shoe Company, located at 120 Seventh Street, is one of the best-known and most progressive wholesale shoe establishments in the city. The entire building is given over to the conducting of the large and constantly increasing business that the Lang Company does in the footwear line. A member of the firm stated that prices were advancing steadily and that withal this there was a marked shortage of certain lines of shoes. The facilities that the Lang Shoe Company enjoy for speedily filling orders are ample and the company aims always to please their many patrons.

Marcus and Caplan say that short plush coats have the call. Dresses are also continuing in popularity and tricotines, satins and velvets are on the boards as the best buys of the season. Milady is demanding these materials and buyers are hustling to meet the demands of customers.

M. H. Davis, of the Metropolitan Waist & Skirt Company is of the opinion that voile waists should be pushed. The cost of blouses in silk, georgette or satin is higher than voile and if women were taught to appreciate voile waists they would be liberal buyers of this style of blouses. It would result in added profit to the blouse sections of stores.

The Pittsburgh Dispatch has won an enviable place among the discriminating readers of the Tri-State territory for its fruitful and reliable handling of news. By eliminating the sensational The Dispatch has reached a high place in the sanctums of Pittsburgh's best homes. "The Wanderer," in daily travels over the Pittsburgh district, has reached the hearts of all classes of Pittsburghers, and this department is attracting the attention and praise of those who enjoy a well-balanced discussion of the great questions of yesterday, today and tomorrow.

The indications point to big buying of rugs and linoleums in the spring by eager housewives who have allowed their hopes for merchandise at less cost to cause them to wait to buy. Felix Half & Brother, in the Century Building, have a big stock of these goods which can now be purchased at prices which are sure to increase later on.

Fox and wolves are called the bread and butter fur sets of the trade; they are in constant demand. The Reliance Cloak & Suit Company have a splendid assortment of these desirable pelts made up in the newest and most attractive designs. Sealine coats, both trimmed and untrimmed, are also being shown at The Reliance, in a number of styles. The much wanted shades of brown and navy are shown in a number of styles in dresses at this well-known firm whose stocks are large enough to insure prompt delivery of goods ordered now.

Browns and tans prevail as dominating shades of the shoe trade. The Pitt Shoe Company, at 909 Penn Avenue, have a splendid line of these.

The ripple sweater is excelling any records previously made in knitted wear, according to Gordon & Lasday.

S. A. Landau is showing nobby models of velvet hats for ladies. Os-trich is a big item as trimming, also the fancy wings and flowers.

Notwithstanding the shortage of leather, the Liberty Trunk & Suit Case Company are manufacturing a big line of trunks, bags, and suit cases. Buyers have learned from this past summer that the American people are going to continue their sight-seeing tours throughout the country now that peace has come, and should be prepared for this by good stocks in the leather goods department.

Pearl necklaces are the thing at Heeren Brothers Company, who are showing a big line of this beautiful and popular neck adornment for women. Necklaces of pearl are more and more becoming a big item in the stock of any jeweler who wants to keep apace of the popular vogue and be supplied with the seasonal thing for the demands of the holidays.

Notwithstanding the weather having been very warm, the demand for furs is keeping up to a high mark in Pittsburgh, according to Mr. A. A. Wolk, of the firm bearing this name.

Mr. Wolk says the coats and coatees of the fur lines are very brisk. In dresses, duvetynes, velours and tricorettes are the big items as materials. Dresses are moving at a good rate and much admired in the prevailing designs. "We have large stocks on hand but are looking forward apprehensively to the setting in of cold weather. Then every buyer will rush into market for increased supplies and the scramble will be somewhat trying, notwithstanding our large stocks. Trade in other words will be too big to receive the careful attention which we can give before this rush is on."

This season is one that finds the fine quality hats of felts and velours very much sought by men. Goorin, Shapira & Company have a line that will delight buyers interested in a hat line of unusual merit.

Commenting on the outlook in the wholesale and retail ready-to-wear business, Mr. Emil Stengel makes these pertinent and timely remarks, which should prove of interest to the business men of the Tri-State territory.

"Various disturbing elements have entered into the merchandising world. There is first of all the unseasonable weather. Then again the disturbance in the steel mills, and the continued gossip that there is unrest in the world of labor.

"It behooves all business men at this somewhat trying period to stick together and face the future confidently and resolutely. To put off placing orders for goods that will soon be out of stock is bad policy for everyone.

"When the goods are needed they will not be on the shelf because manufacturers and jobbers can no longer rush orders out of their establishments at a moment's call. The weather will soon get seasonable and the demand will begin in earnest for seasonable wear.

"The country has and will continue to have industrial prosperity and the business men of the community should be the ones to face this fact knowingly, and not lose confidence in the future by a few disturbing elements which are causing only a temporary depression."

Durham hosiery for women and children is being sold at a 5% discount for several weeks by B. B. Kaufmann Company, at 139-141 Seventh Avenue. In view of the fact that hosiery is at a premium this event is of unusual importance to hosiery buyers. Durham brand is at all times a much sought brand, which adds to the importance of the event.

One-piece skirts with the straight effects in tailoring are quite the vogue, according to Harry L. Miller, of 143 Seventh Avenue. Mr. Miller has achieved an enviable reputation as a maker of good skirts at fair prices and therefore his views on prevailing styles are quite timely. "The better grades of silks, plaid and check are the three most sought for materials in skirt fashions and the colors follow a wide range with brown really quite popular."

Velour dresses are in great popularity with the discriminating buyers who deal at the Keystone Cloak and Suit Company, located at 709 Penn Avenue. It was stated that the demand for dresses was still keeping up and the shoppers seem still to feel that a good dress is a very necessary part of every lady's outfit for fall and winter.

Merchandise for men is still soaring in price. However, the fall and winter suits that Waxman & Rudolph are showing in "Wear Rite" men's apparel are the most sought patterns and colors. Brown and green lead in the display, with an alluring assortment of pencil stripes also being offered.

Mr. M. Slone, of Slone & Seiner, who conduct a large ladies' outfitting establishment at 808 Penn Avenue, is in the East on an extensive buying tour. Merchandise especially adaptable to the holiday season will be bought by Mr. Slone on this eastern trip.

The Imperial Manufacturing Company are a live wire Pittsburgh concern. So brisk is the call for boys' suits that Mr. H. Colker, of this firm, reports that the modern boy is surely a well-dressed little chap. Green and brown flannels hold the board for popularity in boys' suits.

The unique part of their show rooms is the fact that they have four entire settings of effective window trims all set up. The effect is beautiful and very helpful to the window trimmers of the Tri-State territory. The Christmas trimmings are especially beautiful and commend themselves to those in search of the most effective goods for holiday display and sale.

The popularity of beaded bags, and also mesh bags, is unwaning, according to a representative of the Samuel Weinhaus Company. This well-known jewelry firm is showing a wonderful line of handbags for milady and the display is well worth a visit.

Pittsburgh's Live Wire Hat House, Cuff, Levin & Ruttenberg, have a big assortment of headwear for the masculine members of the household. This firm specialize on boys' headwear and have given much thought and work in the designing of proper headwear for boys. They have a splendid line of beautiful hats for prompt delivery.

"Georgette waists in the dark shades and in neat designs are quite the thing this fall," it was stated at the F. & W. Skirt & Waist Company, whose offices are in the Lyceum Building. This firm also manufactures skirts, and in this merchandise it was stated that blues and black are in big call as a leader in skirt colors.

Weinman Brothers, the well-known wholesale shoe dealers at 425 Liberty Avenue, have a large and varied stock of fine footwear for men, women and children. The firm is one of the oldest-established of the kind in Western Pennsylvania and its patrons are found in all sections of Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia. L. P. Weinman, in referring to trade conditions, stated that there was a marked improvement in September and he said that the outlook was bright for a continuation of a brisk trade in shoes the remainder of the present year. Mr. Weinman has just returned from a business trip to Boston. The firm also carries a fine line of shoe findings.

The Pittsburgh Dry Goods Company, one of the most complete and up-to-date establishments of its kind between New York and Chicago, is enjoying a very brisk trade in the various lines of dry goods and other merchandise that is sold by the company. This is especially true of hosiery and knit goods. The demand for silk hosiery was never better and this is also said to be true of fine mercerized lisle hosiery. Underwear of all kinds is also a brisk seller and sweaters, the higher-priced kind, are good sellers. On the whole, the Pittsburgh Dry Goods Company is having one of the most prosperous seasons in its history.

