FOR A SHORT WHILE it appeared that Samson was at Harvard University. Yes, Samson, Shimon Hageebor, the Samson of the Bible whose great strength, long hair, and difficulties with Delilah form one of the best-known stories. A skeleton of a man in Harvard's Peabody Museum had been unearthed on Mt. Carmel and some people have suggested that it was the skeleton of Samson. One of the "clues" was that it had been buried with a large jawbone of an animal. Now it is true that Samson once slew "a thousand men" with the "fresh jaw-bone of an ass" (Judges XV, 15-16) but it is also true that "he cast away the jaw-bone out of his hand, and called that place Ramath-lechi." Of course, he might have got another jaw-bone since he seemed to be pretty handy at that sort of thing. But when he died, he didn't have one. He died in the banquet hall which he had caused to collapse upon some 3,000 Philistine lords and ladies who had come to make sport of this judge of Israel. But he was given a peaceful burial and not one that suggested a final struggle with some animal. We read: "Then came down his brothers and all the house of his father, and they took him up, and carried him up, and buried him between Zor-ah and Esthaol, in the burying place of Manoach his father." The curator of European archaeology does not believe it is Samson. He thinks it is one of the Neanderthal boys who seemed to have some difficulties with icebergs in early days and who have a habit of turning up once in a while much to the delight of archaeologists and museums. No one has suggested whose jaw-bone Mr. Neanderthal was holding. It might have been the ancestor of some of the present-day orators whom we have heard.

NONSENSE

The General Council of the United Church of Canada has adopted a resolution urging England to "continue her task in Palestine for which she is peculiarly fitted by experience." What experience? The American colonies? India? It goes on to deplore the "unjust criticisms of British endeavors on the part of a section of our fellow citizens." Boo hoo, poor mistreated England. Maybe we ought to send her some more lend-lease munitions to protect her against the citizens of Tel Aviv... A Dean of New York University defends classes on Saturday which prove a hardship on orthodox Jewish students on the ground that not to have them would discriminate against non-Jewish students. Doesn't that institution have a course in logic? Isn't it possible for the complaining Jewish students to select courses which occur on other days? ... Switzerland's original refusal to allow the Zionist Congress to meet in that country was based on the fear that such a meeting would increase anti-Semitism—which is as good an excuse for refusing any request as has ever been invented. Isn't Switzerland supposed to be a neutral country? Is it possible that Bevin sent them a communication that such a meeting would be embarrassing to Britain? ... A French newspaper is printing the infamously untrue forgeries known as the "Protocols of the Elders of Zion." But other papers are publishing the truth about them. But the people who believe the protocols probably don't read the other papers.

Arabs Announce Palestine Plan—Jews in Minority

JERUSALEM, Oct. 4 (JTA)—Creation of an independent Arab state to be governed by a Parliament elected by the entire male population over 18 was proposed for Palestine in the plan submitted to the London conference by the Arab representatives, according to the text published this week in the local Arab press. All Jewish immigration would be stopped and the present land restrictions would remain in force.

The Arab proposals provide for a British-appointed interim government composed of seven Arabs and three Jews, which would hold elections for a constituent assembly of 60. This assembly would vote on a constitution to be submitted by the interim government. All males over 18 who had been residents in the country for at least ten years would be eligible to vote for members of the assembly.

JERUSALEM, Oct. 4 (JTA)—The 22nd World Zionist Congress will open in Basle, Switzerland, the first week in December, it was announced here this week by a spokesman for the World Zionist Executive.

He said that all obstacles have been overcome and that a press office has already been opened in Basle. The Congress will be the first since the outbreak of the war.

After the assembly had adopted the draft constitution, elections would be held for a Palestine Parliament, which would elect a head of the state, to take office no later than December 31, 1948. Prior to the establishment of the Parliament, the executive powers would be in the hands of the interim government, with the High Commissioner reserving the right of veto.

Hebrew would be the second official language of the country, and the Jewish community would be allowed to preserve its own network of schools, provided that the education "not be poisonous."

(Quoting highly-placed Arab sources, the Associated Press reported from Jerusalem that an Arab "shadow government" for Palestine had been organized last week-end at Alexandria, asylum of the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem. These informants said the shadow regime would in effect have the Mufti, Ham Amin el Husseini, as "President of the Republic," and his cousin, Jamal Bey Husseini, deputy chairman of the Arab Executive, as "Premier and Secretary of Foreign Affairs.")

British Evacuate Some Families in Palestine

JERUSALEM, Oct. 4 (WNS)—Whatever may be said at the London conference, British authorities here are reportedly preparing for the continuation and perhaps extension of unrest in the country.

According to authoritative information preparations are already under way for the evacuation of some wives and families of British officials. In the past few weeks British authorities have sent private instructions to their officials that their wives and families should make arrangements for possible evacuation from the country. It is said that some have already made the necessary preparations.

The proposed evacuation is said to have a sobering effect on the restricted circle that knows about it. Those in the know consider it an indication that the authorities are not overly optimistic about the pacification of the country via the London negotiations and are anticipating new troubles.

New Arab Political Party Asks For Program of Modern Reform

By R. S. GORDON

(World News Services—Exclusive)

JERUSALEM, Oct. 2 (By cable)—A new force in Palestine political life will shortly make its appearance in the form of an Arab political party which will challenge the sway of the entrenched old families and be committed to a program of modern reform.

Secret discussions on the formation of the new party began a year ago, according to this writer's information, and the sponsors have agreed on a program. Those in the know say that the decision has been reached to launch the new party publicly early in October. This decision will be carried out unless unforeseen circumstances delay the official announcement for a short period.

The sponsors of the projected new party include elements high in official Arab leadership who feel the need to break with traditional policies. Their plan is to create a modern reform party with certain similarities to the genuine liberal parties of the west. Their program calls for an independent Palestine, labor and land reforms, wide extension of educational facilities and other "new deal" plans.

