THE VOICE OF TRI-STATE JEWRY FOR 69 YEARS

Israel's Leading Military Advisor Confesses To Communist Spying

TEL AVIV, (JTA) — Israelis were stunned this week when they learned that the country's foremost military expert, Lt. Col. Israel Beer, personal military advisor to Prime Minister David Ben Gurion, professor of military history at Tel Aviv University, and keenest of military analysts for the Israeli press, had been arrested as a spy for a foreign Communist government — presumably Russia — and has confessed to the charges.

If convicted Dr. Beer faces life imprisonment. He was arrested at 2 a.m., on March 31, at his home in this city, on the edge of a small forest along the Yarkon River. He had answered a knock on the front door, and found himself facing a uniformed police officer accompanied by representatives of Shin Bet, Israel's security service. He was told he was suspected of espionage, and shown a warrant giving the officers authorization to search his home.

By the time the arresting party left Dr. Beer's home, about 65 pounds of documents had been confiscated. When told that he was accused of acting as a spy until the preceding day, and informed of the facts amassed by Shin Bet, he confessed. He is alleged to have made his last spying contact only a few hours before his arrest.

Dr. Beer told the Shin Bet probers he had been "dragged into" his espionage work, and claimed he really knew no secrets since he has been only a member of the Army reserve since 1952. However, in 1956, prior to the launching of Israel's military campaign against Egypt in the Sinai Desert, he is said to have been one of the very small handful of Israelis who knew all the Sinai campaign plans.

It is charged that he had passed on those plans to a Communist country which, in turn, trans-mitted the Sinai plans to the mitted the Sinai plans to the Egyptians. The Egyptians, however, disregarded those secrets, thinking they were false.

Among the documents confiscated in Dr. Beer's home, were excerpts from Mr. Ben Gurion's personal diaries. Documents discovered in his home showed that he had transmitted to a foreign agent "military information that was fairly up to date."

Ben Gurion Shocked

Prime Minister David Ben Gurion, who is said to have consulted Dr. Beer on highly-secret military matters, such as the Sinai campaign, was reported here as being one of the most shocked people in Israel. At the personal request of Mr. Ben-Gurion, who is also Defense Minister, Dr. Beer had been appointed in 1952 as official historian of Israel's War of Liberation, and had access to all secret military documents of Israel's armed forces. He had also lectured on strategy in Israel's War College.

Some reports here indicate that Dr. Beer was under suspicion for several years, since, upon his return from frequent trips to Europe, he had made various reports that could not be verified. Shin Bet personnel are understood to have watched him for a long time but could not pin down their sus-picions until they traced him through tracking a foreign agent in this country. His last meeting with a foreign agent took place in the woods near his Yarkon River home. In recent years, Dr. Beer is known to have visited Communist East Berlin at least six times.

Dr. Beer A Jew?

According to his own autobiography, published in a book entitled "Cold War in the Middle East," Dr. Beer was born in Vienna in 1912. While studying toward a degree as doctor of philosophy at the University of Vienna, he joined the Austrian Socialist party. When Chancellor Dolfuss, of Austria, started attacking the Socialists in his country, young Dr. Beer joined the Socialist Defense Corps, and was soon recognized as an excellent military strategist. He went to Spain, where he fought as a member of the International Brigade there, against the forces led by General-

Austrian General Refutes Military Spy's Background

VIENNA, (JTA) — Suspicion in Israel that Lt. Col. Israel Beer, Israel's top military analyst who was arrested on charges of spying for a communist country, had changed his name or had lied about his background in Europe, were confirmed Tuesday when Dr. Julius Deutsch, a former Austrian General of the International Brigade in the Spanish Civil War said that he was "absolutely certain that no Col. Beer existed in the brigade. I knew all Austrian officers personally and I never heard the name Beer.'

Col. Beer had described himself to Israeli investigators as a former Colonel in the International Brigade.

Dr. Deutsch disclosed that he did know a Maj. Loews who he said, was now working in the Israel War Archives. He suggested that Beer might have adopted the brigade experiences of Maj. Loew as his own.

that the Austrian Military Academy at Wiener Neustadt, which Col. Beer said he attended, had no record of any student named Beer. Among It was also reported here other statements by the accused spy which failed to check out here, was the claim that he had been a member of the former Austrian Schutzbund socialist organization.

issimo Francisco Franco. Then he returned to Austria and, in 1938, when he perceived that nazism would embrace Austria, he left for Palestine.

(The Washington Post carried a special report from its own correspondent at Tel Aviv, stating that Israeli police believe that Dr. Beer may have been an underground Communist since 1938 and might be a non-Jew. The correspondent reports Israeli police have discovered the suspect is not circumcized and are now working on the assumption that Dr. Beer was sent as a Communist undercover agent in 1938 to Palestine, from Vienna. There is also speculation in Israel over whether the Israeli Beer is actually the same person who originally had that name, the Washington Post reported.)

It was considered here significant that, several weeks ago, when Mr. Ben Gurion resigned from Premiership over the "Lavon Affair," Dr. Beer wrote, in an article in the newspaper Haaretz, for which he worked as military analyst, that Mr. Ben Gurion must stay on as Premier and that the only alternative to him is Moshe Sneh, Israeli Communist leader.

Tall, stiff Dr. Beer has many enemies among Israel's military leaders who are said to dislike him for his alleged "Prussian Officer" attitude. At one time, it is reported, General Moshe Dayan, then Israeli Army Chief of Staff, and Pinhas Lavon, then Defense Minister, had virtually cut him off from the contact with high mili-tary officers, shutting him out of the Defense Ministry and out of all official connection with military affairs.

Description Of Nazi Atrocities Leaves Trial Spectators Weeping

by Direct Wire

JERUSALEM, (JTA) — Attorney General Gideon Hausner, completing a nine-hour prosecution recital of the incredible Nazi atrocities against the Jews which left correspondents sickened and spectators weeping, told Adolf Eichmann Tuesday he would en-joy a privilege in his trial which he "did not accord to a single one of his victims," the right to defend himself.

Mr. Hausner told the court that the former Gestapo Colonel charged with directing the murder of 6,000,000 Jews would have his fate decided by law according to the evidence, with the burden of proof of his crimes resting on the prosecution. The judges of Israel, the Attorney General said, "will pronounce a true and righteous judgment."

Meaning of Genocide

When Hausner read a long list of Jewish scientists, writers and artists who had made distinctive contributions to European culture and described what the destruc-tion of East European Jewry meant for the Jewish nation, Eichmann sat with his eyes closed, slightly rocking the upper part of his body as if he were dozing.

"We will prove that the Jewish people were bereaved of many millions, certainly close to six million people," the prosecutor said. He added that Genocide meant more "than the destruction of more than a third of all Jews. It meant the extinction of Jewish communities which represented the most important ele-ment in the nation."