Wagner Brothers, wholesale shoe merchants located at 429 Liberty Avenue, report a very satisfactory trade in footwear of all grades and prices. YOUNG MEN'S HEBREW ASSOCIATION OF PITTSBURGH

Y. M. H. A. Goes "Over the Top"

Once more the Young Men's Hebrew Association has demonstrated its usefulness as a Jewish Communal organization. With a contribution of $25,000.00 and returns still to be reported the Y. M. H. A. has done its part towards the alleviation of distress in Europe.

Yet the figures published can give no adequate idea of the work entailed to the cause.

Practically every phase of the Campaign involved all associated with the Y. M. H. A. Gratifying results are reported from many territories such as McKeesport, Irwin, and Butler where Superintendent Goeffrey carried the message of distress. News has come to headquarters that a basis of future co-operation between Jew and non-Jew has been established in communities where no such relations had previously existed and the Y. M. H. A. in this respect is demonstrating its ability to do constructive work.

The Y. M. H. A. through its executive organized a corps of 100 young women to attend the hospitals of the city where they stood guard during the Campaign.

Through the "Y" the business schools and Universities of Pittsburgh were aroused to the War Sufferers' appeal.

Secres of "Y" members organized in twelve teams invaded the downtown district and permitted no one to escape.

During the Campaign the "Y" held mass meetings, dances and entertainments with the sole purpose of arousing enthusiasm and securing contributions.

Calls from headquarters for speakers and collectors in local theaters met with immediate response.

To facilitate the work the Y. M. H. A. established a branch office at the Pittsburgh State Bank through the generous co-operation of the management.

During the entire campaign "Y" members were prepared to accept any call for service and every member has given his time, money and service in the great cause.

On Sunday, October 19, at 3 p. m. there will gather in the Y. M. H. A. auditorium the first assembly of students in the education department.

This event will be the first of its kind in the history of the Pittsburgh Y. M. H. A.

An interesting program will precede the announcement of classes to be introduced and the schedule will be announced. All interested in the educational program of the Y. M. H. A. are cordially invited to be present.

The Y. M. H. A. will continue to hold its regular Saturday night dances till further notice. They have already proved a great success. Those interested in joining the Swimming Club are invited to register.

All desirous of participating in Y. M. H. A. athletics are requested to be present in the Gymnasium Tuesday evening, October 21.

On Sunday night, October 12, the Universal Club of the Y. M. H. A. presented its minstrel show.

That many were turned away through lack of room is sufficient evidence that the Minstrel Show was a great success.

It is planned to offer many such entertainments during the coming season.

The Beechview Mother's Club held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Adolph Roth and $1335 was realized for the war sufferers.

HADASSAH

Hadassah held its initial meeting of the season at the Chatham, on Sunday afternoon, October 12th. The organization voted to send fifty dollars for the relief of the Jewish War Sufferers. Plans for the enlargement of the sewing work for the destitute of Palestine were submitted, and a letter read, asking for toys for the children of the Holy Land.

The following chairmen of committees were appointed:

Sewing, Chairman, Mrs. Wm. Walk; Membership, Chairman, Mrs. S. S. Cohen, assisted by Mrs. M. Grinberg, Mrs. Meyer Rosenbloom, Mrs. J. Malakoff, Mrs. S. Bloomberg, Mrs. M. J. Josephson, Mrs. S. Lucas, Mrs. A. M. Ress, Miss Sadie Krieger.

Program, Chairman, Mrs. Emil Stengel, assisted by Mrs. D. Alter and Mrs. J. A. Rubin.

Publicity, Chairman, Mrs. Louis F. Kohn.

Constitution, Chairman, Mrs. Julius Cohen, assisted by Mrs. David Alter and Mrs. S. Lucas.

National Fund, Chairman, Mrs. J. Cohen, assisted by Mrs. B. Sheinberg, Mrs. S. Solof, Mrs. H. Tolochko, Mrs. J. Brauman, Mrs. J. Harrison, Mrs. H. Sapeer, Mrs. Chas. I. Cooper, Mrs. Ph. Loevner, Mrs. M. L. Avner, Mrs. D. Makrauer.

The business being promptly and efficiently disposed of, the following speakers, who had been delegates to the Chicago Zionist Convention, brought back stirring messages and eloquent appeals.

In inimitable manner, Mrs. M. Spiro described the general atmosphere of the convention. She dwelt especially upon the cultural aspect, mentioning the "Zimro Ensemble," whose aim is to found an Institute of Music in Palestine. These musicians are now touring America, and the proceeds of their concerts are used solely for that purpose.

Mrs. M. Krieger read a carefully prepared report on the actual work done at the sessions and concluded with numerous, humorous sidelights.

Speaking on behalf of the Intercollegiate Zionist Organization, whose work had been interrupted by the Great World War, Dr. Pauline Horvitz, urged all those of professional standing to join their rank and to give Zionism the benefit of their special training.

The main speaker of the afternoon, Dr. J. A. Rubin, in his maiden speech on Zionism, splendidly gave his views on the reconstruction problem of Palestine. Portraying Justice Brandeis, as resembling that remarkable American, Abraham Lincoln and quoting the experiences and incidents of Justice Brandeis, in his recent investigating tour of Palestine. Dr. Rubin moved his audience, as he, had been moved by the great "Silent Leader" of the Zionist organization of America.

The work done by the Hadassah Sub. Convention at Chicago, was spiritedly presented by the President, Mrs. A. H. Vixman, and none brought home more emphatically the great necessity for doubling the membership and funds, so that the stupendous task of restoring the land might progress more speedily.

Those friends and members of Hadassah, who were not privileged to attend this inspiring meeting, list to the call of our vigorous leader, Dr. Stephen S. Wise. "It is no longer To arms! To arms! but To work! To work for Palestine and Zion!"

EAST LIBERTY CAMERAPHONE
Adapted from the famous stage comedydrama which co-starred William Faversham and Maxine Elliott, is Tom Moore's offering in silent drama—"Lord and Lady Algy" which will play the entire week at the Cameraphone, East Liberty. The picture preserves all the entertaining qualities of the play and affords Tom Moore's sympathetic role as the English nobleman who proves to his wife he is a good fellow in spite of appearances being very much against him. His efforts to cover up the wrong doing of another and his passion for her ace track almost succeed in separating him from his wife, but Lady Algy (Naomi Childers) is a thoroughbred herself. William Burruss as Mr. Tudway, provides many laughs and the masked ball is especially amusing. The picture is elaborately staged and the cast especially well chosen. While of an entirely different type from "The City of Comrades" it is equally pleasing and Tom Moore as an aristocrat is as lovable as in any role he ever played. Naomi Childers, who was voted the most beautiful screen actress in Japan, is perfectly cast as the stately wife of the young Lord Algy. She is an actress who knows the value of restraint and reveals in this role the cold exterior which covers but cannot conceal a warm nature.

PHILADELPHIA ORCHESTRA
The coming of Mme. Margaret Matzenauer to Pittsburgh is one of the most important events of the early musical season. Mme. Matzenauer is the leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Pittsburgh is fortunate to secure her before the opening of the Opera season. She was engaged a year ago to open the orchestral season in Pittsburgh, and will appear as soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra under Conductor Stokowski for the evening and afternoon concerts at Syria Mosque on November 19th and 20th. Mme. Matzenauer's tonal powers encompass the range of the human voice, and aside from her wonderful vocal gifts, the great diva has won all hearts by her gracious and wholesome personality, and while America was at war by her great patriotism and loyalty.

Other celebrated soloists to appear with the Philadelphia Orchestra in their series of five evening and five matinee concerts in Pittsburgh are Harold Bauer, whose popularity brings him to Pittsburgh more often than any other pianist; Jacques Thiband, the young French violinist; Alfred Cortet, the French pianist, who is favorably remembered as soloist with the Paris Orchestra last season, and Andre Marquar, solo flutist. Other soloists will be announced during the season. Subscriptions for both the matinee and evening series are now being received at the office of May Beegle, manager.

LIBERTY

Wallace Reid is presented in his most entertaining, starring film at the Liberty Theatre, "The Lottern Man." The week's engagement will be brought to a close with today's performance.