Regarding the Jews the new party will not follow the extreme nationalist line of the dominant Arab leadership, nor will it be favorable to official Zionist demands. But it will have, it is said, a more positive attitude based on acceptance of the Jewish community as a fact and a readiness to acknowledge the place of the Jews in the fight for Palestinian independence.

Among those who have participated in drafting the program and launching the party are a bank director, a chamber of commerce representative, advocates, doctors and intellectuals, with an appreciable following of socialist minded individuals. The party will include elements that are left of center and will be middle-class reform party with an apparent readiness to collaborate with labor and other elements on the basis of a mutual fight for independence and progressive domestic measures. When it materializes it will represent the emergence of something unprecedented in Arab politics: a political party reaching from the upper middle classes to labor around a program challenging the basic concept of the effendi (Arab landlord class) and the traditional Arab leadership.

The mood of some sponsors of the new party is indicated by the

Moscow Jews Jam Synagogue for Services

By L. Nikitina

MOSCOW, Oct. 4 (JTA)—Four thousand worshippers jammed this city's principal synagogue, which has an official capacity of 2,000, for Rosh Hashonah services.

Thousands of others crowded the street on the outside to follow the ceremony from loudspeakers. Three smaller Moscow synagogues and 25 in the suburbs were described as equally crowded.

The congregation in Moscow's chief synagogue consisted mostly of the middle-aged or the elderly. Only a quarter of the worshippers were young people. The majority of the men did not wear prayer shawls but most of them had new prayer books, which were printed in Vilna. A few of the men, mainly railway officials, were wearing uniforms. The women in the gallery were fashionably clothed. During the service, many of the participants were emotionally stirred and burst into tears.

Agency, British To Resume Talks On New Proposal

By BERL CORALNIK

JTA-Outlook Correspondent

JERUSALEM, Oct. 4 (JTA)—The Jewish Agency and the British Government will resume discussions this week looking towards Agency participation in the London conference, following new proposals made by the government.

A hurriedly summoned meeting of the Agency executive decided Sunday that "in view of His Majesty's Government's new approach to the Jewish Agency, Rabbi Judah L. Fishman and Eliezer Kaplan will go to London to consult with members of the Jewish Agency there and in Paris concerning preliminary negotiations aimed at creating the essential conditions which will make possible the Jewish Agency's participation in the London conference."

An Agency spokesman refused to reveal the details of the government's new offer. He said, however, that the Agency "now has a good deal of freedom to act, even without consulting the Small Zionist Actions Committee."

High Commissioner Sir Alan Cunningham met last week-end with Mrs. Goldie Meirson, acting political chief of the Agency, for an informal talk concerning the Zionist attitude towards the London parley. Mrs. Meirson is reported to have informed Sir Alan that release of imprisoned Agency leaders to enable them to attend the conference was a prerequisite for Agency participation.

Informed circles here expressed hope that the new negotiations may

Can Claim Nazi Seized Property in U.S. Zone

MUNICH, Oct. 4 (JTA)—Nearly 250,000,000 Reichsmarks worth of property, the great bulk of which was formerly owned by Jews, has been seized by the American Military Government in Bavaria and is currently being administered under the strict supervision of its property control division, it was learned today.

Military government officials told the Jewish Telegraphic Agency that Jewish property totals about seven percent of all properties seized by the American forces. The properties are administered by a German custodian who regularly submits his books and accounts to the Americans.

A military government spokesman said that when a Jew now living outside of Germany writes the A.M.G. stating that his former property was confiscated or sold under duress, the military government investigates the claim, and if the Jew's story is corroborated, the property is seized whether or not the present owner is considered politically reliable. In the case of a private home, the resident is not evicted but he must pay rent to the American Military Government.

The property is now being held in trust by the Americans pending the adoption of a final restitution law which is being drawn up now by German provincial officials and American military officers in Stuttgart and Berlin.

A Man With a Mission

Rabbi Meir Malin

By DR. ASHER ISAACS

"The only explanation I can give as to why my life and the life of my brother has been spared is that we were fated to establish a living monument to the millions of fellow-Jews whose fate was a miserable death."

Thus spoke Rabbi Meir Malin, youthful, energetic, well-educated and versatile in Hebrew, Russian, Turkish, Yiddish, French, and German. Although in this country but a few weeks, he has likewise made remarkable strides in English.

Rabbi Malin's presence in Pittsburgh suggests what he hopes will be the end of a long journey—a journey that started from Brest-Litovsk where his father was Chief Rabbi and continued from country to country, always a few steps ahead of the Nazis. For a while, he found refuge in Japan. The end of the war found him a leader of the Jewish community in Shanghai among some 20,000 refugees, where he established public kitchens for the poor, rescued Jewish children from non-Jewish groups, and undertook to impart Jewish education as well.

Build In America

We asked him about this living monument that he wants to build. He told us that having rescued a number of his Talmidim and brought them to this country through the willing cooperation of the State Department, he wanted to build in America, a Rabbinical Seminary, the Brisker Yeshiva, which would carry on the traditional training of rabbis and educated laymen.

We asked him where he planned to locate this institution which he hopes will have worldwide influence. His answer surprised us, but it came without hesitation. "Pittsburgh," he said, "is the logical center for such an institution. New York, Cleveland, Baltimore, and Chicago have their institutions. Pittsburgh does not. Yet it enjoys an ideal location and is peopled with the type of Jew who understands Jewish education and whose contributions to many institutions of learning prove that Torah is a part of their lives."

We interrupted to point out some of the "disadvantages" of Pittsburgh—something not pleasant for a Pittsburgh booster to do. We mentioned housing conditions, the problems of supporting such an institution, the winning of co-operation of local Jewish leaders including the rabbis, the question of secular education for the Talmidim, and a host of others.