In the concluding portion of his statement, the Attorney General for the first time accused the Germans without qualification as "Nazis." He charged that in the spring of 1945, when the Hitler regime was falling under the blows of the Allies and the Russians, "the Germans tried to cover up their tracks and wipe out the memory of the hell they created." At another point he said that "the Association between Jewry and Germany represents the most tragic chapter in human annals."

Describes Treatment

Describing the horrible treatment in the Nazi camps and ghettoes in Poland, the Attorney General said that the only place in Maidenek where children were treated kindly was at the entrance to the gas chamber, where each child received a sheet before be-ing gassed and burned.

He said that at Maidenek a weekly race was held in which any inmate participant who lost a wooden shoe or stumbled was shot on the spot.

Summing up the statistics of murder, the prosecutor said that at least 200,000 Jews were mur-dered in Maidenek, 750,000 in Treblinka, 340,000 in Melmo and 250,000 in Sobibor.

As an example of the brutalities practiced in Sobibor, the prosecutor cited the practice of dragging to a lavatory persons who begged for water and wiping their faces with excrement., Another was the practice of setting dogs against prisoners who were torn into bits. In Sobibor, too, the prosecutor said, the practice was followed by clipping the hair of the doomed Jews before they were gassed and extracting their gold teeth before they were cremated.

He told the court that the Auschwitz death factory accounted for 2,500,000 victims who were annihilated in addition to the 500, 000 who died of sickness and starvation. He said this data was based on statements of Rudolf Hoess, the Auschwitz commandant who was hanged by the Allies after judgment at Nuremberg.

The prosecutor declared that Eichmann visited Auschwitz to order inmates to send assuring postcards to relatives.

The senders usually were killed before the postcards arrived. At Auschwitz, 2,000 victims died every 24 minutes in the infamous "shower baths" of Poison gas, the prosecutor said, adding that at Auschwitz grisley medical experiments were carried out on in-mates, including the removal of female organs and the injection of chemicals to "test resistance" of the victims. Sometimes the victims were exploited in forced labor in mines and forests before being murdered.

TEL AVIV, (JTA) - A total of 140 scholarships were distributed here this week by the American-Israel Cultural Foundation to winners from among more than 500 entrants. Among the scholarship winners were 44 pianists and 42 players of string instruments.

HAIFA, (JTA) — The Ford Foundation has granted $21,000 to the Technion-Israel Institute of Technology for a special research project on the problem of ventilation in housing in warm climates.

Paris Newspaper Says Eichmann Knows Of $750 Million Treasure

PARIS (JTA) — Adolf Eichmann, on trial for directing the mass-murder of 6,000,000 Jews in Nazi Europe, may be the sole living man who knows the location of $750,000,000 in cash and treasures hidden by the Nazi regime after robbing the Jewish victims, the French newspaper Paris Presse has reported.

Declaring that it received its information from Israel sources, the newspaper stated that, in 1944, Eichmann, with the help of other Nazi agents, opened bank accounts in Switzerland. One account, No. 2279, was allegedly opened at the National Bank of Berne. Another account, No. 1854, was reportedly in the Swiss Banking Union. There was alleged to be a third secret account.

The first two were in the name of Hans Eichlemann, a pseudonym for Eichmann, while the third account was said to be in the name of Franz Leers, former Nazi expert on anti-Jewish persecutions, who is now a "Jewish expert" in Cairo, employed by the United Arab Republic. The three cash accounts reportedly aggregate $1,250,000 in Swiss francs.

According to Paris Presse, Eichmann, entrusted in 1944 with the task of hiding various Jewish treasures, also took charge of many valuables buried in a forest near the Austrian village of Maria Enzeldorf. Those treasures were reportedly buried by Russian prisoners of war, commanded by a high Nazi, who ordered the Russians killed to hide their secret. Later, it is alleged, Eichmann had those treasures reburied, and he is now supposedly the only man alive who knows where the valuables are.

These valuables, the Paris Presse said, included a large ransom given to the Nazis by the Rothchild family in payment for the lives of some members of the Rothschild family. Now, the paper added, Israel would like to recover at least some of the money and valuables looted from Jewish victims by the Nazi regime, and hopes to achieve this recovery by convicting Eichmann.

Swiss Diplomat Refuses To Testify For Eichmann

VIENNA, (JTA) — A Swiss diplomat now serving in Austria, who managed to provide diplomatic protection for 50,000 Hungarian Jews marked by Adolf Eichmann for the gas chambers, refused this week a defense counsel request to appear as a witness for the Nazi in his trial in Jerusalem.

The diplomat is Charles Lutz, now Swiss Counsul General in Bregenz, who served from 1939 to 1940 as Swiss Consul General in Jerusalem. When Eichmann came to Budapest in 1942 the Swiss official intervened for the 50,000 Jews, most of whom survived the Nazi holocaust and emigrated to other countries, including Israel.

The diplomat later was invited to visit Israel where a street in Haifa now bears his name.

U. S. Attempts To Block Arab Refugee Resolution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., — (JTA) — The United States attempted this week to alter an anti-Israel resolution dealing with the Arab refugee problem, being debated in the General Assembly's Special Political Committee, and was promptly denounced by the most vitriolic spokesmen for the Arab bloc as an "advocate for Israel trying to defend Israel."

The American effort came in the form of amendments to a Moslem - sponsored resolution introduced before the committee on behalf of the Arab bloc. The resolution would declare that there is a "need to safeguard" property allegedly held with Israel by the Arab refugees. The Moslem draft would also order the Palestine Conciliation Commission to report to the next General Assembly, next September on its efforts to bring about "repatriation" of the Arab refugees to Israel territory, and to obtain compensation for the refugees from Israel.

Telling the committee that, in fact, no resolution on the refugee problem was needed at all, United States Deputy Permanent Representative Francis T. Plimpton declared that his amendments would place the entire Arab refugee problem in proper perspective. He proposed deletion of the clauses in the Moslem draft dealing with the Arab refugee property, and moved that the article in the draft dealing with the PCC be changed so that it would say simply that the Commission should report to the United Nations by Oct. 15, 1961.

The resolution as introduced

The resolution as introduced by Afghanistan, Malaya, Indonesia, Pakistan and Somalia, deals with the refugee problem in a "partial" manner, Plimpton held, is "controversial," and the entire matter should be left to the 16th session of the General Assembly, next fall. Plimpton reminded, the committee that, in any event, the next Assembly must review the entire Arab refugee problem, including all the activities of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees.

ROME, (JTA) — The Italian Jewish community was reported this week to be disturbed by the appearance in Osservatore Romano, the official organ of the Vatican, of an article suggesting that the Roman Emperor Titus probably felt he was justified in ordering the destruction of the Second Temple in Jerusalem and the dispersion of the Jews in 70 C.E.

A check can be worth any amount—millions of dollars to a few cents. Whatever the amount, the check itself probably cost the writer a dime. Now a dime may not seem like very much money (especially if you can sign a million-dollar check). But figure how many checks you write every year and multiply that by ten cents. Adds up, doesn't it? The answer: Stop in at The Union National Bank and open a free personal checking account. There's no service charge. No maintenance charge. No charge for new checks. No charge for deposits. All you do is keep a $200 balance and your account is free. Sound good? Stop in soon.