Marguerite Clark, the daintiest of motion picture stars, only recently married in real life, is already wearing widow's weeds in reel life. Sounds rather startling but true nevertheless. Miss Clark will be seen all next week, at the Liberty, the Rowland and Clark Theatre at Penn and Shady avenues, East End, in "Widow by Proxy." As the demure, patient, little grief-stricken mourner for a husband she has never owned, Miss Clark is seen to best advantage. The play, "Widow by Proxy," offers a theme replete with snappy situations and the complications which result through the plot are highly humorous and unusually entertaining.

REGENT

The attraction at the Regent Theatre today is Jack Pickford in "In Wrong." Billy Rhodes, that dainty morsel of femininity whose praise has been sung by motion picture devotees in short comedy subjects, will make her debut to patrons of the Regent, the Rowland and Clark Theater at Penn and Highland Avenues, East End, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, in "Blue Bonnet," a breezy comedy drama. This picture really presents the dainty star in three different characterizations. With the opening of the picture she is the twelve-year-old urchin of the streets, later we see her as the young lady in her teens, and finally as the bewitching Salvation Army lassie.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN who will be seen in "A Joyous Liar" at the Regent Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week

MARGUERITE CLARK who will be seen in one of her greatest roles in "Widow by Proxy," which is coming to the Liberty Theatre all next week

HEBREW WOMAN'S CLUB OF WOODLAWN

At a meeting of the Hebrew Woman's Club of Woodlawn, Pa., held at the home of Mrs. Harry Selkovitz, Franklin Avenue, Monday evening, October 18th, a donation of one hundred dollars was made to the Jewish War Relief Fund.

It is with great pleasure that this society is able to report of the opening of their Sunday School, October 5th, under a capable Superintendent, Mr. Abraham Herman, of Pittsburgh, and an efficient staff of teachers, consisting of the Misses Tibie Rush, Belle Selkovitz, Ida Donner, Sadie Klein and Miss Tamashesky.

The members of this club are faithfully working toward making their coming dance to be held Tuesday evening November 18th, at the Roumanian Hall, Kiehl Street, Woodlawn, both a social and financial success, as the proceeds of this affair will be used toward the upkeep of the Sunday School and toward the erection of a new Synagogue.

JUNIOR YOUNG WOMEN'S HEBREW ASSOCIATION OF PITTSBURGH

The regular meeting of the Junior Y. W. H. A. was held on Sunday, October 12, at the Y. M. H. A. building. After the business of the day had been conducted, a reception in honor of the old members was given.

The president then welcomed the old members, impressing the fact that all the girls should become active members.

A humorous recitation was then given by Mr. Gladstone, after which Mr. Melnick gave a talk to the club in the interest of the Journal. Following this, Mr. Jeffries talked about the activities, and classes which are going to be offered at the "Y."

Refreshments were then served, followed by a dance.

Plans have already been made to introduce many new features into the Society's work for the coming year.

Significant in the new work has been the formation of a Literary and Dramatic Circle under the direction of Prof. G. M. P. Baird, of the English Department of the University of Pittsburgh. The class will meet every other Thursday evening at the Schenley High School. The chairman of this activity is Miss Yetta Kamler, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Seegman, Miss Anna Gordon, and Miss Sara Levy.

All efforts of the organization during the past few weeks have been directed toward the War Relief Campaign. Practically every member of the Society has been engaged in this work, under the able chairmanship of Miss Elizabeth Kamens who had charge of the Booth at the City-County building. Miss Elizabeth Seegman in care of the hotels and restaurants and Mrs. M. N. Lasday, the Tag Day Chairman.

The business meeting was followed by a charming and unique playlet. Here again the unusual versatility of the organization's members was demonstrated.

The sketch was written by Miss Doris Cransfield, the Chairman of the Program Committee. Miss Cransfield was assisted in the directing, producing and costuming of the humorous little farce by Miss Sophie Weiner, Miss Elsie Lichtenstul and Miss Lillian Canter.

Miss Gussie Sirvan played the piano accompaniments for all the songs.

Taking part in the cast were: Miss Minerva Beatrice Pincus, Miss Margaret Cohen, Miss Anna Spiegle, Miss Rose Askeneze, Miss Dena Shaeffer, Miss Sadie Rosenberg, Miss Gertrude Cooper, Miss Elsie Lichtenstul, Miss Sophie Weiner, Miss Lillian Canter and the author Miss Doris Cransfield.

Little Gertrude Kadish, of Detroit closed the delightful program with classic dances.

OF INTEREST TO PITTSBURGHERS

After a very successful season at Shapiro's Britain, on South Maryland Avenue, Atlantic City, N. J., Mrs. Harry Shapiro finds it impossible to accommodate the ever increasing clientele and to that end has purchased the 150 room, fireproof building at the corner of South Vermont and Oriental Avenues, now operated as the New Merion Hotel.

On and after October the 15th, the new building will be known as Shapiro's Britain, where the cuisine and service will be of the same high standards as they were on Maryland Avenue. Patrons will be pleased to know that the new house is absolutely modern in all respects and that they will be given all the conveniences and home-like atmosphere as of old.

The new Shapiro's Britain promises to be one of the most popular of Atlantic City's up-town hosteleries.

JEWISH HOME FOR BABIES

The regular monthly meeting of the Jewish Home for Babies, will be held on Sunday, October 26, at the Pension Life building, 1901-1903 Fifth Avenue.

Memorial services will be held in honor for deceased members by Rev. Bloom. Important business matters will be transacted.

The lot located on the Home ground will be raffled at said meeting. Members and friends who have participated in selling tickets are kindly requested to come ready for the closing raffle account.

Final arrangements for the dance on November 19, 1919, which is to be held at Motor Square Garden.

The public are cordially invited to patronize the affair, which through the capable committees appointed is planned and arranged to the best of advantage of the spacious hall of the Motor Square Garden.

The Home thankfully acknowledges the following donations: Princess Mfg. Co., one dozen boy's suits; Mrs. Swartz, groceries; Mrs. Rayfield, sugar; Mrs. M. Schlesinger, cakes; Mrs. I. Rabinovitz, cakes; Mrs. Feldman, pillows and pillow cases; Mrs. Olitsky, candy; Mrs. Slutsky, sugar; Mrs. Freedman, baby knapkins; Mrs. Moses, oranges; Rev. Alpern, sugar; Mrs. Levin, groceries; Mrs. Isaac Kaufmann, sugar.

EVOD CLUB DANCE

The Evod Club of Braddock will open its winter season with an informal dance on Wednesday evening, November 19th. Invitations are being issued by the Committee on Social Activities, which includes Joseph R. Shermer, Benj. Lubic and Al Hecht, Chairman.

NIXON THEATRE

Monday night marks the beginning of the second week of Fred Stone's engagement in "Jack O'Lantern" at the Nixon theatre. The capacity audience that enjoyed Fred Stone this week were unanimous in saying that never before had they seen the comedian to better advantage, for he is constantly in action from the rise of the curtain to the final one. Every minute he furnishes a sensation, and best of all it is quite an unexpected one. In fact, "Jack O'Lantern" may be fittingly termed "a show of surprises." While Stone may be called a whole show in himself yet Mr. Dillingham, the producer, has surrounded the star with a cast of excellence in every particular and for good measure added one of the loveliest choruses imaginable. The ice skating carnival in the last scene is a novelty and in it Stone portrays "Charlotte Russe" and does a burlesque skating stunt that is side-splitting as well as demonstrating another trick this versatile comedian has at his command.

AMELITA GALLI-CURCI

Since the memorable Chicago debut of Amelita Galli-Curci when she appeared for the first time in America as Gilda in Rigoletto, the career of this noted artist reads like a romance. With remembrances of Sembrich, Tettazzini and other great artists who had sung the part this Chicago opera aud-

AMELITA GALLI-CURCI

Syria Mosque, Tuesday Evening, November 4th, at 8:15 p.m. The audience gathered for a routine performance of the opera but when the curtain fell on the second act, this calm, suave gathering rose in its seats and shouted and screamed in delight with Mme. Galli-Curci. Nothing like her had been heard in the six years Chicago has had an opera company named for it.

Unlike some artists whose success is short lived, the enthusiasm for this dainty little star seems always to increase and the mere announcement that she will appear brings scores of inquiries daily to the office of her managers. Pittsburgh will hear her but once in concert this season, her only recital being announced for Syria Mosque on Friday evening, November 4, when she will appear under the management of Edith Taylor Thomson.