"I Am Convinced"

But undismayed by these "disadvantages," Rabbi Malin told us that he had thought through a number of them; that his experiences had taught him the spirit of co-operation; that his goal in life is constructive; that he never engages in controversy. "I am convinced," he said, "that when your local Jewish leaders hear my plan through and see its possibilities, that they will give the institution enthusiastic support. To that end, I am now making contact and hope shortly to be able to announce the make-up of a committee of leading Jews who will help carry through the plan if it meets with their approval. In the meantime, I am looking forward to meeting other Pittsburghers to get their reactions."

Rabbi Malin is staying temporarily at the home of Oscar Winter of 6401 Forward Avenue. After a short visit to New York where he will contact persons interested in the Brisker Yeshiva, he plans to give his full energy to the founding of his institution.

result not only in the release of the Agency chiefs, but also in a general amnesty for all persons seized since June 29, with the exception of those suspected of complicity in terrorism.

Addressing a press conference this week, Jacob Shapiro, acting political adviser of the Agency, charged the Palestine authorities with "lawlessness" and abuse of their powers under the Emergency Defense Regulations in keeping detained, 1,500 men and women, the bulk of whom have never had charges filed against them.

He cited as other examples of the government's abuse of power the curfew in Tel Aviv and the House-to-house searches. Palestine, he charged, is a country where "habeas corpus does not exist, where the authorities are not obligated to give a lawful explanation for their acts and where a man acquitted by a court of law can immediately be arrested and detained for an unspecified time."

Entry of 250,000 Jews To U.S. Asked in N.Y. Resolution

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (JTA)—A resolution was introduced this week in the New York City Council calling for the entry into the United States of 250,000 displaced European Jews. Emphasizing that the American people also favor the transfer of 100,000 Jews to Palestine, the resolution points out that since more than a million other Jews in Europe are faced with despair and destruction, the United States should provide them with a permanent haven in line with this country's tradition of providing a home for the "suffering and oppressed." The proposal, introduced by Councilman Eugene P. Connelly, is in line with the recent recommendation of Mayer O'Dwyer.

LIFT! LISTEN!
then DIAL!

PLEASE DON'T DIAL until you hear that steady hum-m-m-m. Otherwise, you waste your time, get the wrong number or no number at all, and slow up service.

There may be a slight delay before you hear the hum-m-m-m, because we're short of the new equipment we need to take care of the tremendously increased volume of telephone calls.

There would be few delays if everyone listened for that hum-m-m-m before dialing.

Unveil Monument to Nazi Victims at Minsk

By Zachar Shapiro

MINSK, Belorussia, Oct. 4 (WNS)—A monument to the victims of Hitlerite atrocities was unveiled here last week, in the district of the former Ghetto. It is erected in a ravine where the bodies of 5,000 massacred people (mostly women and children) were thrown after a pogrom on Purim Day 1942.

Thousands of people began to visit the monument as soon as it was erected. There were many mothers, weeping for their lost children, and children honoring the memory of their dead parents.

Mourning inscriptions are carved in two languages, Yiddish and Russian, on the black marble obelisk. At the foot of the monument lies a huge wreath, the bands of which bear the inscription in two languages "To the victims of fascism from a group of officers."

fact that the first draft program even included demands for land distribution and state ownership of industry. This plank was abandoned after lengthy discussions but the program finally accepted is based on a vigorous reform spirit.

The official public launching of the party was decided upon several times in the recent past but postponed. The moving spirits are now being urged to take the first step without delay, but pressure for postponement is still coming from right wing circles. What the public's reaction to the new party will be time alone will tell but it is certain that it will inject a new progressive note into the political scene of the country.

Jews As Farmers?

Capital Spotlight

By BEATRICE HEIMAN

FORMER SECRETARY OF COMMERCE HENRY A. WALLACE would like to see American Jews make the same success in agriculture in the United States as they have done in Palestine.

In an interesting, and little-noticed speech at the National Farm School Golden Jubilee Banquet, Mr. Wallace expounded his ideas on Jews on the land. His remarks deserve wider circulation. With slight pruning, to fit this column, they follow:

"Thirty years ago I met a graduate from the National Farm School who was managing a dairy out in Iowa. Finding a Jewish farm boy in Iowa thirty years ago, was a phenomenon that made a deep impression on me. He had been well-trained. He was an excellent dairy manager. But more than that, he was a symbol—a symbol of Jewish boys from the cities eager to earn a living on the land.

"I Am Fascinated"

"For a number of years, I have been fascinated by the exploits of Jewish farmers in the Near East—just as I have been convinced of the wisdom of a Jordan River Valley Authority, with the irrigated land of southern Palestine and Transjordan available to Jews and Arabs on an equal basis. And I am happy that, when I was Secretary of Agriculture, I had something to do with the mission of Dr. Walter Lowdermilk, of the Soil Conservation Service, which did such excellent work in showing the development possibilities in Palestine and Transjordan.

"But I have never been able to see any reason why outstanding Jewish agricultural exploits should be confined to the Near East. To me there is something peculiarly appropriate about the Jews making an equal success on the land here in the United States.

"Twenty percent of the people of the United States make their living by working on the land. This 20 percent is the seedbed for nearly half the next generation. Why shouldn't 20 percent of the Jewish people also live on the land? The Jewish people have always been welcome and safe here in the United States. They have a common share in our proud heritage as a free people. They don't have to keep their belongings in liquid form—just in the event that they may have to flee overnight to a place of safety. We have no laws against the Jewish people owning land. And when a higher percentage of the Jewish people are on the land, our national life will be all the healthier.

Prominent in Science

"Of course, it usually is easier to make money in other ways than by farming. But money is not all there is to life. Surely, the unsurpassed contribution of Jews to all of the arts and sciences is sufficient evidence of this fact. And, because I have worked so closely with so many fine colleagues who were of Jewish faith in Washington these past thirteen years, I want particularly to testify to their unsurpassed and unselfish service to their government—to the government of all Americans.

"From my own knowledge and experience, I disagree utterly with those who say—for either curious or questionable reasons—that the Jews, inherently, are not adaptable to agriculture.