ISRAEL IN HER MATURITY YEAR

The thirteenth year! With what prayerful thanks, rejoicing and pride did we salute the State of Israel and the Israeli people on April 20. On that day, according to the Hebrew calendar, Israel marked the thirteenth anniversary of atzma-ut: independence. Born in bloodshed and tears, growing up in a time of unprecedented world tension, the tiny nation has endured and flourished. Amid strife and revolution, disorder and violent change, Israel has gone ahead steadily to build stable institutions founded on the rock of democracy. It has been a rough road in a very rough world: but Israel survives - and flourishes!

So accustomed are we to thinking of Israel as an "infant" state that it seems altogether strange - and entirely wonderful - that the young nation stands on the threshold of what we Jews regard as "maturity." In our tradition, that figure "13" heralds the Bar Mitzvah, when the young boy attains the age of religious maturity and of responsibility. He enters the assemblage of men and accepts the duties of manhood.

Faced with the extraordinary record of Israel's achievements since 1948, no one will deny that the State has already demonstrated a maturity far beyond its years. To reclaim soil laid waste by centuries, to build cities, schools, hospitals, ports, irrigation systems, to pioneer in science, to educate masses, to welcome thousands upon thousands of destitute souls and to transform them into productive citizens — all these are man-sized accomplishments which larger, older, and richer-endowed nations might well emulate.

The Talmud records that in times gone by, the Jews of Jerusalem were accustomed, "when the age has arrived, to bring the Bar Mitzvah before the priest or elder for blessing, encouragement, and prayer, that he may be granted a portion in the Law, and in the doing of good works."

World Jewry, and American Jewry, in particular, must be mindful that a thirteen-year-old, prodigy or no, continues to require help and support from his elders. Whatever we have given of our substance until now has helped the young nation through the trials of a difficult childhood. Now we look to the future, and pledge our love, abiding concern and assistance in the years ahead. In terms of years and of experience in a chaotic world, we are the "elders." It is for us to give our "blessing, encouragement, and prayer" so that the State of Israel may be granted a portion in the fulfillment of the Almighty's purpose in peace and in prosperity - and "in the doing of good works" for all mankind.

Discovering a "New World"

Jewel Of The Adriatic By Sadie S. Alter

Out of This World!

On the Dalmatian Coast, 300 miles from Italy, is an ancient walled city referred to in most glowing terms by writers and tourists. Now that I have visited Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia, myself, I can heartily agree that this "jewel of the Adriatic" is, in everyway, out of this world!

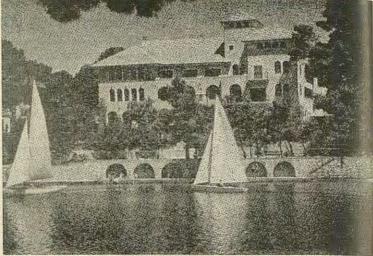

Yugoslavia herself is much like Roumania - - - a country rich in natural beauty and mineral resources. There are vast forests, streams and rivers well stocked with fish, and glorious snow-covered mountains for the intreped skiers.

Dubrovnik is primarily a winter resort, although its two-month Summer Festival has attracted drama devotees in recent years. and added to the city's popularity. It is certainly inspiring to performances of Hamlet, Othello and Midsummer Night's Dream from the Tower of Lerijenac, built on a rock 130 feet above the sea!

The Old - The New

The old walled part of the town is built entirely of stone, and as the streets run between and around the numerous hills, they are so narrow that people can almost literally shake hands across them. Even the houses in this area of the town, are so close together that the sun cannot enter them. Early in the morning, the housewives, carrying straw baskets, gather in the open-air farmers' market to buy fresh vegetables and flowers. Fresh flowers are the favorite decoration of Dubrovnik women for their sunless homes. In this old section we also saw the

A villa at scenic Dubrovnik.

Dominican Franciscan Cloisters. which dates back to 1317 and is at present a boys' school. The original pharmacy in the building is still filling prescriptions - perhaps a world's record for over six centuries of unbroken community service!

The newer area boasts many lovely villas and gardens, as well as attractive shops filled with native embroideries and souvenirs of wood and leather. Before visiting this part of the city we had gone sightseeing in the mountains, and had a near-accident when our car's brakes failed as we came tearing down from the heights! After this harrowing experience we needed something to relax our jangled nerves; afternoon tea at the Gradska Kafana was a perfect answer, and we were treated to an impressive exhibition of folk dancing and singing in the little theater there. In that setting, of joyous gaiety, it was easy to understand how Lord Byron had been inspired so many years ago to write of Dubrovnik: "The shore that never worries about the next snowfall they live in eternal How natural it is for because spring." scenic effects to induce poetic thoughts!

Jewish Security

Yugoslavia is a Communist country, but not a Russian satel-lite. The American tourist who has previously visited Russia or Russian - dominated communist countries finds the Yugoslavian atmosphere so very different that the similar political ideology is hard to detect; and because of United States aid to Yugoslavia, her citizens are exceptionally friendly to American visitors.

Unlike Russia and other Mediterranean countries, there is no anti-semitism here, and life for the Jewish survivors of Nazi persecution seems happy and secure. The country's Constitution guarantees the equality of all citizens, and makes incitement to racial or religious hatred a criminal of-fense. Before World War II there were 70,000 Jews in Yugoslavia; 50,000 of them perished and here again I heard more of the seemingly endless accounts of Nazi brutality. Today only 6500 Jews remain in the entire country, with their largest communities in Zagreb, Belgrade, and Sarajivo. They are served by twelve synagogues, four kindergartens, and a Jewish monthly newspaper.

In Dubrovnik, the surviving Jewish leader is a lawyer, Mr. Tolentino, a beloved and respected citizen. This slightly - built gentleman (and he is that, in the best sense of the word!) has kept the flickering flame of Jewish life burning for the nine members of the Synagogue where he is custodian. As Dubrovnik is not a center of Jewish population, this Synagogue is today more of a museum. It's ceiling is painted with stars, and it houses antique Italian can-delabra and a fine Oriental rug supposed to have been the personal gift of Queen Isabella to her Jewish physician when he fled from Spain in 1492, in face of the Inquisition. During the war the Nazis held Mr. Tolentino prisoner, insisting that he must know the whereabouts of his Synagogue's Torah, which in fact he had buried. His arrest was followed by internment at the Raab concentration camp, from which he was liberated by Tito partisans. I was fascinated by his informative conversation about leading Yugoslav Jewish families including his own and those of well-known international merchants and bankers, celebrated botanists, and the poet Jacobus Flavious.

It was good to learn from him that in Dubrovnik, all men are now free to enjoy to the fullest this lovely city. We sat together in the shadow of Tito's magnificent villa that overlooks the sea and recalled the warm enthusiasm of Eleanor Roosevelt after she had first viewed the natural scenic beauty of Dubrovnik.