LOEW'S LYCEUM

An inviting bill of vaudeville and photodrama is promised amusement seekers next week at Loew's Lyceum and among the acts calculated to please is one produced by the Wheeler Trio who perform wonderful balancing feats. These young men are daring acrobats and their entertainment is said to be sensational. "Why Smith Left Home" with Washburn in the stellar role is the photo-comedy which will be given its first showing here. It concerns the exciting adventures of Smith and his bride on their honeymoon. They are in a train wreck, a hotel fire and an earthquake and are harassed by the meddlesome aunt of the bride. The play is one long laugh. Wayne and Allen have a hilarious skit in "In and Out" while Godfrey and Henderson will make merry with a breezy patterlogue. Ferguson and Sunderland contribute a series of songs, stories and steps and the Morton Brothers, harmonica experts round out an entertaining bill.

HEYN RECITAL COMING AT THE SYRIA MOSQUE

The opening of the Heyn Recital series at Syria Mosque on Friday evening, October 31, will bring to Pittsburgh for the first time the Scotti Grand Opera Company in two notable performances. Headed by Antonio Scotti the greatest baritone of the time, the company which is largely drawn from the Metropolitan, will present for the first time in Pittsburgh, Leon's interesting opera in one act "L'Oracolo," to be followed by a performance of Mascagni's always popular "Cavalleria Rusticana."

Following in the series are notable recitals which will be given at Carnegie Music Hall, the first, November 11th, by Josef Hofmann, who after a long absence will indeed be welcome in Pittsburgh. December 15th is the date of the next recital when Hipolito Lazaro the great Spanish tenor and Toscha Seidel, the Russian violinist will present the program. Emmy Destinova, whom before the war we knew and loved as Emmy Destinn, gives the next program on Wednesday evening, January 7th, and will be followed by two distinguished American artists, Albert Spalding and Reinald Werrenrath, who appear jointly on Friday evening, January 30th. The season will close with a recital by Mme. Frances Alda, and Charles Hackett of the Metropolitan. Mme. Alda's appearance here last year as a member of the Grand Opera Quartet won her many friends who are anxious to hear her again, and Mr. Hackett, her fellow artist is one of the most successful tenors on the opera stage. The sale of season tickets will close today and single tickets for the opera will be sold on Monday at the office of the manager.

GRAND THEATRE

It takes the world-famous Houdini to present the ultimate in screen thrills. Placed beside his Paramount-Artcraft special production, "The Grim Game," which will be presented at the New Million Dollar Grand all next week starting Monday morning, October 20th, photoplay "thrillers" of the past seem commonplace. Not only does the master illusionist perform before one's eyes all the amazing feats for which he has earned his fame on the stage, but he offers others even more sensational.

THE DUNCAN DANCERS

The Duncan Dancers are a unique attraction which offers an alluring invitation to the concert-goers, as well as lover of the dance. Anna, Theresa, Irma, Lisa, Erica and Margot, known as the six "Isadorables" are today the greatest exponents of the classic dance, and together with George Copeland, the well known pianist, they will give one of the most delightful entertainments of the season at Carnegie Music Hall next Friday evening, October 24th. These young girls are the adopted daughters of Isadore Duncan, and for fourteen years they worked with her, although the oldest is but twenty-two. They learned the groundwork of their art with her, and studied also painting, statuary, music, poetry and Nature. Their plastic, highly trained bodies become the agency for transmitting to the audience emotions which the music calls forth, just as the piano becomes the agency of expression for Mr. Copeland.

In addition to "The Grim Game," the Grand's program will include the latest farcial Fox Sunshine comedy, "Her First Kiss;" Hy Mayer's creation showing the fashion forecast of 1919-1920, "The Modes;" the Grand News Weekly, the "Topics of the Day," and an Outing-Chester film. The Symphony Orchestra under Director David Brody will play a score arranged by Zoel Parenteau, as well as an extra number. Both orchestra and pipe organ will be all-day features. Performances will be continuous from 10 a. m. till 11 p. m.

Their program this season is entirely new, and is greatly enhanced by the supreme art of George Copeland, who is unexcelled as an exponent of modern French music and renowned as a Chopin player of individuality.

OLYMPIC THEATRE

Tom Moore An Aristocrat in Film Version of Famous Racing Play.—"Lord and Lady Algy," New Goldwyn Production, Presents Star in Role in Which William Faversham Toured America.

Tom Moore is following in the footsteps of one of the world's greatest actors. His newest Goldwyn picture, "Lord and Lady Algy," which will be shown at the Olympic Theatre, beginning Monday is the picturized form of the play of the same name which served William Faversham as a starring vehicle for several of his American tours.

TOM MOORE
"Lord and Lady Algy"
Goldwyn Pictures

The story is a dramatic comedy by R. C. Carton, and was directed on the screen by Harry Beaumont. Although the story does not preach the evils of betting, the tragic moments are brought about by Lord Algy's loss of his entire fortune on the running of the famous English Derby. Although he had promised his wife not to bet any more, the temptation to back his favorite racer was too great, and the young Lord wagered everything he owned. As a consequence, a coolness sprang up between the young couple which was further chilled by the intrigues of the young Lord's brother. However, Lady Algy managed to save her husband from financial disgrace and patch up their differences.

DAVIS THEATRE

Rarely, if ever, has a more interestingly diversified program of vaudeville been prepared than that which will provide the Keith shows in the Davis Theatre every afternoon and evening during the week which begins Monday, October 20. There is every species of polite varsity in the bill of nine acts and double headline attractions.

Marion Morgan and her esthetic dancers from the open air theatre at Berkeley, California, are preparing for a return engagement in Pittsburgh in mid-November. They have not performed here in the last two years, but have had a series of brilliant successes in the East, and are shortly to leave for Europe for extended engagements.

Various other acts besides news motion pictures will complete the bill.

ALVIN THEATRE

More gorgeous in detail, more elaborate in settings and with a complete new edition of costumes "Chu Chin Chow," the famous Oscar Asche musical extravaganza of the Orient, returns to the Shubert Alvin Theatre Monday evening, beginning promptly at 8 p. m. for a limited engagement.

In color and detail, and richness of dress, this attraction stands forth without an equal on the American stage, and there is every indication from great advance demands for seats that "Chu Chin Chow" will even exceed this season, the record breaking attendance of its first visit here.

PITT THEATRE

Charlotte Walker is probably the most-envied feminine star of the stage among her contemporaries for she was selected, along with Ernest Lawford, as the one to perpetuate the success of "Tea for Three," Roi Cooper Megrue's sterling comedy, which played an entire year at Maxine Elliott's Theatre in New York. Miss Walker and Mr. Lawford are now making a nation-wide tour in the play and it promises to be the most successful theatrical venture in recent years. The Selwyns will present these players in this success of all last year's successes during next week at the Pitt Theatre.

No comedy produced during recent years has shown so much strength and has proven so universally popular. Many comedies produced at various times during the season have flashed for a brief period, exhausted their following and then disappeared. "Tea for Three" continues steadily, happily and extremely successfully in the metropolis more than an entire year. One primary reason, of course, being that it has a universal appeal. There is no one class of theatregoers who does not find enjoyment in it, and therein lies the secret of most of its success.

In fairness to all concerned it is generally admitted that the cast has something to do with the success of a play, and with Miss Walker, and Mr. Lawford, and their carefully selected associates the Selwyns can easily be given credit for having taken good care of that end of the play's welfare. The others include Doan Borup, and Kathryn Hayden. Miss Walker has not had such a popular vehicle since her world-famed portrayal in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." Last season Mr. Lawford scored in "Why Marry?"

"Tea for Three" will undoubtedly prove one of the most popular theatrical offerings of the year in this pair's hands. It is one of the really worth while things of the theatre this season.

An Old-Fashioned Succoth Story

By E. C. Ehrlich

Specially Written for The Jewish Criterion

"Did I ever build a Sukkah?" repeated my grandfather and I wish you could have heard the disdain in his quavering, old voice. "Do you take me for a goy? Such a Sukkah as I used to build home in the old country—a Sukkah that was a Sukkah. And it was not for show, not to put up on a platform and have a rabbi read from under it and some children march up and down with baskets of fruit and sing goyish songs. No, no!" He wagged his gray head impatiently, almost angrily. "Our Sukkah was not strung with little colored electric lights—like a Christmas tree. And it was not for show. Ours was to eat in and sing in—and once—" with a mysterious nod—"our Sukkah was the home for a night for a poor lost wanderer."