People of the Land

"In the first instance, the sons of Jacob were people of the land. And when Moses led the children of Israel into Palestine, they were shocked by what they felt to be the shameful commercial practices of those city slickers, the Canaanites. Many of the most vigorous prophets were farm people—speaking out against the evils of cities.

"In this day of technological development, from a scientific and an economic point of view, we are now coming to the time when there must be decentralization in our highly-industrialized life. More and more of our workers in the cities are going to be part-time farmers with five, ten, or fifteen acres of land on the outskirts. More and more of our industrial areas are going to be decentralized. Modern transportation, electricity, and atomic energy will see to that. So also will the very nature and desire of man himself.

"I Look Forward"

"Agriculture is the place where science and the art of living are most fruitfully joined together. Hopefully, I look forward to the day when there will be as many Jewish scientists in agriculture as there have been in the development of atomic energy. The National Farm School I know is concerned with training Jewish boys to do a practical job on the land. Nevertheless, if the National Farm School is as great a success in the future as it has been in the past—and I am confident that it will know even greater days—the result inevitably will be the development of a great Jewish agricultural university. Then the Jewish spirit will flow back again to the land—the land from which it derived its greatest strength when the Jewish race was born—the land which produced Amos, who of all the prophets was the most passionate exponent of social justice.

"Prophetic genius will never be derived from machines or science. It comes directly from life. By heredity and tradition the Jewish race is rich with prophetic fire. That is why I covet for the Jews the additional impetus which will come from a renewed and richer contact with the soil."

Leaders Appointed to Prominent Positions in Community Campaign

Among those appointed to prominent positions in the 1946 Community Chest campaign are Edgar J. Kaufmann, who will be chairman of the Public Relations Division; Stanley J. Kann, vice-chairman in Unit I, which includes the campaign's Special Gifts and County Divisions and the campaign in McKeesport; Jacques Blum, chairman of the Commercial Division, and Richard Rauh, vice-chairman of the City-Neighborhood Division.

Mrs. Theodore Haber, Mrs. Harry Epstein, and Mrs. Abe Caplan will serve as majors in the Women's Division, which handles solicitation in Squirrel Hill and Shadyside; Mrs. Robert J. Frank, Mrs. Robert C. Grauer, and Mrs. William Shapera will be co-majors.

In the Commercial Division, M. A. Silver will head the Motion Picture Group, and Ralph Grodstein will serve as chairman of the Optical Group.

Emanuel Spector, who served in the same capacity in last year's Red Feather campaign, again will be chairman in Area 14 in the City-Neighborhood area, which includes upper Fifth Avenue. I. Oseroff will be Industrial Chairman for this area.

Rabbi Albert T. Bilgray, of the Temple of B'nai Israel, will serve as co-chairman of the McKeesport Red Feather campaign.

This year's Community Chest drive, scheduled to open October

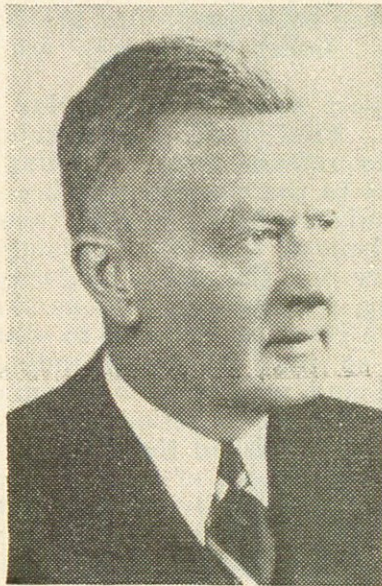

17, will raise funds to finance the 1947 operations of 90 health and welfare agencies in Allegheny County, and for Allegheny County's share in the National USO campaign. The 19th annual unified drive, symbolized by the Red Feather, will be conducted under the slogan, "Everybody Benefits, Everybody Gives."

Succoth In 1492 and 1946

ON THE NINTH OF AB (Tisha b'Ab) back in 1492, the edict of expulsion of the Jews from Spain went into force and somewhere between 150,000 and 800,000 Jews left that country.

On the tenth of Ab, Christopher Columbus, seeking a new route to the Indies passed some of these refugees who were on board miserable ships seeking a new place where they could live.

Columbus' diary opens with these cryptic words: "In the same month in which their Majesties issued the edict that all Jews should be driven out of the kingdom and its territories, in the same month they gave me the order to undertake with sufficient men my expedition of discovery to the Indies."

On Succoth in 1492, Columbus discovered America.

That Succoth back in 1492 witnessed about the same number of dispossessed Jews seeking a haven from oppression as the Succoth of 1946 witnesses.

The situation today is even more tragic than back in 1492. People then were in the Dark Ages. Today people are supposed to be enlightened. Then the known world was well crowded and religious freedom was unknown. Today with the principle of religious freedom established, with Palestine willing to take in 100,000 Jews immediately and up to 5,000,000 ultimately, political barriers set up by a few men serve to keep the needy from finding a haven.

Would that these politicians could see their similarity to Torquemada and the other benighted leaders of that horrible and degraded period of world history. Would that the countries with unoccupied land could open up their acres to the dispossessed of Europe, Jew and Gentile alike. These leaders may think that they have the last word. But the last word is always had by the historian who lives after them and assigns them their role in history. The historian of modern times is always especially critical of those whose whole motivation was unnecessary cruelty. The latter are given their just desserts in the form of ignominy and condemnation.

Of course there have been many happy Succoth seasons between 1492 and 1946. There will be many more in the future, too. But happiness must be in terms of being allowed to sow in order to have the satisfaction of the harvest. This is the happiness which is the rightful heritage of every human being. Slow as progress may be towards this goal, we must not give up hope of reaching it. Let us remember that there is a Palestine today just as there was a New World opening up when the Old World had become intolerable.