Thus it was with great reluctance that I left here echoing the words of George Bernard Shaw: Everywhere in the world I have looked for Paradise, and found it! here.'

The Eichmann Trial

He Looks Like A Window Cleaner By HARRY GOLDEN

The first im-JERUSALEM pression of Adolf Eichmann, de-fendant in the most famous trial of modern history, is that he looks like a window cleaner. I mean no disrespect for this hon-orable trade of hard-working men but throughout the world there are many look-alikes, and Eichmann is a dead ringer for a window cleaner who used to operate along 49th Street in New York in the '30's. One fellow carried the pail and sponges and the fellow who looked exactly like Eichmann carried the squeegee.

I have given much thought to look-alikes today because of my own experience going to and from the courtroom here. All the ama-teur photographers kept snapping my picture from every angle. I later learned they thought I was Robert Servatius, the German lawyer defending Eichmann. To avoid repetition of this incident I am wearing a hat and do not carry with me the briefcase in which I toted a bit of Kentucky Bourbon for several newspaper colleagues here.

Attorney General Gideon Hausner answered the challenge of Jurisdiction concerning the alleg-ed kidnapping mostly by citing United States Circuit Court and Supreme Court decisions, notably in the case of Kerr vs. Illinois, where the defendant had been taken without warrent in Peru and brought to justice in Illinois and the Supreme Court ruled that this was a matter only between Peru and the United States and that the alleged criminal must stand trial.

Another case cited by Hausner was Pettibone vs. Idaho. This was the famous case which made the Prosecutor William Borah, a United States Senator, and Clarence Darrow became famous as the attorney for the defense.

The Attorney General did not go into these tidbits but did cite the decision that, while Pettibone had been taken from Colorado against his will the state of Idaho had the right to try him.

It was evident at the opening that the Israeli court intends to detail the entire course of Anti-Semitism in Germany, beginning in 1933 and ending with the massacre of 6,000,000 civilians. This line of attack came in the nature of a surprise. It had been felt that due to the delicate relations between West Germany and Israel, and the good will existing between Chancellor Adenauer and Prime Minister Ben Gurion, that the German past would be soft pedalled, with all concentration on the defendant.

When I asked an Israeli gov-ernment official about this, he replied that it was impossible to try Eichmann in a vacuum, and that the Israelis will stick to their earlier plan — trying the Nazi era — rather than seeking ven-geance against one man. The Prosecutor is no Thomas E. Dewey or Clarence Darrow, but his great restraint and lack of personality may actually emphasize the enormity of the crime which is being discussed before us. I have heard it a thousand times, but when Monica Dehne of Life Magazine and the girl from the German Press Office, who were seated behind me, began to weep uncontrollably, I had to retire from the courtroom.

A New System

Hausner pointed out that anti-Semitism is not something new, and was not invested by the Nazis. But, he added, they did invent a new system. In the past, Jews have been killed at a moment of fanaticism, either religious or due to some incitement, or some alleged incident, but never, before the Nazis, did people sit at desks and commit mass murder through the careful calculation and careful analyses of blueprints for gas chambers and incinerators.

Hausner agreed that Eichmann, himself, according to the evidence to be presented, killed only one Jew with his own hands — a little boy who had stolen peaches from the Eichmann garden in Budapest. But said Hausner, he will offer the evidence that Eichmann not only was the executor of the Nazi order for the "final solution," but actually went far beyond orders in determining the methods and extent of the slaughter.

There seems to be a new atmosphere about this trial, today, and to anyone trained in reading history, the sign is unmistakable that one hundred years from to-day, the entire Hitler Era may be summed up in an analysis of the Eichmann Trial in Jerusalem in the year 1961.

Meanwhile, most Israelis proceed with their daily tasks. Taxi drivers the world over are famed for their wisdom, but naturally, those in Jerusalem would qualify as minor prophets.

I asked my driver this morning what he thought about it, and he said, philisophically, "I earn too much to qualify for social and welfare benefits, and I don't make enough to enable me to live like an American."

PACE SETTER

By BARNETTA DAVIS LANGE

Mrs. Nathan Holstein

"When I was first vice president of B'nai B'rith, it took me a couple of months to realize that I might become president one day. The idea horrified me and I resigned," Mrs. Nathan Holstein resigned, Mrs. Nathan Holstein Te-called in a personal interview. "I wasn't seeking high office," she elaborated. "By nature I'm very shy. I was the kind of child that never opened her mouth in school."

Aware of her qualities of lead-ership, I would not have attributed shyness to her.

"I've changed," she added hastily when she saw my look of in-credulity. "I had to. If I was going to make any significant con-tribution to my community, I knew I had to outgrow my shyness. By conscious effort I became more of an extrovert."

Lillian Holstein is a perfect example of an individual whose revolt against injustice had to be notwithstanding. Her natural wall of reserve gave way before the stronger tide of her convictions. As she says, "It's what's in your heart that counts."

B'nai B'rith of course proved to be the perfect vehicle for her. Through its good offices she has been able to express her revolt against injustice in concrete terms. She has held money terms. She has within the organization; she has intently, from the time she "naive entered its ranks as a "naive young bride," remained dedicat-ed to its goals and ideals. Currently she is a member of the National Executive Board and in this capacity serves as National Youth Chairman. She has also been highly instrumental in forming new chapters. Of her many contributions to B'nai B'rith, she is perhaps most widely recognized for her work in membership retention, a particular phase which "bugs" her. The past five years shown tremendous progress in this area and an ambitious program well fulfilled. She was also a former president of Temple a former president of Sinai Sisterhood.

It wasn't only Lil's own recognition of the community's needs that propelled her into her humanitarian work. Her husband, Nate, has been a fountainhead of strength and inspiration. He more than anyone encouraged her in her early ventures; he felt that his young bride, a stranger to Pittsburgh, (she's a native of New York) needed the social contacts that community work would provide. "However," Lil adds, "B'nai B'rith has given me more than I could ever give it. It taught me many things." For instance it has taught her progress can be -- and indeed has been achieved only because of persistence and determination. She deplores lethargy and the "you-can't-change-it" attitude. "What the world needs is courageous people who are really willing to work and fight for their convictions."

And certainly Lillian Holstein has worked and fought for hers.

But if the Holstein household is strongly permeated with B'nai B'rith, it also has many other flavorful aspects.

The Holsteins are a family of six: father, mother, three sons and housekeeper Anne, who by virtue of her 21 year long devotion to the Holsteins, has an un-assailable place in the family. "She's the soul of goodness," Lil said, "and I couldn't have done all I've been able to do without her."
Nathan is an attorney and a past president of B'nai B'rith, Steel City Lodge. He is a former vice president of Temple Sinai and has been a member of its board since its inception. Nate is not only a valuable asset to his community, he's also a marvelous "man about the house" in this doit-vourself age. He's a good amateur electrician, plumber and handy man.