I scented a story and drew my chair closer. "Tell me all about it," I begged.

Grandfather peered cautiously over his glasses to see whether my sixteen-year-old sister was still in the window seat with her book. "Nu, you may hear it," he conceded, seeing that she had left the room, "but not Helen. It is not good for young girls to know too much and there are things in this story that little Helen should not hear."

I agreed, trying to keep a sober face. Dear old grandfather reads nothing but Yiddish and Hebrew, so he has never glanced through any of Helen's favorite novels. Now Helen is really a liberal reader; she dotes on Galsworthy and she's devoured every word Robert Chambers ever penned. The girls in her set go to all the latest problem plays and it's great fun hearing them discuss eugenics and trial marriage and a lot of rot afterwards. So I had to smile at grandfather's suggestion that his story might shock our innocent little Helen.

Well, seeing we were alone, grandfather took off his glasses, wiped them slowly, put them on again, leaned back in his chair, cleared his throat and began.

"We were not long married, your grandmother and I. Till that year we had lived with her parents, but during the summer her father had died and we set up for ourselves. In a little way, you understand me, not like young people must have now, with their automobiles and silk stockings and everything. We were not poor, but we did not have it big in our heads. We did not put everything we had on our backs—(this with a snort as he eyed Helen's new fur coat slung across a chair)—and we didn't have to run to the moving picture shows every night. We were glad to stay at home. I had my Torah and your grandmother was busy from five in the morning till long after I went to bed: sewing and cleaning and baking and cooking—especially before Yom tov.

"I built my Sukkah myself that year and it was a Sukkah no one had any need to be ashamed of. Your grandmother's poor papa selig, who had always built his in the corner of the little yard, wouldn't have had cause to criticise mine. I bought plenty of boughs from Ivan the peasant and your grandmother made it beautiful with fruit, bright apples and grapes and red leaves here and there between. Your father brought me some fruit the other day all fixed in a fancy basket. But why? I could not eat it. Nothing tastes right any more. Not for years have I tasted fruit that tasted like the fruit in our own Sukkah. Yes, it was a grand Sukkah but it was very large. Large enough though, your grandmother said, and she sighed when she said it. For we had no children. We had been married almost four years and there had been no child. You young people in America laugh—you do not care. But once it seemed a terrible thing to die without leaving a Kaddish behind you.

"We ate in our Sukkah the first night and the second and the stars shone down through the open places in the roof and our hearts were lighter although your grandmother's fear that she was barren weighed on us more than ever in that season when we saw other parents happy with their children. Yet we did not grieve too much; it is always easy to hope when one looks up at the stars.

"I remember it all so clearly. And yet it happened, let me see, over fifty years ago. While I cannot recall the name of that gentleman your father brought home to supper last evening. But this I remember well!

"The third night of the festival I was restless and could not sleep. I don't know what drove me out of my bed and made me dress and walk about in our little yard. I was about to say the Eternal One, blessed be He, took me by the hand and led me there but I do not want you to laugh at me. For nowadays you young people use fine words about 'accident' and 'coincidence' and all sorts of things I cannot understand. In the days when people were not so wise they just said 'God' and let it pass.

"And so I was walking in the garden when I heard a stirring in the Sukkah. At first I thought it was just the wind stirring the boughs and was about to pass on and go back to the house; then I saw a dark shawl fluttering behind the leaves and I went in.

"I met her then, face to face. She stood as close to me as you are sitting now. Who? Why, little Rose, our rabbi's daughter, who had run away from home the year your grandmother and I were married. Little Rose was—but I cannot tell you how fair she was when she lived in her father's house. She was not like the other Jewish maidens I knew; there was a restless flame in her heart and it seemed to burn in her eyes. I am an old man but I cannot forget how beautiful she was.

"Standing there in the moonlight she looked very thin and white but still beautiful. Her shawl had fallen down and showed me all her yellow hair, bright and tangled about her face. I had heard the shameless one had once vowed never to cut her hair when she went under the cuppah; I do not know whether those who told it, slandered her, but here she stood with her hair uncovered like an unmarried girl and a little baby in her arms.

"Rose," I said, and nothing more, for the words stuck in my throat.

"She looked full in my face, yet did not seem to see me. When she spoke her words made me afraid; she was so cold and still it seemed as though the dead were talking.

"I just came back to see my father's grave," she said. "Tomorrow I go away again, and no one here will ever see me again. I have walked far," she said, and she showed me her feet, all torn and bleeding from the roads; though I am still weak and the little one weighs on my arm. But perhaps in the city there will be work for me and I will walk on as long as I can. Only I could not go away until I had gone to his grave."

"I wanted to ask her of the man for whose sake she had deserted her father and broken his heart; but I could not. Some say he was not even a Jew; others that her father had driven him away because of a wildness in his blood. I do not know how deeply she sinned—I only remember that she was very beautiful and I pitied her.

"Can I rest here in your Sukkah tonight?" she asked me. "I dare not knock on any door for they would drive me away with stones and curses. But I am very tired and the baby is heavy on my arm. I am like Hagar in the wilderness and my child is an outcast like hers. Give me refuge for the night."

"Then I did a bold thing for those days when men set their faces hard against evil and had little mercy for those taken in open sin. I bade her sit on the bench and rest and I stole into the house and brought milk and bread out to her and gave her food to eat and to carry upon her journey. Then she ate like one famished and suckled her child while I pulled down some of the boughs and laid a cloak upon them that she might have a bed. She wept then for the first time and blessed me. She may have been an evil woman but her tears were pure—and her blessing—but more of that in the days that followed.

"The next morning when I came out to the Sukkah she was gone. But on the bed of boughs lay the little child covered with my cloak. I carried it into your grandmother and told her of the tiny one's mother. And your grandmother wept and held the little one close and I knew what she meant to do even before she spoke. We called her Simcha, for it was almost Simchath Torah. And, besides, we thought the child would bring us great joy even as she had brought her own mother sorrow."

Grandfather was silent for a little while, his eyes looking far away. I touched him gently on the sleeve. "How is it I have never heard of the little girl before?"

The old man shrugged. "What was the use? It all happened so long ago. Even I almost forgot sometimes that once I had a little daughter, but your grandmother does not forget. That is a woman's way. And she still speaks grievously to me of Simcha even though she is satisfied with your father and your two uncles. Perhaps, that was the blessing poor Rose brought upon us there in the Sukkah—for the next year our first son was born. But no daughters. Perhaps that is why your grandmother still mourns for little Simcha."

"Did she die?"

"Yes. When she was six years old. She was a lovely little thing with gold hair like Rose's and the same shining eyes." The old man smiled, a strange, half-cynical, half-tender smile. "Your grandmother is a good woman and she could never forgive poor Rose. Perhaps that is what hurts her the most. To think that if Rose ever found her place in Gan Eden and met her child, little Simcha would know her for her own mother and love her best. Yes, your grandmother begrudges poor Rose that, but she is a good woman and she loved the child, too."

BLIND STUDENT RESUMES STUDIES; SIGHT LOST IN WAR

To Complete His Courses at the Hebrew Union College and University of Cincinnati

Cincinnati — Michael Aaronsohn, twenty-three, hero of the war, and the greatest hero in the history of the Hebrew Union College, has returned to resume his studies for the Rabbinat.

During the battle of Argonne about one year ago, while bearing to safety a wounded comrade for whom he had gone into the open, he was struck in the eyes and blinded by a fragment of shell. His "buddy" was killed at the same time.

The compassion that his friends felt when they learned of his fate, is apt to vanish when they come in personal contact with the optimism and good cheer of the man himself. His happiness is in his return to his studies at the Hebrew Union College and the University of Cincinnati, in preparation for his life work. To him, the absence of eyesight is no handicap at all. The road to the realization of his ambition is still passable, and he intends to walk it guided by his college companions. The students at the H. U. C. have pledged themselves to give him all the aid they can in the pursuit of his studies.

He enlisted in the Old First Regiment of the Ohio National Guard, during the first days of the war, after rejection for service by the Marines, being undersized. His enlistment was from purely patriotic motives, as he was then but twenty years old, and being a theological student, was exempt from service.

He was promoted to sergeant major after the First Regiment was incorporated into the 37th Division. He is the only member of that division blinded in the war. He had learned the Braille system of reading and writing at Evergreen School, the government institute for the blind in Baltimore, his home town.