"Not a Question of We or They"

THE PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL Conference of Christians and Jews has expressed a very real concern over public disputes which have been breaking out between Protestant and Catholic leaders. He has referred to this situation as "a step backward from the significant progress toward greater civic co-operation and understanding between religious groups in the United States."

As we look about us and note the public disputes going on everywhere between religious groups, between whites and negroes, between employer and employee we cannot help but be concerned over the apparent breakdown of the fairly harmonious relationships which held during the war and the much finer relationships which were promised us as a result of the war. The revival of the Klan is but a symbol of perverted thinking which apparently gives to any white American of the Protestant faith the right to hate Catholics, Jews, foreigners, and Negroes. The defeat of legislation which seeks to remove religious and racial discrimination from conditions underlying employment is another symptom. The flood of hate literature is another. The alleged popularity of certain reactionary radio commentators is likewise another warning that all is not right in America.

But of all of these controversies, the religious is the most serious. Labor disputes can be handled by arbitration. Flagrant cases of racial discrimination can be handled by law. The flow of hate literature can be stemmed in part by postal and legal action. Klan activities and similar activities can be curtailed somewhat by an aroused public opinion.

But when leaders of one religion make pronouncements against the tenets or views of another, a situation arises which lends itself to no known means of settlement. Legal action is out; arbitration is out; debate is useless; common sense is futile; logic gets us nowhere. What happens is that the differences between leaders become the basis for hatred between the followers of the religions involved. And hatred is not the basis for any sound society.

As Dr. Clinchy has warned, "It is not a question of 'we or they' for Catholics and Protestants and Jews anymore. Americans who believe in God have a terrific responsibility together to extend the recognition of moral law and its observance in civic relations. On that basis only can the United Nations' political and economic relations prosper." He likewise points out that "some differences between groups are real and important. Other differences are based on errors."

The part which we must play as Jews is twofold. First of all, it is incumbent on each of us to refrain from repeating or giving credence to the canards which one religious group might charge against another. We firmly believe that this warning is hardly necessary for the great majority of Jews. Secondly, we must, each of us, do all in our power to interpret Judaism to other religious groups so that misunderstandings will be avoided and misconceptions removed. This can best be done by action rather than words. Let it be established that the right living of the Jew grows out of the fact that Judaism dictates such right living; that it does not result from fear of the law, fear of non-Jewish neighbors, or minority status. When this has been established, a firm basis for mutual respect is likewise established.

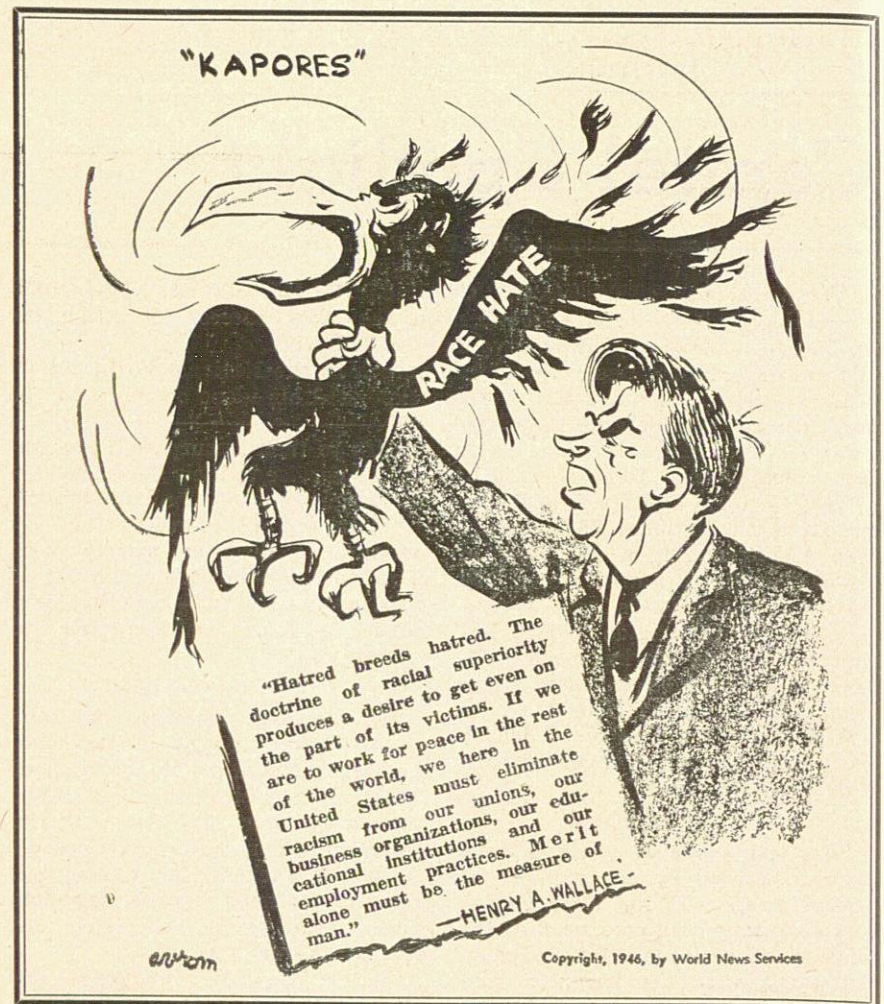

Vulgarizing the Jewish Religion

Why must some Jews profane and vulgarize some of our most sacred ceremonies? We refer particularly to the debasing of the wedding and Bar Mitzvah ceremonies, especially in the Metropolitan areas. These affairs, which have gained momentum under the guidance of professional entrepreneurs, have become mockeries of once beautiful ceremonies. Parents subject their helpless sons to weird rites in which the lads go through the business of marrying the Torah under a canopy. Parents use their sons 13th birthdays as excuses for splurging on lavish parties at which night club entertainers steal the show from the Bar Mitzvah. All of this gaudy display is presumably in celebration of the fact that the boy heroically plowed his way through a few lines of Hebrew, but the party should really be held in honor of the teacher who risked a breakdown in guiding the lad through his ordeal. If the Bar Mitzvah ceremony is to have any meaning, we will have to change the stress from uncouth celebrations to the Jewish preparation of the boys who participate in the ceremony. This can be done in the more moderate sized communities where Rabbis still exert considerable spiritual influence.