Twenty-two year old Steve, a Pitt graduate, currently employ-ed at Penn Overall Company, is a "born salesman," and is happy as "born salesman," and is happy as long as he's selling. Even as a child he indulged this propensity. "If you live in Squirrel Hill and a boy ever came to your house selling light globes, chances are it was Steve," his mother told us. He could sell a cummerbund to Tayran.

Eighteen year old Russell, a chemical major at Pitt and a high honor student, is quiet, sensitive and a "real brain. He's too deep for us," his mother states.

Thirteen year old Bruce, a high honor student at Allderdice, is the autroport of the family" is the extrovert of the family."

"We never have to worry about what Bruce is thinking, because he comes right out and tells us," his mother mused. "He represents his father's only hope for another lawyer in the family."

The Holstein hobbies are diver-

Steve likes sports; Bruce, stamp collecting and reading, particularly science fiction; Russell, unaccountably is devoted to music. Lil is an embroidery and needlepoint expert; she frequently volunteers to finish her friends' uncomplet-

First Blue-White Box Clearance Meeting Monday

BLUE-WHITE JNF Box chairmen show the antiquated boxes of previous years and the new box. (l. to r.) Ruth Krasne, Hadassah Group 12 chairman; Mrs. David Mallinger, vice-president in charge of Boxes; Mrs. S. Lubovsky, vice-pres. Pioneer Women and Mrs. Max Zweig, Pioneer Women Golda Meir chairman.

David Mallinger, JNF Blue-White Box chairman, has announced that the first JNF Box Clearance and Placement Workers report meeting has been set for Monday, April 24, at the Jew-ish National Fund Board Room, 430 Bakewell Bldg.

The current Spring Box Clearance and Placement, which will continue to May 15, coincides with the special 60th JNF Anniversary year of activities which are conducted in Jewish communities in free countries the world over.

Speaking at the Box Committee meeting, Mrs. Mallinger said
"The traditional JNF Box Placement and Clearances have been going on since the founding of the Jewish National Fund at the 5th World Zionist Congress in 1901."

Prof. Herman Schapira, of the Heidelberg University in Germany and the most outstanding mathematician of his time, conceived the idea of a "Jewish People's Fund to raise funds for the redemption of the soil of the ancient Jewish homeland." It was finally adopted after the immortal Dr. Theodor Herzl had succeeded in proving the necessity of creating such an instrument for the redemption, development and afforestation of the land, which once flourished and later was uprooted. He prophetically stated that Eretz Israel will again flourish and be fruitful

Having made the first collection personally for the JNF, Dr. Herzl helped in the creation of the first fund-raising instrument, which our grandmothers lovingly called the "Pushka" and which for nearly a half century has been known as the Blue-White JNF Box. Up to 1948 it had been the spiritual link between Jewish homes and the Zionist Movement and since then it has become the spiritual link between our homes and Israel.

During all these years the coin placed in these boxes have helped in the redemption and development of many deserts and swamp-lands into fruitful living areas.

On the occasion of Israel's Bar Mitzvah and the 60th Anniversary of the JNF, it is fitting to relate and relive the history of the founding of the JNF and its many, truly dramatic accomplishments which include providing the land basis for Israel's rebirth, the planting of 50 million trees in Israel, the reclamation and transformation of the Huleh swamp, which has become the major "bread basket" for the Is-raelis, the building of Malkiya, a security village on Israel's frontier, and many other miraculous achievements.

AS I SEE IT

By Milton K. Susman

A parcel of news we are pleased to share with the faithfuls of the congregation ... Beginning this Monday evening, April 24, "Operation Understanding" will depart temporarily from the usual nature of its programs to present for a period of several weeks each Monday night films of the Eichmann trial ... These will be full scenes and happenings at the trial, not brief film clips as have been shown so far on most television newscasts . . . Following the film will be a panel evaluation of the Pittsburgh Catholic, and implications and significance . For this special series "Operation Understanding" will be telecast a half hour earlier than usual . . . or at 7:30 o'clock and will run a full hour instead of the accustomed half hour . . . For next Monday evening's show the guests will include Andrew Bernhard, editor of the Pittsburgh Post-

Gazette; John Sheedy, editor of the subject matter and its

George Shorall, assistant city solicitor of the City of Pitts-burgh . . . This wanderer will moderate . . . We hope you'll be with us . . . and give us your reactions by mail or phone . . .

And as the robin bursts with song he has not yet been able to sing:

Adolf Eichmann must be a strange admixture of human ingredients . . . Here is a bloodless butcher who can sit as rigidly as a girder and hear his cannibalistic deeds recited for nine solid hours without so much as a twitch or a twinge . . . and yet will confess to his captors in Argentina: "I cannot claim my hands are clean . . I will not ask for mercy. I am not deserving of mercy... Perhaps I ought to hang myself in public so that all the world's anti-Semites can have the terrible nature of their acts made clear to them." . . .

What kind of flummery is this? What hollow self-debasement is this vile animal stooping to? . . Who is this vulture who . . for all his apparent stocisim would try to cry his way out of guilt for his crimes by blaming another pretty fair hangman, Heinrich Himmler, for imposing the orders which Eichmann against his will had to follow? Before the trial is much older, we may see this cold, stolid mass of cruelty collapse in a heap of shimmering protoplasm . the pathetic remains of a frightened, insecure coward . . . a nothing who for a brief, inglorious span of his wretched lifetime felt he was a something because he wore a uniform with a pistol . . . and had the power of determining who shall live and who shall die . . . Before the big decision is reached in his encounter with those who speak for the nameless millions whose blood stains the walls of his darkened soul . . . Adolf Eichmann will crawl . . . just as all pusillanimous creatures eventually do . . . if not from the Beit Ha'am courtroom to his cell . . . then in that meagre corral where he could spend the rest of his miserable days . . .

.And on this score . . . if Eichmann is imprisoned for life . . . rather than put to death which many allow is much too good for him . . . how will Israel be able to keep him beyond the reach of those who feel that only his blood is the proper, though insufficient, price to pay for all the blood that flowed through his fingers? . This makes interesting speculations these unseasonably cool, crisp Spring evenings . . .

Just so none of us gets the notion that Israel is a kind of shangri-la where there is only good . . . and no evil . . . up pops evidence to remind that even that mere weanling of a state is not free from the taint of the apostate . . . Wherever there is trust and confidence . . . there must also be traitors . . . And so it is with Dr. Israel Beer, a high-hanking re-serve officer in the Israeli army . . . who once enjoyed the full friendship of Ben Gurion and knew as much as any man of the confidences of state . . . But the germ of communism infected him ... and the cells multiplied rapid-. . until he found it easy to sell his country for a price . . . As between Eichmann and Beer ... how do you distinguish rodent from rodent? . . . By the suffering one has already caused as against that which the other could have brought down on his people . . . if he hadn't been discovered?