The young hero arrived in Cincinnati with his sister who has come here to be the light of his darkness.

MRS. BESSIE JACKSON IN MEMORIAM

By Dr. Rudolph I. Coffee, Temple Judea, Chicago, Ill.

In the passing of Mrs. Bessie Jackson, Pittsburgh Jewry is immeasurably poorer. Without her constructive vision and active help, the Jewish community of Pittsburgh could never have attained its present strength and power. All her friends feel a void has been created but the chief mourner will be our dearly beloved friend, the bereaved husband.

First of all, Mrs. Jackson was the true Jewish helpmate to her life companion. Their two hearts did beat as one, for they ever worked in perfect harmony. When Mr. Jackson attended the hospital meetings, his wife accompanied him; whether he toured the country for pleasure or journeyed to the Zionist Convention, where for many years he was a trusted officer, Mrs. Jackson went along; and when he visited the Holy Land to see the Biblical places, it was together in the company of his devoted wife. Supporting him in his many philanthropic and social works, Mrs. Jackson exerted a real influence in the Jewish community.

In addition, her own strong and forceful personality asserted itself in many ways. Twenty years ago, when the first Pittsburgh Sisterhood was to be organized, Mrs. Jackson became President of the Ladies Auxiliary of the "Tree of Life" Congregation. She always accepted difficult posts of service. When the Home for the Aged wished a president for its Ladies Auxiliary, it was again to Mrs. Jackson that people turned. Here was a most exacting post. The president must be a woman of infinite tact and patience in speaking to the old inmates; she must win and hold the confidence of the orthodox women who live in the "Hill" district and give so gladly of their meager earnings; she must also command the respect of the people with means who were prepared to give of their wealth to this worthy institution. Mrs. Jackson filled these requirements and was the active head till the hour of her passing. In fact, few women have ever lived in Pittsburgh who could so remarkably act as a rallying center for all sects in Jewry. Her spirit of democracy was genuine and she both won and held the esteem of reform and orthodox alike. Therefore, we who honored and respected her, cannot feel that Mrs. Jackson is dead. She lives in the hearts of all who intimately knew her.

Her translation is more than a loss. Let us rather think of it as a seed. Instead of a death, we shall call it an example, a spur to higher deeds, an incentive. The Jewry of Pittsburgh is the richer because of Mrs. Jackson, and her departure should act as a challenge. Will not her friends take up the unfinished tasks, and hold on high the torch of consecrated labor to which she gave the full measure of her strength and time? Because her life was a consecration, her dear ones will surely "carry on."

God solace the mourners, for their loss is very great.

JEWISH HEALTH BUREAU IN JERUSALEM FACING BIG TASK

The work during the war of the Jewish Health Bureau, established in Jerusalem by Nathan Straus, is described in a report issued yesterday by the Zionist Organization of America, dealing with the period from September, 1914, to December, 1918. Throughout those years, the report states, the staff underwent great hardships. Some of the surgeons were forced to become Turkish citizens; some were impressed into the Turkish army and others were deported. Epidemics depleted their forces and overworked the entire staff, but with the assistance of Dr. Glazebrook and the Count of Ballobar, the American and Spanish consuls, they overcame all adverse conditions.

When cholera and typhus in virulent forms broke out in 1916 and 1917 the bureau produced large quantities of serums. The entire bureau worked among the people without reference to race or creed.

MONSTER PROTEST PLANNED IN NEW YORK AGAINST UKRAINIAN POGROMS

(By International Jewish Press Bureau)

New York.—At a conference of the Federation of Ukrainian Jews at the McAlpin Hotel, plans were set in motion for a protest meeting against the pogroms in Ukrainia, which will surpass even the great Madison Square Garden protest of last May. A committee of prominent Jews has been appointed to make arrangements for the protest.

HAVE you ever considered the amount of waste there is to practically every food you buy? Take steak for instance. There's the bone, gristle and fat--which you pay full price for but can't use. The same is true of most all meats

When you buy milk, however, it is used to the last drop--and every drop contains food elements necessary for growth and health.

Because there is no waste and because it is such a complete product in itself, it is the cheapest food you can buy. It makes other dishes more appetizing, too.

So from the standpoint of your pocketbook, Madam, it pays in dollars and cents to use milk liberally. Children especially need plenty of it every day.

Interviews with Prominent Roumanian Diplomats

Alexander Marghiloman and Take Jonescu, Both Former Premiers, Promise Many Good Things for the Jews--If They Should Again Come Into Power

By Leo Wolfson

(Special to The Jewish Criterion)

The statements on the Jewish question in Roumania, which follow, were made to me by two of the most prominent Roumanian statesmen and leaders of the opposition parties to the government.

The first statement is from Mr. Alexander Marghiloman, leader of the Progressive-Conservative Party. Mr. Marghiloman was the Roumanian Premier at the time when Germany compelled Roumania to sign the peace of Bucharest in 1916. In the treaty, there was a stipulation that the Jews should receive equal political rights. Under the leadership of Mr. Marghiloman, the Parliament adopted a naturalization law which was so bad that the Jews declined to take advantage of its so-called benefits, and refused to become naturalized under the same.

Mr. Marghiloman invited me to meet him at his home, where he received me with exceptional cordiality, and spent several hours with me. He told me the circumstances under which the Bucharest treaty was made, and also discussed his naturalization law. On the Jewish question, he had this to say:

"The Jewish question is an inheritance from the past—and it is a grievous wrong. It is a very serious problem, and its solution is still more difficult because of the fact that the leaders of the Liberal Party—the government—do not treat the question honestly, and make use of insincere expedients.

"I am convinced that if the government changed hands, the question would be settled, and we should at the same time win the approbation of the outside world—which has a poor opinion of us now.

"I believe that the question could be quickly and easily solved. To that end, radical measures ought to be adopted, and they ought to be carried through earnestly, honestly, and in the shortest possible time. Only thus can we win the sympathy of the great powers who are now against us. I am not of the opinion that the Jews should constitute or establish a separate national group. But in order that they may become loyal patriots—in the same sense that they are patriots in the Western European countries and in America—it is unquestionably necessary that they should be placed on the same level as the Roumanians themselves—and they must receive absolutely equal rights—without the slightest exception. Moreover, these rights must be given to them without any reservations and without allowing any loopholes for withdrawing the same from them."

"How do you think the question can be settled? What form do you think the solution ought to take?" I asked him.

"I know," he continued, "that many will not agree with me, also that many will criticize me for my stand. I think, however, that the best means of solving the Jewish problem is through an international treaty—that is, that in the treaty which Roumania will subscribe to in Paris, there ought to be a clause requiring the settlement of the Jewish question—and which shall also prescribe how this is to be done. This means is the best because it does away with the difficulties created by the text of the constitution, and because the treaty takes precedence over the constitution. The Jews would then have to receive their rights according to the stipulations contained in the treaty—and the country would have to carry them out without any quibbling."

"The Bucharest treaty also demanded the emancipation of the Jews, and you were Premier at the time; why, then, did you not carry out these terms? And further, why did you adopt a law which was so hopelessly bad?" I asked him.

"I must admit that the law was not very satisfactory—the demands of the treaty, however, were also pernicious," he replied. "Besides you must realize that the treaty was an enforced one, and nothing which it entailed could be carried out with good grace.

"At that time, under these circumstances, that law was the best thing which the country could do. Now the circumstances are quite different. Now everyone will admit that the Jewish question must be solved, and the country is prepared to do so."

"What would you do now, if you were again called upon to take over the government of the country?" I asked him further. To my question, he replied:

"I would take the stand that the Jewish question must once for all be settled honestly and basically and without leaving any loopholes, and I should settle it after that principle in the shortest possible time."

The second statement was given to me by Mr. Take Jonescu—one of the most illustrious of the Roumanians. Mr. Jonescu has many times filled ministerial offices, and now he is the leader of the Conservative Party. He is very widely known in diplomatic circles, because it was he who carried on the pro-Entente policy in Roumania during the time of the war, when Roumania was still neutral.

Among other things which we discussed, he had the following to say about the Jewish question:

"I have always been in favor of a thorough-going solution of the Jewish question. As often as I had a part in the government, I made every possible effort to do something about the Jewish question, but the conditions were never favorable. The whole country knows my attitude toward the Jewish question. In my opinion the law decree of the present administration offers a complete solution of the problem."