Our simple and spiritually significant wedding ceremonies are also being debased. Cane-wielding guards of honor, masters of ceremony who strut down the aisle yelling "No applause, please," announcers proclaiming "Here comes Miss Katz, the groom's cousin," and similar charming innovations, are converting our weddings into monstrosities. Of course, the singing "Oh, Promise Me" and "Because" has already become an indispensable part of the ritual. A bride at whose wedding these were not sung would consider herself to be living in sin. There is Jewish music and Rabbis should call it to the attention of couples planning their weddings.

These vulgarizing tendencies can most effectively be counteracted in our non-metropolitan communities where Jewish standards can more effectively be observed.

Between You and Me

By BORIS SMOLAR

ZIONIST AFFAIRS: It can now be revealed that Zionist leaders in the United States were not kept informed by the Jewish Agency concerning the negotiations which were carried on in London with regard to participation in the conference on Palestine . . . And the Jewish Agency leaders who conducted these negotiations are not happy about the Zionist Actions Committee vote against participation . . . They have been placed in a peculiar position vis-à-vis the members of the British Cabinet with whom they bargained . . . The truth of the matter is that the protracted talks practically resulted in the Cabinet members becoming indifferent to whether or not the Jewish Agency joined the conference . . . The feeling in British official circles is that the Jews will submit their views in writing, even if they don't attend the conference . . . The government is planning, therefore, to have these views, together with the memoranda submitted by the Arab delegations at the conference, analyzed by a special commission . . . Only after this commission submits its findings, will the Cabinet take a final decision with regard to Palestine . . . All this tends to indicate that no new policy with regard to Palestine will be announced by the British Government for at least another two months . . . Meanwhile, the Jewish Agency office in New York is concentrating on mobilizing the maximum possible good-will of Latin-American statesmen on the Palestine issue, which may come up before the General Assembly of the United Nations next month . . . With the European countries cool towards the Zionist demand for a Jewish state, and with Russia advocating the independence of Palestine as a whole, Zionist leaders lay much hope on Latin-American representatives at the United Nations . . . In fact, they believe that these representatives could play a very important role counteracting the efforts of the Arab state.

FACTS AND FIGURES: The New York Public Library now has about 63,000 volumes of Judaica and Hebraica . . . And the Library of Congress in Washington has about 50,000 such volumes of which forty thousand are in Hebrew and ten thousand in Yiddish . . . The Harvard College Library at Cambridge has a rare Jewish section with 25,000 books in Hebrew and Yiddish . . . The Yale University Library has about 15,000 such volumes . . . The Columbia University Library has a collection of 12,000 books of Judaica and 6,000 of Hebraica . . . The New York University Library has about 10,000 such volumes, while the library of New York City College has a collection of 7,600 volumes . . . The Jewish Theological Seminary has 129,727 Jewish books and booklets printed in more than fifty languages and dialects . . . The Seminary also has 7,800 manuscripts—the largest collection of any library . . . The American Jewish Historical Society has the largest collection of books, booklets and periodicals on American Jewish history . . . It includes more than 9,000 books, about 1,500 periodicals and 6,000 booklets . . . The library of the Hebrew Union College contains about 125,000 volumes . . . It also has a rare collection of 59 Chinese-Hebrew manuscripts which belonged, about 100 years ago, to the synagogue at Kai-feng Fu . . . The library of the Jewish Institute of Religion has 52,000 volumes, and the Dropsie College library possesses a similar number of books . . . The Yiddish Scientific Institute has on file about 30,000 books and 6,000 Jewish periodicals published in all parts of the world during the last century . . . The Yeshiva University has about 45,000 volumes . . . The American Jewish Committee library owns about 15,000 books and booklets dealing chiefly with modern Jewish problems, and especially with anti-Semitism . . . This interesting data is culled from a special study by Solomon Kerstein, noted American Jewish bibliographer, published by the Jewish Book Council of America.

HERE AND THERE: Jewish groups in New York are forming a $25,000,000 corporation to do business with Palestine . . . And American Jews whose funds were "frozen" in Palestine under war emergency regulations are beginning to get annoyed . . . They wonder why these accounts are not being "defrosted" . . . In fact, the British Government promised to "defrost" the accounts of American citizens when it obtained the huge U. S. loan . . . However, no indication has been given so far by the British as to when Americans will be permitted to freely transfer their deposits from Palestine banks . . . A sensational expose of British Gestapo methods in Palestine is contained in an article which will appear in the forthcoming issue of the New Palestine.

United Jewish Fund Meeting to Honor Workers of 1946 Drive

Dr. Maurice N. Eisendrath, recently returned from the Paris Peace Conference, will headline the tenth annual meeting of the United Jewish Fund which will be held on Wednesday evening, October 23, in the ballroom of the Schenley Hotel. Harold A. Goldstein, chairman of the annual meeting committee, has indicated that the UJF annual meeting will also be the occasion for honoring the workers and chairmen of the recently completed 1946 United Jewish Fund Emergency Appeal.

Dr. Eisendrath, executive director of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, attended the Paris Peace Conference as a member of the American Jewish Conference Delegation.

This year's annual meeting will be far more than the occasion for the presentation of reports by the fund's officers. The meeting follows hard upon the unprecedented Spring campaign which was geared to the tremendous overseas needs for immediate rescue, relief and rehabilitation of Europe's surviving Jewry.

It is expected that Nathan M. Katz, president of the fund, will be able to report to the gathering at the annual meeting that the local Jewish Community has met its promise to send to the United Jewish Appeal, currently engaged in an historic national campaign for one hundred million dollars, the sum of $1,000,000. The United Jewish Appeal, by far the largest single recipient of the Fund, provides monies for the far-flung program of the American Joint Distribution Committee; for the stepped up program for the resettlement and up-building of Palestine; and for the resettlement program of new arrivals in America of the United Service for New Americans (formerly National Refugee Service).