This week the sanctimonious John Birch Society added another name to its lengthening list of untouchables . . . The gentleman is General Edwin A. Walker, com-mander of the 24th Division, who reputedly spanked the Society for its-"brave, anti-Communist stand" and is alleged to have told a PTA gathering in Augsberg, Germany, that former President Harry Truman, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Eleanor Roosevelt are "definitely pink." . . . The John Birch folks are really riding herd through the countryside these days . . . but then they have no less right to fume and spout than other excessive reactionaries like the Liberty League of the thirties, the Know-Nothing Society... White Citizens Councils or Ku Klux Klan... So long as this is a free America . . . we've got to have with us those who remind us... as they go along making jackasses of themselves... that, thank God, it is still a land of freedom in which we like freedom in which we live . Some of this nonsense that the John Birchers prate is malignant, to be sure . . . The law of averages would see to that . . . But most of nt has the smell of idiocy ... and is largely sound and fury without substance . . . The John Birch Society could be a danger if we let its outrageous cant warp our reason . . . But if we do that . . . the roots of democracy in America's rich soil would wither of malnutrition . . . and this place would no longer be worth calling "home" . . . Would you let that happen? . . .

CRITENDDA...

Best wishes to Fred and Gail
Abel, formerly of Fifth Avenue, who are now in their home at 673
Artvue Drive, Mt. Lebanon...
Congratulations to the Sam Kohns of Morrowfield Avenue upon their 55th anniversary, an event of April 24 . . . They have 4 child-April 24 . . . They have ren, 9 grandchildren and 1 great Reverly Yahr, grandchild . . . Beverly Yahr, daughter of the Meyer Yahrs, has been pledged to Phi chapter of Sigma Delta Tau at Penn State . . . The Nathan Greenbergs, whom we congratulate, recently celebrated their 50th anniversary . The date, April 16, was also that of a wedding of their granddaughter, Marlene Shaer, to Sylvan Alpern . . . For the 14th consecutive year Murray Gerson, formerly of this city, was again Music Coordinator for the Aca-demy Award Show held in Santa Monica this week . . . Mr. Gerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gerson of Squirrel Hill, (who were in the audience at the Academy Award Show) is music librarian and arranger for the Metro Goldwyn Mayer Studios . . . month the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette Magazine Section carried an article about the 1936 flood . . . Prominently mentioned was Reuben Rogal of the Hydrology Branch of the Army Corps of Engineers . . . Reuben was instru-mental in "stemming the tides" and preventing future floods . . .

Literary note: You might enjoy, for light spring reading, Ephraim Kishon's LOOK BACK, MRS. LOT . . . Although some of the humor is contrived, the book will provide you with many a chuckle . . . Kishon is an Israeli author, and the book deals entirely with the lighter side of Israel . . . We will review it in these pages later this season . .

Musical note: For two consecutive weekends, the Pittsburgh Symphony has presented distinguished pianists as their guests . . . Last weekend, Theodore Lettvin, in a Liszt composition, and Byron Janis, performing Rachmaninoff's Third Piano Concerto.

We leave you with this thought: A businessman, seeing several hundred women in town for various meetings, couldn't help wondering if the problems they solved at their meetings were as important as the ones caused by their being away from home . . . See you next week.

Bad Luck Becomes Good For Attorney Shapiro

Attorney Leo I. Shapiro, candidate for judge of common pleas court in the May 16 primary, has last place on the Democratic ballot due to some unexpected good luck.

Last place on the ballot, believe-it-or-not, is an envied position in the forthcoming judicial contest - particularly when there are 26 candidates seeking seven nominations.

Attorney Shapiro didn't draw last place himself. He won the fortunate position when bad weather conditions delayed his trip to Harrisburg. By the time he arrived there the drawing was over.

When he phoned the state election department to find out his ballott position, a state policeman told him, "you're last on the Dem-ocratic ballot. That's good. Your name is easy to find."
Attorney Shapiro lives at 6401

Jackson Street, with his wife.

Charlotte H. and three daughters. He has practiced law in Allegheny County for 31 years with offices in the Law and Finance Bldg.

Attorney Shapiro is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and the Harvard Law School. He is a national panelist of the American Arbitration Association, in the commercial and the labor-management sections.

W. F, Fuchs, prominent Pittsburgh business and sports leader, is chairman of his campaign with headquarters in the Sherwyn

He is not afraid to take a stand on what he thinks is best for the court. Several weeks ago Candidate Shapiro announced that he favored the appointment of a court administrator.

Under his proposed plan the judges would work longer hours Monday through Friday and they would also work on Saturday. He "Instead of 271/2 hours a week in the courtroom the common pleas judges should work at Vote In The Primary least 35 hours. Court arguments could be held on Saturday.'

Some persons in high authority have recommended the addition of five more common pleas judges in order to end the court jam. Attorney Shapiro has vigorously op-posed this tax waste. He charged, "The addition of five more judges would cost the taxpayers an additional $125,000 a year in judge's salaries alone. The addition of five more court rooms would cost approximately $1,000,000. Instead of spending all this tax money, my recommendation is that the judges work more hours every week."

Experienced Al Lehnerd Candidate For Coroner

Experience is certainly the forte in the background of A.W. (Al) Lehnerd, Republican candidate for Coroner in Butler County

Lehnerd has been Deputy Cor-oner for the county since 1941 and previous to that had served in the Butler County Health Department, the Pennsylvania Department of Health, and had spent many years as an embalmer in Butler, Vandergrift, and Philadel-

He has also taken four-month courses at the University of Pennsylvania in public health ad-rennsylvania in public health administration and with the United States Public Health School on environmental sanitation.

Born and raised in Butler County, the 56-year old Lehnerd is quite active in civic groups, being a member of the National Safety Council, Pennsylvania Association of Safety Educators sociation of Safety Educators, Butler County Safety Council (of which he is president), B.P.O.E. #170 Butler, and the United Commercial Travelers.

Mrs. Tobias Candidate For Common Pleas Judge

Mrs. Alice Tobias

Alice Dobson Tobias is a candidate for Judge in the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court and will be listed on the ballots of both parties. She will be the 7th name on the Republican ballot, 21st name on the Democratic ballot.

Mrs. Tobias, a Duquesne Law School graduate in 1947, has been practicing since that time with her husband, Edward A. Tobias.

Many years ago she was private secretary to Abraham Oseroff, director of the Montefiore Hospital, where she assisted in the organ-ization of the Hospital Service Association (Blue Cross).

Mrs. Tobias is active with parent-teacher groups, is chairman of the N. Allegheny Joint Scholar-ship Organization, a member of the board of Trustees of Mt. Mercy College (where she received her undergraduate degree), and a member of the Board of Directors, United Fund of Allegheny County.

Election May 16th

Background Valuable Asset For Candidate Albert Fiok

Albert Fick

In the primary May 16, Attorney Albert A. Fiok is one of the candidates for the seven spots open on the Common Pleas Court bench. His background and experience is considered to be a valuable asset in attempting to bite into the backlog of cases which have become a sore spot in the administration of justice.