I reminded him that the Jews were not of the same opinion, and pointed out many flaws in the law.

"Possibly there are certain clauses in the law which ought to be modified; in that case, that should be done immediately to obviate any dissatisfaction in the matter," he replied.

Proceeding, he said: "After the law with the necessary modifications has been carried out, it is essential that efforts be instituted toward a rapprochement, a 'getting together' spirit, between the Jews and the Roumanians. This spirit will be possible, when in addition to the equal rights which the Jews will enjoy, the Roumanian people will learn to appreciate the worth of the Jews, and will also be ready to allow the Jews to participate largely in the public life of the state itself."

"What do you mean by Jewish participation in the life of the state—how could it be brought about?" I asked him.

"First it is necessary," he answered, "that Jews shall take an active interest in the political life of the land, by joining the various political parties of the country. My own party is ready to receive Jews on an equal basis—with the same rights which all have."

The Horrible Proclamation of a Roumanian Commander

By Lee Wolfson

(Special to The Jewish Criterion)

During the time of the war, the Roumanian High Command issued many orders and proclamations against the Jews. A part of these were secret and confidential, but many were entirely open and public. I am sure that in no country—in no army in the world—would it be possible for such a proclamation to be issued as the one which I shall transcribe here. It is unbelievable that such a thing could have occurred, but I assure the reader that the proclamation is a fact, that it was actually issued. By reason of it, Jews suffered much anxiety and terror.

The author of the proclamation is a Roumanian captain, named Kitzulescu, commander-in-chief of the division of the Roumanian army in Bessarabia, and it reads as follows (textual translation):

"From the Commandant of the Roumanian Army in the region of Secureanu-Tarnava, in Bessarabia. No. 12, in the City of Secureanu—the 16th of January, 1919.

To the Priests, Mayors, Teachers and educated persons of the District Maldevagalaska.

Dear Christian Brethren:
I beg to inform you that the great High Command of the Roumanian and French Armies in Odessa has been advised that the Bolsheviki are being organized and led by Jews, and that they are doing this work under the name of the 'Committee for the Liberation of Bessarabia.' The program of the Committee is to the effect that the Jews who live in Bessarabia ought also to rule over it.

"The Bolsheviki emblem consists of two red triangles, superimposed one on the other. This is the Mosaic device which the Jews wear on the head when praying, and they call it 'Zion.' (Here was printed a Mogen-David.)

"The Jews have disorganized, terrorized, and thoroughly demoralized the Russian army. Through their agi-

"Will your party put forward Jewish candidates at the next elections to the constitutional convention Parliament?" I asked. "Certainly," he replied, "we would be glad to do so and I am sure the other parties will do the same."

"Will they be elected? Have they any chance of election at all? Do you think that there will be Jewish members in the next Parliament?" I asked further.

"Positively," he answered. "I cannot imagine the next Parliament without Jews. In fact I believe that there will be many Jewish representatives."

Then I put my last question to him: "If you came into power now, what would you do about the Jewish question?"

"Assuming the standpoint that the Jewish question is settled, and that it will become entirely solved through modifications in the present law decree, I would appoint capable Jews as judges, magistrates, and to similar important offices—in this fashion I should work for the creation of a friendly spirit between the Jews and the Roumanians—and make the Roumanians appreciate Jewish merit and valor."

It is worth while noting that both gentlemen gave me permission to publish their opinions of the Jewish question in Roumania itself, and I did so. The ministers of the government spoke with me practically to the same effect, but they did not allow me to make public their statements. They spoke for the foreign press only.

tators, Lenine, Trotzky, Kerensky and other 'Zhides,' they murdered the Czar.

"They have blinded the people. They have made promises which they did not keep. They have stood in the way of quiet and order. They destroyed respect for private property, and they have also flouted the laws of the land, and faith and religion.

"The entire Christian populace has seen with its own eyes the cross of our Holy Lord, Jesus Christ, spattered with the blood of our innocent people.

"Dear Brethren! Christians! Rise up as one man. In the presence of our bleeding Saviour, cleanse his Holy Cross with the tears of innocent widows and orphans. Christians! Heroes! Pray to God. Purge his Cross, besmirched by Judas, the Jew, and his God's betrayers.

"Do not forget God's Son, Jesus Christ, before whom our grandfathers have knelt for hundreds of years.

"Show the way to your children; teach them respect for the laws, and love for the sacred land in which you have been born and reared. Do not have anything to do with the Jews; do not fraternize with them; and cleanse the Holy Cross.

"When our enemies threw themselves like wolves upon our sacred Bessarabia, our brothers, the Roumanian soldiers, saved her, and cast her enemies into the Dniester.

"When His Majesty, Emperor Ferdinand the First, heard of Bessarabia's unhappy plight, he immediately sent his army to help the populace, and to destroy the enemies who wished to destroy them.

"Christians! I appeal to you to have trust in our God. Be submissive to your Emperor.

To INVEST YOUR MONEY WISELY IS TO TAKE YOUR PROPER PLACE AS A CITIZEN

By William H. Siviter

Financial Editor of the Jewish Criterion

Financial circles received with great satisfaction the tonnage report of the United States Steel Corporation, issued last Friday afternoon, which showed a further increase in business on its books, notwithstanding the strike, which affected operations in some of its establishments rather seriously, while other of its mills were not disturbed to any great extent. During the month of September there was an increase in new orders over shipments, of 175,535 tons, and the unfilled orders on the corporation's books now amount to 6,284,638 tons. Further expansion is confidently looked for as labor troubles grow less. It is recognized that the efforts of Mr. Gompers at the conference at Washington, to secure a truce while conditions are being probed, the men to go to work in the meantime, is a confession that the strike is lost. In the meantime business, both domestic and foreign, is increasing in the iron and steel trades. American mills are booking iron and steel orders for export at the rate of 400,000 tons monthly, and there is more active buying of foundry pig iron at several points, including Chicago and New England centers.

The report of the U. S. Steel Corporation was accompanied by a decided advance in the price of Steel common stock, as well as of other steel concerns. Republic Steel went above par for the first time, and United States Steel sold at the highest price in a long while. Pressed Steel Car had a large advance, and the Locomotive issues and others usually classed with the steels, shared in the strength of the market. Some interesting statistics regarding the strong position of several of the big steel concerns were given out by Dow, Jones & Co., in discussing the possibilities of labor troubles. This well-known authority said:

"The U. S. Steel Corporation, as well as the independent companies, could keep its plants closed for a full year without making heavy inroads upon surplus. U. S. Steel at the close of last year had a working capital of $548,700,000, an increase of $321,500,000 over December 31, 1914. Its cash, Liberty bonds, Treasury certificates and investment securities aggregated $451,600,000. Surplus after all charges, including dividends, was equal to $75.83 a share on the common stock.

"The independent steel companies are relatively as strongly fortified as the U. S. Steel Corporation. For example, Bethlehem Steel had a working capital on December 31 last of $80,000,000, an increase of $68,500,000 in four years. Since January 1 there has been a further addition of working capital, and Bethlehem has paid off before maturity $22,500,000 of its notes. Bethlehem's cash, Liberty bonds, Treasury certificates, etc., on December 31 last totaled $67,300,000. In four years Bethlehem Steel showed a surplus after all charges, including dividends, equal to $135.39 on its $60,000,000 authorized common stock.

"Republic Iron & Steel had a working capital of $28,700,000 at the close of last year, an increase of $21,800,000, or 328% in four years. Its cash, Liberty bonds, Treasury certificates, etc., totaled nearly $18,000,000. Its surplus after all charges, including dividends, for the four years, was equal to $106.99 a share on the common stock.

"Lackawanna Steel reported a working capital at the close of last year of $24,600,000, an increase of $8,000,000, and had on hand cash, Liberty bonds, etc., amounting to $13,800,000. It added to the value of its common stock in the four years' period $79.76 a share."

New Records Made by Stocks

The local market for securities continues very active, with new high prices recorded practically every day. One of the issues to sell higher than ever before is American Window Glass Machine. This is due not merely to the expectation of another substantial dividend, but also to the fact that the U. S. Court of Appeals has upheld decisions of lower courts, where the company had complained of infringement of patents. Several of the gas and petroleum stocks recorded new high prices again this week, which did the same last week. One of these was Oklahoma Natural Gas, the earning capacity of which has several times been commented on in this department. A great demand developed for Barnsdall Corporation, which rose rapidly to the best price of its history. Duquesne Oil advanced on the local curb to a new high price. There were large advances in Manufacturers Light and Heat, Ohio Fuel Supply, and other issues.