The slate of twelve new nominees to the United Jewish Fund Board of Directors will be presented for approval at the annual meeting. They include: Walter Burke, Harry Seiner, Jacob Goodman, Richard S. Rauh, Sidney Stark, Mrs. Florence Reizenstein, Stanley J. Kann, Judge Benjamin Lencher, Emanuel Spector, Nathan M. Katz, Oliver M. Kaufmann and I. R. Raphael.

Serving with Harold A. Goldstein on the annual meeting committee are Jerry Abel, Samuel Goldstock, I. R. Raphael, Max Rogal, Donald S. Steinfirst and Ferdinand T. Weil.

Executive of the Jewish Labor Committee to Speak Here

Jacob Pat, executive secretary of the Jewish Labor Committee, will address a meeting on October 13 at 8:30 p.m. at the YM&WHA.

Mr. Pat, who made his home in Poland until the outbreak of World War II, returned there earlier this year. He spent 60 days touring every city, town and village where Jews have returned since the end of the war and has brought back with him thousands of letters from survivors to their relatives in the States. The meeting is open to the public, and admission is free.

JNF Box Clearance To Be Held During Chol Hamoed Succoth

Mrs. Abe Dunn, chairman of the Jewish National Fund Box Committee, has announced that the next semi-annual blue-white JNF box clearance will take place during Chol Hamoed Succoth.

Members of the various women's groups affiliated with the Council will visit the homes of all box holders for clearance purposes.

Miss Perkins to Speak At Sisterhood Meeting

Miss Frances Perkins, former Secretary of Labor, will speak on "The Destiny of Labor" at the first open program meeting of the Rodef Shalom Sisterhood on October 18 at 2:15 p.m. in the J. Leonard Levy Hall of the Temple, Fifth and Morewood Avenues.

In 1919 Miss Perkins was appointed a member of the New York State Industrial Board, and in 1926 became its chairman.

In 1929 Miss Perkins was appointed Industrial Commissioner and in 1933 she became the Secretary of Labor in the late President Roosevelt's Cabinet. Under her thirteen-year administration as Cabinet member, American Labor emerged with shorter hours, higher pay, unemployment insurance, social security and old age insurance, and workmen's compensation.

Frances Perkins resigned in 1945

as Secretary of Labor. President Truman has recently appointed her as a member of the U.S. Civil Service Commission. She will become one of the three members of the Commission responsible for regulating the federal civil service.

Mrs. Louis R. Jacobs, president of the Sisterhood, will preside at the meeting, and Rabbi Burton E. Levinson will give the prayer. A social hour will follow.

By HASKELL COHEN

IF YOU KNOW YOUR BASKETBALL HISTORY YOU HAVE HEARD OF LOU SUGARMAN. Make that Dr. Lou Sugarman since he is a dentist practicing in Philadelphia. Sugarman learned basketball the hard way—in alleys and back streets. After a brilliant college career which took him to Syracuse and Notre Dame, among other institutions of higher learning, the good Doc took to basketball officiating. He is still active in Philly high school circles.

In Philadelphia the court denizens will regale you by the hour with tales of Sugarman. They say his handling of a high school game is something to see since he does a lot of coaching on the side. If a team is losing by a big margin he tells the captain, "Call a time out." When time is called Sugie hurries to the huddle and demands: "What does your coach teach you kids? Don't you know how to move that ball, why don't you pass it to that fellow cutting under the hoop?"

After the huddle Sugarman occasionally looks the other way while the losing team inadvertently incurs a foul. If the situation is right he will coach the losing team while it brings the ball down the floor, telling each boy where and how to move.

Life was a barrel of fun for referees when they worked in the old American Pro League. Twenty years ago Ft. Wayne was the toughest town for an official to work in. If the whistle tooter didn't call them to suit the home towners, woe betide him. He was lucky to get out of town alive. Pat Kennedy, famous court arbiter, once told this corner that he had to stay locked in the dressing room until four in the morning before he deemed it wise to sneak out and hustle to catch a train out of town. Other officials had similar experiences in Ft. Wayne.

Sugarman happened to be working a Fort Wayne game that was very important to the home club. The star of the Fort Wayne five was Rusty Saunders, a great pivot player, who virtually ruled the town. Rusty was a big easy going fellow who could break an opponent in two with one crunching blow. As the game waxed hotter, Sugarman called a foul on Saunders.

As usual the crowd began to hoot and snarl, while Saunders added salt to the wounds. He grabbed the ball from Sugarman's hands, threw it into the stands, and started to threaten the arbiter. Pointing his finger in the dentist's face, Saunders muttered, "If you dare call another foul against me, Sugarman, you will leave this hall a dead man."

As the crowd continued to roar in anger Sugarman blew his whistle for silence. He motioned to the stands to keep quiet. Saunders also motioned to the audience to stop jeering. When order returned and he could be heard Sugarman pointed to Saunders and shouted: "Another foul on Saunders before I die."

On one of the trips with Sugarman, Eddie Gottlieb and Jules Aronson, guiding lights of the Philadelphia Warriors, had the pleasure of making a train trip with the referee from the City of Brotherly Love. As the conductor approached Gottlieb's bedroom Eddie turned to Sugarman and said: "Where is your ticket, Lou?"

Sugarman calmly replied, "Ticket? Who needs a ticket to travel on the railroad?"

So saying Sugarman reached up and pulled down the upper berth in Gottlieb's bedroom and climbed aloft. "Shut this berth after me," instructed Sugarman.

Gottlieb and Aronson swung the berth over the crouched referee's body. After the conductor collected his fares from Gottlieb and Aronson, the berth was forced down and Sugarman dropped down to the floor.

"That is the way to travel," explained the court official, straightening out his crumpled suit.