During 1952-1955 he was assistant district attorney under the administration of James F. Malone, Jr. From 1956 to 1960, he was connected with the Superior Court of Pennsylvania as a law secretary to Judge Blair F. Gunther, which gave him extensive experience in the ultimate disposi-tion of cases. At age 47, he has had broad experience in the trial of cases on a local, state and federal level, including the Su-preme Court of the United States, for a period of 21 years.

Fiok is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh Echool of Education and the School of Law. From 1941 to 1956 he served as a major in Military Intelligence with overseas service of two years in the European theatre. He has fought for court reforms since 1947 when he won a case in the United States Supreme Court to protest the right of defendants to counsel in criminal cases. Prior to that time, the criminal courts granted counsel to indigent defendants only in murder cases. He believes that the backlog of cases can be solved without additional judges if those elected are willing to work to capacity.

"The Court of Common Pleas," he said, "should not be a place for semi-retirement of judges but a place where the public demands conscientious work from those whom the public has elected to this high office."

A resident of the 18th Ward, he is married and the father of three children. He is active in many fraternal and social organizations and the public knows him as a capable, experienced attor-

Butler is a partner in the law firm of Weis & Weis with offices in the Grant Building. He is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, School of Business Administration and a graduate of the Law School. He is a veteran of World War II, having served 45 months in the Navy

During the years 1954 to 1958, Butler served as a lecturer on the faculty of the University of Pittsburgh, teaching legal courses in the School of Business.

It is Butler's contention that the courts should be staffed with judges from the rapks of quelijudges from the ranks of qualified lawyers rather than by appointment of judges and endorsement by whichever political party happens to be in control of the executive office at the time a vacancy occurs.

Shrinks Hemorrhoids Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astenishing ability to shrink hemorphoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. AS I SEE IT

Don't let the current issue of Look Magazine get too far away from you before you read one of its most stirring articles in years "The Second Battle of Atlanta"
... This capital city of Georgia is at once the sirew of the Old South and the blood of the New South . . . It is the focal point for die-hard segregations and the stomping-ground for Southern liberals . . . Look presents a striking cameo in word and picture of what has happened in and around that metropolis . . . which anyone would be the poorer for not having read . . . Incidentally, have you noticed Look has matured the past two years into one of the commanding periodicals among the magazine set today? . . .

Just before the turn of the year Dr. George Boas came to the University of Pittsburgh as Visiting Mellon Professor of Philosophy... He is on loan from Johns Hopkins University where he is professor emeritus of the History of Philosophy . . . and where he enjoys one of the rarest commodities in the world . . . the affectionate regard of his students . . Dr. Boas has not done so badly at -Pitt either in this respect . . . for although he is still a virtual newcomer . . . the students are rallying around him as though he were the Pied Piper of Maryland . . . And it is said this is not only because he is a very affable gentleman . . . but also because his candor is spontaneous and incisive . Growing, inquiring minds love this . . . and so might you, whatever your age, if you were to read Dr. Boas' animadversion in the current issue of Pitt Magazine, the literary monthly . . . in which he spoofs the sometimes revered but often sneered at Ph.D. degree . . Dr. Boas does a bit of roasting and for the utter delight of his sentiments we give a sampling of them to you:

"My criticism of the Ph.D. is that he usually is not a great scholar. He is usually a young man who has taken a required number of courses in a given field, written something called a thesis-which defends nothing -and passed an examination in the reading of French and German a few days before taking his orals. He is simply a person who has passed certain tests which test endurance, assiduity and a faculty's charity.

"Who in the world ever used an American Ph.D. thesis? The theses for the most part are not even published, which is a blessing, and those that are serve little if any purpose to anyone other than their authors. The young man who has written a really good one normally takes ten years or so after getting his degree to rewrite it and fill it out with substance.

"Oddly enough, there is one thing that saves us. More and more universities are developing departments of Fine Arts. Music and so-called creative writing. It is to be hoped that they will not award the degree of Ph.D. for paintings, musical compositions, and novels. But whether they do or not, the placing of the arts in the same position of that of the sciences and pseudosciences is a genuine leavening of lump. For by the practice of an art one may possibly develop an appreciation of it. When a student associates with another who is sweating out the writing of a novel or the painting of a picture, he may learn more about the Humanities than he would by first killing a work of art and then dissecting it. This is a very faint hope and I am not prophesying general reform. The universities so far have done next to nothing to further the production of works of art. What American Nobel laureate in literature got his ability from a university? My colleagues would probably say that the fostering of the arts is not the business of universities. I can merely retort that, if it isn't, they had better become schools of embalming and funeral direction."

So it is with Mrs. Dorothy Klein and her daughter, Roberta, who will get their bachelor degrees from the University of Pittsburgh in June, the former in education and the latter in business administracommunal doings in Squirrel Hill.

I'd say it's the first time a nice Jewish girl has played the role of a nice Jewish girl.

DAVID DORTORT, producer of the TV series "Bonanza" and one of my favorite Jewish producers, is readying a motion picture feature to star Dolores Hart and young Michael Landon, who had a major role in "Bonanza." Did you also know that Lorne Greene, who plays the father in "Bonanza," is of our faith as is Landon?

That certain columnist who wrote that Jerry Lewis claims he has succeeded in making simple films which even little kids can understand obviously overlooked something important - that most adults can't understand Jerry's films.

Governor Almond Defends Charter For Nazi Party

RICHMOND, Va., (JTA) — Governor J. Lindsay Almond, Jr., defended this week the State Corporation Commission's decision to grant a charter to George Rock-well, of Arlington, Va., to promote nazism in Virginia. In a letter to Joseph F. Baar, national executive director of the Jewish War Veterans, the Governor supported Corporation Commissioner Ralph T. Catterall for according "rights" to nazism, as a political movement.

Catterall had equated the American Nazi party with B'nai B'rith in justifying his decision to grant a charter to Rockwell. Replying to a protest by the JWV leader, Gov. Almond cited the Virginia state constitution, and added: "What you are demanding is that officials who have sworn to obey the constitution should disobey it. Mr. Catterall's reference to B'nai B'rith was not to equate that organization with the Nazis, but to point out that all applicants, whether they are the best, like B'nai B'rith, or the worst, like the Nazis, are entitled to charters no matter what he as an individual may think of them."

It was pointed out in Richmond, however, that the state had denied legal recognition to groups seeking equality for Negro citizens and to extreme leftist organiza-

Letter From Israel

INCONGRUITY OF TRIAL CHARACTERS By Yehuda Lev

The trial of Adolf Eichmann has just recessed after its second day of deliberations.

One can look back on the first two days of the trial in two ways. First there is the news story, the arguments between the defense and the prosecution, the charges and counter charges, the seemingly endless list of legal precedents being quoted, first by the Coun-sel for the Defense, Dr. Robert Servatius, and then, at even greater length, by the Attorney General, Gideon Hausner. This is the story that the correspondents are writing here in the press room at Bet Ha'am.