The Age of Oil Shares

Perhaps nothing in the realm of stock dealings is receiving the attention at the present time, that is devoted to the shares of companies which are producing petroleum or leasing land with the expectation of drilling for oil. There are far more issues of this class of securities handled in a free and broad market than ever before, and their movements are wide enough to attract a large and apparently rapidly growing clientele. The prices range from a few cents a share, for the "prospects", to more than $1,500, the latter being Atlantic Refining, which rose $115 in about a week. David White, the oil geologist of the U. S. Geological Survey, has given out an estimate that the crude petroleum still underground in the United States is about equal to 16 years' supply at the present rate of consumption. Of course no one can know how much oil there is underground, and even experts are laying themselves open to the possibility of being proved false prophets in a comparatively short time, by predictions like this. Similar announcements of the coming exhaustion of oil and gas deposits have been made before, and then has come the discovery of new

Labor Situation Menacing

On Tuesday, after the Columbus Day holiday, the New York Stock Market was very nervous, price movements in some specialties being as wide as 10 points in both directions. The President's condition, about which there seems to be much mystery which the average citizen sees no reason for, and the spread of the strike fever, were factors in causing many holders of stocks to throw them overboard. One authority expressed the opinion that the market could not stand so much strike news without being adversely affected. The strike of the longshoremen and freight handlers in New York, and the possibility of a strike of the coal miners, added to the unsettlement caused by the steel strike, were important factors.

Pittsburgh Again Leads Cleveland

A material increase over the previous week was reported by the Federal Reserve Board in Pittsburgh's lead over Cleveland in banking totals for the week ending October 1. The report credits Pittsburgh with $186,569,000 and Cleveland with $157,980,000. Other totals in the district were: Cincinnati, $63,081,000; Columbus, $27,455,000.

Foreign Credit Corporation

The Union Trust Company, of Pittsburgh, is one of the incorporators of the Foreign Credit Corporation, of New York City, with a capital and surplus of $6,000,000. The corporation was formed to accept drafts of foreign and domestic clients for the financing of export and import transactions.

On the Interborough Committee

H. C. McEldowney, president of the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, is a member of the committee formed to further the interests of holders of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company's first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent bonds, and three-year secured convertible 7 per cent. notes. Deposits of such securities are not yet desired, but names and addresses of holders are wanted in order that future communications of the committee may be promptly received.

Bankers and Bank Clerks Association

The annual meeting and dinner of the Bankers and Bank Clerks Mutual Benefit Association will be held November 17. Frank F. Brooks, chairman of the association, and vice-president of the First National Bank of Pittsburgh, has named a number of strong committees to look after the various items of the meeting. The election ticket is in the hands of A. J. Markland, of the Fidelity Title and Trust Co.; D. T. Parkinson, of the Union Trust Co., and J. R. Davies, of the Duquesne Trust Co.

Bankers Club Will Meet

The Bankers Club of Pittsburgh is preparing for an enjoyable meeting and dinner on Halloween night. One feature will be a meeting of the directors of the "Cross Roads Bank," which will proceed to do business in a thoroughly irregular and irresponsible manner. This will be in charge of A. W. Schreiber, of Carnegie.

London.—Emigration to America or to Palestine has come to be the only hope left to most of the former Jewish officials and professional men in Galicia. The lawyers spend their time in enforced idleness in the streets or in the libraries. None of the civil or military hospitals will admit Jewish doctors. Jews who have spent the greater part of their lives in government service now find themselves dismissed, and have to resort to peddling cheap articles, or become waiters in restaurants in order to keep from starving.

A Hundred Years of Pittsburgh

ALL of industrial Pittsburgh may be said to have happened in the last one hundred years. That is the span of time bridging the first rolling mill with the stupendous steel and iron plants of today.

A little less than a century old is this bank, which has grown up with the city and is built into the very structure of its business life.

Our growth is the result of day-to-day, year-to-year fidelity to the business interests of our customers and to the larger interests of Pittsburgh as a whole.

You can see the advisability of at least talking with our officers about the possibility of our working with you on your own daily business problems.

A DISTINGUISHED JEWISH PATRON OF ART

In the hurly-burly of present-day living we are likely to overlook not only the very things that yield the richest pleasures, but entirely lose sight of the personality that makes those pleasures possible, a condition easily accomplished when that personality prefers not to be nominated for "halls of fame" and like advertisements. However, it is good for us to know something of our benefactors and good for them to know of our appreciation; hence these lines on Mr. Adolph Lewisohn, that modest, gentle patron of the arts and artists.

Fifty-two years ago, at the age of eighteen, he sailed with his brother Leonard from Hamburg to seek his fortune in "the States", setting up his new home in New York, the city on which, when Fortune smiled, he lavished his appreciation and his philanthropy.

Embarking in the commission business with his brother, he followed, in the course of time, those other and larger interests that led him finally to success as a financier and as a developer of America's great natural resources.

The fact that Mr. Lewisohn has been responsible for great national development should of itself place him high in public esteem, but there is another and more immediate benefit to his fellow countrymen that ought to and does win their applause, and that is his splendid patronage of the arts and of artists.

And it is a patronage of the finest order, for he places his art appreciation, his judgment of it and his means to gratify both directly into the hands and lives of the people to enjoy it with him.

This is the finest kind of art patronage. It is a joy that, like the oil in the widow's cruse, is never exhausted. It was not enough, apparently, for Mr. Lewisohn to give the superb stadium to the City College of New York some years ago, for this year he made it possible for the public to hear nightly music of the best kind, and often he is seen enjoying it with them.

Here is the key of his character: to give the best in the best manner. And the manner of his giving includes always his own enjoyment of the gift. As this is true of the Stadium and Music, so it is with his patronage of the others arts and of artists themselves. Numberless are his donations to art galleries and schools; to institutions enabling struggling students of every kind to help themselves; and especially to those who have never had a chance in life does he lend a helping and sympathetic hand.

Another gift of Mr. Lewisohn's to the general public is the auditorium of the Hebrew Technical School for Girls at Second Avenue and 15th Street. Though smaller and entirely different from the Stadium, it is just as perfect. Here, over the proscenium arch, Frederick L. Stoddard painted the allegory of womanhood at his request.

The number of artists whose best work has been saved to us through Mr. Lewisohn will never be known, for his charity is kind. But do know that he is loved and revered by all who come in close contact with him, and the list of his friendship includes practically every American artist. Long, too, is the roster of American art works that appear in the gallery of his New York home. That they are associated with old masterpieces and works of well-known artists is an example of Mr. Lewisohn's keen appreciation of art. Blakelock, Wyant, Bellows, Sargent, Whistler, Kent, Speicher, and many others are seen with Rembrandt, Titian, Durer, Manet, Israels, Degas and their like. Sculptures of Rodin, Bourdelle and Chester Beach find space therein. Like Mr. Stransky, Mr. Lewisohn is a great admirer of Monticelli's beautiful flower paintings and owns a lovely one.

For some time these splendid works have been known to the New York public. It is said that over thirty thousand people have viewed them during the past five years and shortly a complete catalogue of the collection will be issued, as Mr. Lewisohn feels that art lovers have a right to know what and where the art of the world has found a resting-place.

This European custom of throwing open private galleries to the public is not common in this country, and for that reason the exceptions are the more appreciated. But in the case of Mr. Lewisohn, his home benefactions do not stop with the gallery, for his splendid Louis XV. ball-room has probably seen more assemblages of artists and art lovers than any other in America. Here were arranged the plans for the splendid concerts at the Stadium. Here the various concert committees worked out their details, and here, too, the auditions of singers and various musicians were heard. And numberless have been the discoveries of genius there of which the public knows nothing, but from whom it derives much pleasure.

For most people this yielding of privacy would be a severe trial. For Mr. Lewisohn it is a pleasure, because he genuinely loves art in all its forms, believes in its uplifting value to mankind, and because he loves mankind itself. We owe him much, and sincere appreciation is the only coin of payment. This we gladly give, feeling that like mercy—charity in art "blesseth him who gives and him who takes."—From "Arts and Decorations (New York).