Mish Mash: There is a rumor around Broadway that Barney Ross, who gave himself up as a dope addict, will be financed to the tune of $100,000.00 by friends eager to help the ex-welterweight champ regain his health... Immediately after changing to a Ted Williams bat model, slugger Hank Greenberg proceeded to wallop six home runs in the course of a week's play. Hank appears to be a cinch for forty home runs this season, making the fourth time in his major league career that he has reached that figure. Not bad for an ex-soldier supposedly on his last legs.

Membership Campaign Of 'Y' Nears Finish

In spite of the power strike the 1946 "Y" Membership Campaign continues in an unretarded pace toward its goal. According to Herman Fineberg, campaign head and chairman of the "Y" Membership Committee, plans still call for the termination of the drive on the original date, October 10.

All teams have been busy covering their prospects and, except for an occasional inconvenience induced by the city-wide tie-up, the workers have been meeting with encouraging results. It appears that the community is cooperating with the team-members to make the current efforts the most telling in "Y" history.

As the home stretch approaches, several teams are bunched in the hot race to the finish line. Although Captain Meyer "Buck" Gefsky's gang is still hanging doggedly to the lead it has held since the opening of the drive, its supremacy is being challenged by other teams. Captain David Mendoza's crew and Captain Charles Silver's stalwarts are keeping right up in there, as is Captain Harry Schaffer's band of faithfuls. Plenty is being heard from "Doc" Spector's boys and also from Abe R. Cohen's and David Olbum's fuel-gatherers.

Particularly gratifying is the response from ex-servicemen who have been granted a free one-year membership in the "Y" out of appreciation for their service to their country. With that complimentary card, they came to look upon the "Y" and its manifold facilities as a center to full and varied activity, and as a result they have rejoined on regular memberships.

Verdi Opera to Open Beegle Concerts Here

The "May Beegle Series Concerts" launches its season on October 12 with Verdi's Opera "Il Trovatore" at Syria Mosque. With a company of eighty, including an orchestra of forty top musicians, an all-star cast of America's ablest younger artists, a hand picked ensemble, new costumes and eight new settings, the four-act production is designed to satisfy the ticket-buyers' eyes and ears. Fritz Mahler, famed international conductor, is the company's musical director, while Desire Defrere, stage director of the Metropolitan Opera for the past fifteen years, is artistic director. Featured in the leading roles here will be soprano Norina Greco as the ill fated Leonora; Martha Larrimore as the gypsy, Azucena, a contralto; Rafael Lagares as Manrico, the tenor troubadour, and Daniel Duno as the baritone Count di Luna.

Pittsburgher Joins New York Philharmonic Orchestra

Nathan Stutch, cellist, is now a member of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra which begins its regular Sunday broadcasts on October 6 at 3 p.m. over CBS-WJAS.

Mr. Stutch, a graduate of the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stutch of Juliet Street Oakland.

By FLORA M. ISAACS

EVERYONE HAS LOOKED FORWARD TO POSTWAR PLEASURES, but one that couldn't have been predicted is that this year Florida's juicy oranges, big, firm grapefruit and gay tangerines will be in the market whole months ahead of schedule! Kind weather has speeded up fruits of Florida's groves. Spring and summer saw ideal growing conditions. Ample rainfall in July gently nudged on the good work of Mother Nature, and the result is fruit of superb quality, superior size and early maturity.

Time was when Florida's thin-skinned, juicy oranges debuted each year in November. But this year September not only shoots them in but the usual late November grapefruit specials will be harvested this month.

Although it's autumn now, Florida's limes still tarry to send a ripple of refreshing flavor through fall main dishes and desserts. If you've never known Florida limes except in 'ade treat yourself to a fragrant tropical flavor by liming your repertoire of favorite salads, fish dishes and desserts.

Like its big sisters, oranges, and grapefruits, limes have vitamin C to make this fruit as important for nutrition as it is versatile for menu uses.

Nutrition experts say vitamin C should be part of the daily diet since the body does not retain its supply of vitamin C, and it must be renewed each day. Nature makes it easier this year to get the vitamin C you need, for citrus fruits are the richest natural sources and with the fresh abundant supply on hand even before it was expected, it will be simple to dovetail vitamin C into breakfast, lunch and dinner daily.

FLORIDA LIME FISH SAUCE

4 tablespoons butter or margarine

4 tablespoons Florida lime juice
2 teaspoons chopped parsley
1/8 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon salt

Melt the butter or margarine slowly; stir in the lime juice, parsley and seasonings, and serve hot over cooked fish or over hot cooked vegetables for piquant flavor.

LIME DINNER ICE

1 cup light corn syrup
2 tablespoons sugar
1 1/4 cups water
dash of salt
1/2 cup Florida lime juice

Combine syrup, sugar and water and heat until sugar is dissolved. Cool; add salt and lime juice. Pour mixture into freezing tray of an automatic refrigerator with temperature control set at the coldest point; freeze until firm, stirring occasionally. Serve with fish dinner. Makes 1 1/2 pints.

NEW SANDWICH SLANTS

2 tablespoons lime juice
1/2 teaspoon grated lime rind
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup mashed avocado
1/4 cup lime juice
1/2 teaspoon grated lime rind
dash of salt
1/2 cup finely ground prunes

Either of the above combinations "zips up" a sandwich. For the avocado mixture just combine all the ingredients, mix well and spread on bread. For the chopped prune spread, mix well and chill one hour before using.

1 large hubbard or 3 medium acorn squash
1/2 teaspoon salt
dash of pepper
2 tablespoons butter
4 Florida oranges

Bake squash in a moderate oven until tender; remove seeds, scoop pulp from shell and mash. Cut the oranges in half crosswise, scoop out pulp, strain and add strained pulp to mashed squash. Add salt, pepper and butter, mix well; pile mixture back into orange shells and return to oven for ten minutes. Serve hot. Makes 4-6 servings.