But there is a second aspect, one which, for lack of a better term, is being called the historic aspect of the trial. One thinks back to Hausner's statement of two days ago - that there is no such thing as an impartial judge in a trial of this nature, and, unless he is totally cut off from any human feeling and therefore not much of a person, let alone a re-porter, there can be, in all honesty, no such thing as an impartial observer. I too, have been influenced in my reaction to the trial as a historic event and it is these that I would like to discuss

The trouble with this trial is that it is all out of proportion. We watch Hausner, standing before the court in his black robe, reciting in a monotonous voice a list of charges against the defendant. His Hebrew rolls on, reciting crimes that are much too vast in their scope for anyone to comprehend. Only once, when he refers to 100 children murdered at Lidice, can we picture in our minds 100 children standing in a line. But he passes over this in a sentence and then continues -Auschwitz, millions of Jews dead and he names the kind of poison gas that was used. Treblinka, and another reference to poison gas, Chelmno, Sobibor, Maidenek - and then he goes into detail. Forced labor, forced abortions, forced sterilization, forced deportations, beatings, tortures - crimes without

He gets more specific. At Auschwitz about the stores containing the clothing of the dead, at the time of liberation, 348,820 men's suits and 836,255 women's dresses. Apparently even the women took care to bring a change of clothing.

But such reflections are for Hausner continues - the bodies of the dead were utilized. Train shipments containing vast amounts of hair, gold teeth and artificial limbs ran month by month from the death camps to Germany, bringing their plunder to be stored in underground vaults or banked in special accounts.

Then he returns to the numbers. The accused directed the operations od many special groups of the S.S. Operational Group "A" exterminated 80,000 Jews in Lithuania, 30,000 in Latvia, 7,600 in Byelo-Russia and others to a total of 135,000 Jews. Operational Group "B" exterminated 45,000 Jews in Byelo-Russia. Operational Group "C", 75,000 Jews in the Ukraine, Operational Group "D", 54,000 Jews - and so on to a total of six million.

And then - he finishes. And Hausner raises his left hand, cloaked in black, and swings it to the glass walled booth wherein sits the man who is accuesd of all this. All ever in the this. All eyes in the courtroom turn towards him - and what do they see?

A bank clerk.

A teacher.

A face in the crowd, a man who might be operating an elevator, or selling you a pair of shoes, who might in fact, be doing anything but sitting in a position of authority. Even as a policeman he wouldn't fit the part. Balding, thin, stooped, neatly dressed in a dark blue suit, he has stooped, neatly a face that no one would remember for two minutes after meeting him.

This is the mass murderer? No this is the poor schlemeihl, Tevya the Dairyman, whom Shol-Aleichem wrote about, even Tevya's Jewish nose slightly harassed look. Perhaps he cheated on his income tax once, or looked, sheepishly and without much hope, at his neighbors wife, or even, in a sudden burst of daring, stole a sweater from a store counter. But Auschwitz?

Please - find us a villain who fits the description. A towering man with black eyebrows and a dark countenance, with power in his movement and eyes that fill you with fear. Or a heavy man with rolls of fat, glowering, spilling out of his chair, exhuding hatred, a cigar hanging out of the corner of his mouth, with a voice that sounds like the Last Judg-

But this?

And then Dr. Servatius, ponderous and deliberate, rises to answer the charges and the courtroom is brought back to reality. He challenges, he argues, his pleas are made with courtesy and the proper references to learned Attorney General and their honors, the Judges. He calls the court biased, the trial illegal, the confession extorted. He quotes other learned judges from other countries, he points out that kidnapping is an offense, even when committed against a man accused of mass murder. He goes on like this for several hours, his voice carefully controlled, his manner respectful, but his air of authority always evident. In fact, place him in the defendants box and the accused in the lawyer's chair and some of the seeming contradictions of this trial would resolve themselves.

As I said, this trial is all out of proportion. Perhaps we have this feeling because we are all waiting for the 39 witnesses to testify. Not until then will the dry statistics and the long pages of legal terminology which comprise the indictment begin to take on meaning for those of us who did not live through the Nazi regime in

Until then the trial of Adolf Eichmann will continue to appear a vast incongruity and we shall continue to sit in the air conditioned courtroom watching a man whose face we would, at other times and in other circumstances, never remember.

$500,000 Presented At Tri-State United Jewish Appeal Conference

In one of the most festive con-ferences in the history of the Tri-State Region, United Jewish Appeal, 500 leaders from the area celebrated the Bar Mitzvah Anniversary of the State of Israel at its annual Luncheon Conference last Sunday at the Penn-Sheraton Hotel.

Climaxing the historic occasion was the announcement that over $500,000 in cash had been presented in community checks to Governor David L. Lawrence for the United Jewish Appeal.

Addressing the conference on. the Eichmann trial, Governor Lawrence declared "Never before has a nation's government been so determined that a trial shall be conducted fairly and without prejudice to the defense. We need only look at the preparation for the Eichmann trial, to see that Israel is willing to make any sacrifice to guarantee the rights of history's most terrible mass slayer."

Mayor Joseph M. Barr of Pittsburgh paid tribute to the 13th birthday of Israel by observing that "Israel has won a dramatic struggle for survival because it is solidly entrenched upon a firm moral and spiritual foundation.'

Yael Dayan, authoress and daughter of General Moshe Dayan, former Israeli Commander-in-Chief, predicted that some day Israel would be self-supporting and would be able to give rather than accept aid.
One of the most impressive highlights of the program was the lighting of the anniversary candles on a huge birthday cake by 18 boys and girls of Bar Mitzvah age from the Tri-State area, while they chanted the traditional "Shehecheyanu" in unison. Mrs. M. H. Fisher was in charge of the ceremony.

Meyer S. Mintz, regional director of the Tri-State Region conducted the roll call of leaders who presented the community checks. Many checks represented advances against both Spring and Fall campaigns which are yet to be conducted or completed.

Following are the names of the community leaders and the a-mounts of the checks they presented:

Byron Janis Guest Artist With Symphony

Ranking among the most sig-nificant events of the 1960-61 season of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra is the return of Pittsburgh's own, dynamic Byron Janis to the Syria Mosque stage. Mr. Janis, fresh from his triumphs in the concert halls of the Soviet Union, will be heard with William Steinberg and the Pittsburgh Symphony in Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 3 in d minor, Pittsburgh and Sunday Friday evening afternoon.

Mr. Janis was born in McKeesport, Pa., but moved to Pitts-burgh with his parents just before entering school. It was his first kindergarten teacher who dis-covered his perfect pitch and covered his great enthusiasm for music. Four years later, he made his recital debut at Carnegie Music Hall, where he was heard by the great pedagogue, Josef Lhevinne, who urged his parents to take him to New York to study with Adele Marcus of the Juilliard School of Music - which they did. In a single year he had advanced so rapidly that Vladimir Horowitz, the great pianist, took it upon himself to guide the McKeesport-Pittsburgher's career for several years.

From that time forward, the young pianist's career went from one success to the next - including world tours, recording dates and festival appearances minating in his great tour of Russia last Fall, during which, according to Tass, his profound musicianship reduced many to tears of sheer emotion and pleasure.
